Expect Compromise Offer for 238-Acre Stavros Development

By Charles Mouratides

A compromisa on the layout of the 238-acre Stavros development expected to be proposed to the Village Board of Trustees tonight may get the multi-million dollar project off the ground.

The village trustees heve been bending the architectural plans of the development to conform to their standards and have been closing possible loopholes which could allow future alteration in the use of the land.

The Stavros development is located wast of Arlington Heights Rd. and north and south of Nichols Rd. and it includes single-family residences, multiple-family units, a small commerical area and an 18-hole golf course.

LESS THAN e month ago the trustees tabled the proposed plans because, a 15-acre area on the north side of the development was proposed for multiple-dwelling zoning. According to tha trustees, it could have opened the way for apartments in the surrounding undeveloped lands.

William Moore, tha developer's attorney, said that tonight be will propose two solutions designed to isolate the land under consideration.

A tier of single-family lots along the boundary of the 15 acres and n commerical area reportedly could shield the undeveloped lands from predetermined apartment zoning.

MOORE WILL make an alternative proposal, too zoning all 15 acres for single family units.

The legal committee of the board, which studied the two proposals, naithar recommended nor rejected them in its report to the trustees.

The trustees had previously asked a guarantee for the indefinite zoning of the golf course to avoid future veriations. They received it.

AT THE SAME time, the trustaes and the developer have been trying to reach a compromise on the price of a 56-acre querry which the village may decide to use as a sanitary landfill. Other methods of garbage disposal also are being studied.

The quarry is adjacent to the development. Major beneficiaries of the whole property are borthers James and August Stavros and N. W. Nessett.

Two Abandoned Buildings Burn to Ground

Two abandoned buildings in Wheeling Township burned to the ground Sunday night.

A home. vacant for more than two years, burned on Arlington Heights rd. and Palatine. The area is served by the Prospect Heights Rural Fire Protection District.

Volunteer firemen form Prospect Heights fought the blaze and attempted to keep it under control.

Lt. Donald Gould of the Prospect Heights department said the main job of the 15 or 16 volunteers was to keep the fire from spreading to surrounding areas and nearby prairies.

FIREMEN and equipment from Palatine and Arlington Heights arrived at the scene to assist if necessary.

"When wa got there it was so far gone and thera was nothing to save," said Lt. Gould.

Shortly before midnight, the fire started again and the Prospect Heights men were called to extinguish it.

After the first fire call was received the Wheeling Fire Department was summoned to extinguish a fire in an abandoned barn on Palatine Rd., west of Wheeling Rd.

Police received a call from a resident who thought he saw the persons responsible for starting the barn fire. When police checked the car they found it belonged to a man and his family who told police they saw the flames and stopped to watch the fire.

Carriers Oppose Panel Findings

WASHINGTON -- A White House panel's recommended 5.5 per cent a year wage increase to settle the nation's railroad labor dispute is being challenged by the carriers, but the unions are indicating satisfaction.

Shortly after the recommendation was announced late Friday, rairoad spokesman John P. Hiltz Jr., said the carriers felt it was "clearly inflationary and it cannot be supported by the evidence that was made availabla to the special board."

AFL-CIO President George Meany, however, endorsed the proposed settlement.

1 Dead in Auto Crash

An auto accident Friday claimed the life of a 20-year old Arlington Heights man and seriously injured his 19-year-old companion.

Scott Vickers Thornton of 1009 W. Oakton St. was dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital early Saturday morning.

Illinois State police said the car in which Thornton and a friend, Edward W. Jensen, were riding, ran off the road and rolled over on Quentens Rd. near Ill. 62 in Palatine Township.

Jensen, of 1440 Arlington Heights Rd., Arlington Heights, was found by police shortly before midnight Friday, when he crawled out to the highway from the scene of the accident. Police said the car was not visible from the roadway and it took them at least two hours to locate the car and the body of Thornton. Police said they have not been able to determine who was driving the car.

Jensen is in the intensive care unit at Northwest Community Hospital and his condition is reported as "satisfactory."

Funeral services for Thornton will be Tuesday at 11 a.m. in the Latuerburg & Oehler Funeral Home in Arlington Heights, with the Rev. Robert S. McDonald officiating.

Honor 17 Mail Drivers For Safety Records

Postmaster Virginia F. Dodge salutes 54 years of driving Arlington Heights post office trucks without an accident as she pins a gold medal on the shirt of Arnold Hildebrandt. He has completed six years of accident-free driving. With her and Assistant Postmaster Robert Proebstle (right) are nine of the 17 men who just completed a year without an accident. Drivers in the front row, from left, Chester Person, Bruce Johnson, Chester Prondzinski, James Service and Richard Hartmann. Back row, from left, Arnold Holdebrandt, William Bennett, Gerold Jones and Kenneth Anderson.

Ronald Barmann of the Arlington Heights Post Office this week begins his second decade of driving a mail truck without an accident. Barmann and 16 othar mail truck drivers in Arlington Heights, Rolling Meadows and Elk Grove Village are receiving from Postmaster Virginia F. Dodge gold medals for having maintained a perfect record during the past year. Altogether the men have a record of 54 years of driving without an accident.

"The driver of a mail truck averages about 4,000 miles a year", said the postmaster. "This means that a man who has completad 10 years without e mishap has driven 40,000 to 50,000 miles without a mishap. This is important to both the driver and the post office. The driver avoids the possibility of injury and the post office avoids the delay and expense of having one of its trucks tied up for repairs."

Assistant Postmaster Robert Proebstla said, "In order to avoid an accident for aven one year or one week a driver has to be careful, constantly alert and even a little bit lucky. Our experience this year proves that it is necessary to be lucky. We had five mail truck drivers involved in accidents and in every instance the police found that the other driver was to blame."

"WE HAVE HAD a few drivers who heve driven for 10 years or longer without an accident. Our assistant superintendent of mails, Alvin Kehe, drove a mail truck for more than 10 years without an accident," said Proebstle.

"I would say thet commonsense is the precious ingredient in maintaining an accident-free mail truck driving record", said Alvin Kehe.

"The season makes a lot of difference," Kehe said. "Winter is by far the worst time. Snow makes the streets slick and at times covers up the mail boxes especially after the snowplows get done. During the other seasons rain is a special hazard.

"Our most difficult streets are the through streets such as Route 14, Rand and Dundee Roads."

"THERE ARE some factors which make it easier to drive safely too", said Kehe.

"Having the steering wheel on the right side so the driver does not have to get out of the truck is a great safety feature. We have speciel lights, and this is most important. Many of our trucks are equipped with buzzers that

'Will Bargain in Good Faith,' Dist. 214 Tells Teachers

BY MAXINE TYMA

A promise to bargain "in good faith" was made to members of the High School Dist. 214 Teachers Assn. Saturday by Dr. Frank Smith, president of the board of education.

Approximately 100 teachers attended a meeting established to discuss the proposals of the association made to Dist. 214.

Richard L. Eckert, president of the association told board members the proposals, submitted in the spring, remained the same in tarms of an increase in the base salary and Increases in "fringe benefits" offered the teachers by the district.

ECKERT said an increase in the extra duty increments would serve as a stimulus for obtaining teachers.

"You could increase us by roughly 30 to 50 per cent and we need 100 to 125 per cent to compete with surrounding districts," Eckert said of the extra duty pay.

"I feel we as professional people justly can ask that the educational tax rate be increased because it would enrich the whole educational program in many areas," he said.

Eckert cited as one reason for requesting the increase in salary, "The educational growth demanded of teachers to keep abreast of educational changes taking place within tha last 15 years."

"The cost in industry is borne by industry to better the industry. The cost are born by tha individual in the teaching profession," he said.

Eckert said at the age of 40 a man in business "starts to move." Ha said in tha teaching profession a man who has a master's degree at the age of 40 is "frozen" on the salary scale.

"We feel we are losing an unnecessary amount of good teachers to the administrative end. We also need good teachers in the classroom who will be rewarded for their effort. I feel certain the money is available and it will take a concerted effort on both our parts to come up with it. It is a profession of which we are proud," Eckert told the board members.

THE ASSOCIATION asked for an informal meeting with the board members prior to Sept. 26 when the tax levy has to be filed with the office of the county assessor.

One of the requests of the teachers is an increase in the base salary from the present $5,900 to $7,000 for tha 1968-69 school yaar. Tha base salary is given to a new teacher in the district with a bachelor's dagree and no teaching experience.

Letter from Arabia

By Catherine O'Donnell

Carl and Catherine Hodges have received a letter from the Paul Woodside family who live in Dhaharan, Saudi Arabia. The Woodsides are with the American Oil Company and are old Arabian residents. They recently returned to Dhaharan after spanding the summes in Illinois.

They had a difficult time getting out of New York because the flights to Arabia were all booked.

The Woodsides and their four children left just before the Arab-Israeli war broke out and they were very concerned about their home and what might be happening to it. A letter that Catherine and Carl, who live on N. Yale, just received describes what did happen.

Mrs. Whiteside confesses that, "Neither one of us are too happy to be back. The good old USA looked better and better the longar wa stayed.

She goes on, "From what we've been hearing now, we sure missed out on all the fun.

THE AMERICANS were scared out of their britches the first week of June. The day after the war startad and Nasser blamed the Americans for interfering, Arab mobs broke into our camps, I'm sure, intending to get an American or two. But since they didn't have guns they did the next best thing for them, destroyed as much as possible.

"The offices closed down when the war broke out but the mobs managed to get into some of them; broke windows; broka into homes and tore them up.

"Some of our friends in Dhaharan were banged around. Cars were overturned and some of the people were man-handled. Only a miracle kept some of the Americans from being killed. The mob leaders and Arab instigators were later lined up and shot by Arab Government troops.

"THE ONLY thing that happened to our house occurred when some joker stuck a hose in our front window one night and turnad tha water on.

"My neighbor, bless her, checked the home regularly and found an inch and a half of water on the living room floor heading for the kitchen and the bedrooms.

"Fortunately we had only rug down in the living room and it sopped up the water pretty well and being nylon, it dried rapidly after being outside for a few days.

"Aramis (their house boy) came and took care of everything so the mess was cleared up and the house back in order by the time we got back. I feel very lucky to have gotten through a war that easily——."

BUSY BLOCK

The 800 block of N. Vail is not too long but this year most of the residents had a great deal in common to talk about and to compare notes. There have been five weddings so far this year on the one block.

Michael Horsher of 829 married Lynda Nygren of Des Plaines on April 22.

Judy Johnson of 830 married William Roode of Orange, Calif. on Aug. 19.

Toni-Lynn Marsala of 820 married Carl Bruggar of Bloomington, Ind. on Aug. 26.

David Scharinghausen of 805 married Jane Janecack of Des Plaines on Aug. 26, and his sister Valarie married Anthony Tyska of Roselle on Sept. 7th.

If you happen to be near anyone who is humming the Wedding March, you can make a sure bet that it will be someone who lives in the 800 block on N. Vail. At any rate the rest of the town is wishing the couples all of the happiness and good luck.

Teachers Pass Judgment On Dist. 59 Operation

BY JAN BONE
Third in a Series

How do Dist. 59 teachers feel about their jobs and their school system?

What do they think about the subjects they teach, the books, materials, their salaries and their chances for promotion?

Last December, Dr. Joseph R. Ellis, Northern Illinois University consultant, asked nearly 400 Dist. 59 teachers to respond to 393 statements or questions --, with either "Yes," "No," or "Uncertain, or Mixed Feelings."

SOMETIMES the questions were about curriculum. "Pupils in our school are placed where they can work the best." Sixty-two per cent said yes, nearly 8 per cent said no, and 29 per cent weren't sure

"Teachers in this district can teach controversial issues in their classrooms," was another statement. Nearly 46 per cent agreed, less than 10 per cent said no, and 43.5 per cent weren't sure.

"Dist. 59 has made greater progress with team teaching, programmed instruction, individualized instruction, and learning centers than other districts in this area," was another question. Teachers' response: 55 per cent said yes, 10 per cent said no, and 33 per cent had mixed feelings about the comparison,

FIFTY-FOUR per cent of Dist. 59 teachers felt that experimental programs had not been evaluated enough before they were put into practice. Slightly more than half the teachers said they did not know procedures to follow in seeking curriculum change, and 63 per cent thought they were not informed enough about curriculum throughout the district.

Dist. 59 has a nation wide reputation for innovation, which might be defined as trying out new ideas in education. Do teachers like this?

No -- if change is done merely to attract attention, or for personal gain.

More teachers should be involved in conceiving and planning innovations, survey results brought out.

"We'd better take a closer look at innovation," said 92 per cent of teachers answering the questionnaire. They wanted a more thorough evaluation of innovative practices.

TEACHERS throughout Dist. 59 liked their building principals, calling them "helpful," "fair," "competent" and "friendly."

They did not have the same warm feelings about people in the central administrative office. "Remote and removed," was one comment; "fair but impersonal," was another.

Consultants -- special Dist. 59 personnel with district wide responsibility for a single subject such as science or mathematics --- apparently aren't doing so well with teachers.

Only 20 per cent of the teachers felt that consultants helped them to be more effective. Only 15 per cent said consultants were available when they were needed; and only 8 per cent thought communication between teachers and consultants was adequate.

ARE TEXTBOOKS adequate in numbers, content, and teaching aids? Only 34 per cent of Dist. 59 teachers said yes.

Fifty-four per cent felt that adequate remedial help was not available for students with problems. Seventy per cent said they wanted more information about children from Special Services -- such as psychologists, social workers, speech therapists, and special education people.

Dist. 59 has a Teachers' Council.

Two-thirds of the teachers know what the organization is and what it's set up to do. However, there's a general feeling that it lacks real support and strength, and that it is not generally representative of teachers.

FORTY-FIVE per cent of Dist. 59 teachers say they cannot live comfortably on their salaries.

Only 27 per cent liked the way salary matters were handled; 50 per cent thought Dist. 59 salaries were not better than those paid by other nearby districts.

Should teachers join a union? More than half said "no." Only 19 per cent agreed; 27 per cent had mixed feelings.

However, more than half of the Dist. 59 teachers wanted their Teachers' Council strengthened to prevent unions from moving in.

MRS. CHARLOTTE FARRIS assisted Ellis in conducting the survey.

Others on the teacher survey steering committee were: Sue Catanzaro, Paul Christmas, Virginia Fenner, Norman Hostetler, Valma Kinney, Roy Landzbaum, Harlen Michels, Tom Powers, Eldo Reid, Glorie Rogers, John Rosdeutcher, William Sindan, Robert Thompson, William Titus, Charles Welch, and Kathy Weston.

Mount Prospect Dist. 59 schools are John Jay, Robert Frost, Forest View Elementary, and Dempster and Holmes junior high schools. The district has Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, and other Des Plaines and Elk Grove buildings.

TUESDAY: What do administrators and consultants say about Dist. 59?

Team planning—as these teachers are doing at Salt Creek School — plays an important part in all Dist. 59 buildings. Survey showed that 60 per cent of Dist. 59 teachers wanted more time for planning, and for conferences with parents and students.

Dist. 59 teachers generally like their assignments, feel proud about teaching, and 79 per cent of them would choose teaching again if they could start over in a career. Teaching offers a chance to develop a warm, sincere relationship with a child. Here, home room teacher Greg Pawlak talks over a project with Kevin Oshiro at Salt Creek School.

Dist. 59 To Announce Board Member Selection Tonight

The Dist. 59 school board will announce its selection of a new board member tonight, to fill the unexpired term of Douglas Burns, who moved to the Virgin Islands last month.

All men and women in the communities of Elk Grove Village, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, and Des Plaines, where Dist. 59 has schools, were asked to send letters describing their qualifications if they were interested in joining the board.

Five men did so. Four of them were interviewed last Monday.

The fifth, Robert J. VanVonderen of Elk Grove Village, was a patient in Northwest Community Hospital. He had back surgery about ten days ago.

VANVONDEREN, 42, is manager of casualty for the Fireman's Fund American Insurance Co. at its Chicago regional office. Three years ago, he and his family moved here from Milwaukee. He had 10 years' experience there with Hardware Mutual Insurance Company, and studied pre-medical courses at the University of Wisconsin.

"My husband feels it's important to work with the children, and to represent the area," said Mrs. VanVonderen. "We want to learn the needs of the district, and how to feel the opinions of the people."

The VanVonderen children are Mary Beth, 11, a 6th grader at Grove Junior High School; James, a 4th grader at Hopkins School; and Kathryn, a 1st grader at Hopkins.

ROBERT D. CAIN, 36, of 126 Roxbury in Des Plaines, would also like to be a Dist. 59 school board member.

In his work as direct mail manager for Encyclopedia Britannica, he is responsible for the distribution of all the direct mail the firm sends out, including that from its Great Books division.

An ex-teacher who's a Loyola University graduate, Cain taught all grades in his years with the Chicago public schools. He holds a graduate degree in educational administration and supervision.

Describing himself as "thoroughly conservative," Cain feels Dist. 59 should be followers of educational ideas, but "let them be proven." He feels that basically the district has a good program, and if he is chosen, would make "no major changes" in the way Dist. 59 schools now are being run.

Cain's other business experience includes responsibility for marketing research for Sears, especially in the area of site location.

He and his wife are the parents of Mary, 6, and Martin, 5, who attend Devonshire School, and lively 17-month-old Ann.

HAROLD C. HARVEY, 39, 200 Marshall Dr., Des Plaines, has banking and financial experience to offer the board. Presently, he is vice president of the Citizen's Bank in Park Ridge; he has also had bank management experience in South Bend, Ind. and Alton, Ill.

Harvey, a Culver-Stockton graduate, has attended graduate banking school at Northwestern University, and is currently enrolled in University of Wisconsin banking courses at the graduate level.

Keeping up with Clark, an Elk Grove High School sophomore; Kevin, a 6th grader at Dempster Junior High School; and Brentwood pupils Dawn and Brian has taken much of Harvey's time since coming to the district.

However, he is active in P.T.A., and has served on the board of directors of other community groups in South Bend and Alton. His work there was with the Mental Health organization, and with the Boy Scouts.

RICHARD STAMM 1414 Redwood, Mount Prospect, is an Annapolis graduate who has served in the Arctic and Antarctic, commanding a tanker on Adm. Richard E. Byrd's last Antarctic expedition.

As general manager of Intra Service Cooperative, Inc., Schiller Park, he's had heating and air conditioning experience with this, and with other firms. He heads COULD -- a local organization concerned with children who have learning disabilities.

His five children -- LeAnne, Linda, Paula, Marshall, and Molly, attend Robert Frost and Dempster Junior High Schools.

MATTHEW CULLEN, 294 Tower Ln., Elk Grove Village, is father of seven young children.

"I am vitally concerned with the educational programs offered by Dist. 59," he says. "However, as a taxpayer, I realize that Utopia may cost too much money. The proper balance must be maintained between income and expenditures."

Cullen says, "My business background in administration, customer service, and accounting gives me an insight into some of the problems the school board faces in the ability to (1) analyze the facts from all viewpoints, (2) come to an appropriate, reasonable conclusion, and (3) work with the people who will implement the program, and be able to sell them on its practicality.

"If chosen, I'll devote my time and energies to continue working for the betterment of our children's future, in cooperation with the present school board.'"

Cullen, 36, has a B.Sc. from DePaul, Chicago in business administration, and has completed eight graduate courses at the University of Chicago. He is customer service manager for Fox Valley Manufacturing Division, Elgin.

Will Bargain in Good Faith with the submission of the tax levy.

"We had considered your proposals in our budget," he told the teachers.

"There has been a misunderstanding that the submission of the budget means a preclusion of all discussion. I don't think you really care if the tax levy is increased or if we get the money from somewhere else. As long as you get what you want," Smith said.

"The superintendent has not made any recommendation to the board on the salaries yet. The $6,300 figure is nothing more than a bench mark figure. Even the present budget allows us to bargain with you in good faith," he said.

SMITH continued, "I think the demands you made make a lot of sense but to meet them all will create a lot of difficulty in the years to come. I think we can bargain with you in good faith."

He said the final salary figure would be set after a long series of meetings and is usually done in the spring when the board approves the 1968-69 budget.

Smith told the teachers the matter would be placed on the board agenda Monday, Sept. 25 for discussion. "We appreciate your deliberation" said Eckert.

He said five or six years ago the district had difficulty in obtaining teachers because of a lack of "interesting salaries."

"We do not want a complete staff of new teachers. That would not make for good educational practice and keep that in mind," Eckert told the board members.

"We have come to depend on you for a lot of considerations before this board," Smith said, "and we depend on you to help us now."

During the meeting the teachers gave the board members a salary schedule and their predicted costs for an increase of $6,300 to $7,000 in the base pay.

Board members asked for time to study the detailed proposals.

Schools in the district are: Arlington, Prospect, Forest View, Wheeling, and Elk Grove high schools.

IF YOU'RE DOING BUSINESS IN A FOREIGN COUNTRY, YOU COULD BE MAKING A SERIOUS MISTAKE.

The man representing you in Latin America knows Spanish fluently. So you're probably convinced you've made the best choice. Even if he isn't your best man. While the one who knows your business inside out stays home.
That's a mistake.
At Berlitz, we can have your number one man speaking Spanish like a native. Because he'll learn from one. What's more we can teach him in a matter of weeks (or days, if you're in a hurry).
After you send your best man to Berlitz, send him to Latin America to do your talking.
A lot more people will listen. You have our word.

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

It must happen to everybody at some time or other, priding yourself on being observant, but missing what is really there.

We were making the usual stop at a summer fruit and vegetable stand, the same one we've gone to for years. We've observed a variety of people stop there, people of all races and types and economic status, and we've found it interesting to note what they buy.

Like the day that movie actress Rhonda Fleming, who was appearing in the area, drove up in a big white Cadillac. It was most interesting to observe her bright red hair, white-rimmed sunglasses, pink sunsuit and white sandals. And her purchase, which was evidently intended for some exotic repast: a few Italian onions, chili peppers, tomatoes and some Zucchini squash.

BUT A FEW weeks ago, we finally noticed what had been there all along.

It was the scales that have been used to weigh the produce bought by thousands of customers every year. We had taken for granted that some agency required inspection of the scales, so we had never really noticed the date on the inspection decals.

The first thing we noticed was that one of the scales registered about 1/16 of a pound before anything was placed on it. Then we looked at the inspection decal. It said the last inspection was in 1960. Another scale also had the 1960 decal, a third scale showed a 1952 decal and a fourth said the last inspection was back in 1944. A fifth scale had no decal.

SO WE STARTED checking, to find out what the requirements are for the scales, and who had jurisdiction in the matter. We have learned that the state laws pertaining to inspection of scales go unenforced unless the produce stand owner asks the state for an inspection of his scales every year or a customer makes a complaint.

In the next few days we plan to relate some of the dialogue between us, state officials and produce stand owners.

We started out by calling various departments in the State of Illinois building. After being referred to several state agencies, we were directed to the State Agriculture department, at 300 W. Washington, Chicago.

Tomorrow we'll tell you who we talked to and what we were told are the requirements for having scales tested.

It's Sellers' Market For Teachers

Twenty states report that their teacher shortage is worse this fall than last, while only seven say it is less severe, according to a late-summer survey by the National Education Association.

The remaining 19 of the 46 states which provided data to the NEA see their teacher supply situation as about the same as it was last year--which wasn't good.

Only one state reported that it had enough qualified applicants to fill positions, and no state had a surplus of applicants.

Shortages include not only classroom instructors but librarians (18 states), guidance counselors (10 sates), teachers of educationally disadvantaged children (13 states) and teachers of remedial classes (20 states).

In a separate survey of the nation's 57 largest school systems those having 50,000 or more pupils and employing about one-fifth of all public school teachers), 55 reported a total of 5,290 unfilled postions in elementary schools as of mid-July and 2,553 unfilled positions in secondary schools.

One consequence is that in 23 states, school systems this year will have to employ persons with substandard qualifications to staff elementary classrooms.

Even though there was a record number of teacher education graduates in 1967, the association estimates the tatal shortage of teachers throughout the nation has risen to 171,300, from 169,300 in 1966.

All of which may or may not be inlightening background to the wave of teacher strikes that has affected more than a million pupils in Detroit, New York and other districts since the beginning of the school year.

Under the laws of classic economics, a dearth of people in a needed skill or profession results in their being able to command premium pay and their migration to those areas able to meet that premium.

This has not been true of the teaching profession, however. Despite the chronic, worsening shortage of personnel, teacher pay has traditionally lagged behind that awarded in any number of other professions or trades - which tells something about where teaching ranks in America on the list of services considered vital to society.

But now a new spirit of militancy is infusing the profession, in big city and rural county alike.

It is no longer a matter of what teachers are willing to accept in the way of renumeration and working conditions. It is becoming more and more a question of what the public wants and what it is willing to pay for.

DOCTOR SAYS

Dieting to Emaciation Harms Looks and Health

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Because of the importance of feeding in infants and children I get many questions relating to diet. One woman writes that her 12-year-old granddaughter, once a healthy, well-nourished girl, has taken slimming so much to heart that she has become emaciated. Attempts to get her to eat more bring on fits of hysterical crying. Her doctor prescribed a tonic to improve her appetite but it hasn't helped.

It is a sad fact that some girls, in their effort to become or remain attractively slim, go to dangerous extremes, which defeat their purpose because, as a result, they become anything but attractive. In addition to this they are more susceptible to tuberculosis and are ill-equipped to withstand a chance infection, such as rheumatic fever or pneumonia. Since tonics do nothing to remove the cause of the trouble they cannot help.

If this young girls cannot see the harm she is doing to herself by looking in the mirror and if she is subject to emotional outbursts when eating sensibly to maintain her health is suggested, she needs the advice of a child psychologist who can ferret out the underlying cause of her trouble.

Another reader has heard that when a child has a tendency to overeat his learning ability and mental alertness suffer. She wants to know if this is true and whether the age of the child would have anything to do with it.

Certainly for a short time after a heavy meal a part of the blood supply that would normally go to the brain is diverted to the digestive organs. As a result a person may feel sluggish or sleepy. Some deal with this feeling by taking a brisk walk and others by taking a short nap.

Some studies have shown that over a longer period the child or adult who is 10 to 15 per cent underweight is more active mentally than one who is overweight

Barrington Gridders Squeeze Past Crippled Arlington Crew, 20-13

BY TOM WALSH

An inexperienced bunch of Arlington varsity gridders raceived their first lasson in defeat Saturday as Barrington rocked the Cards, 20-13, in Arlington's season opener.

The predominantly junior team not only had to contend with the Barrington team but also with its own physical and mentel problams. Junior quarterbeck, Todd Somers, entered Saturday's clash after a two-day bout with the flu, as did junior halfback Dennis Meachem.

ARLINGTON'S offense got off to e slow start Saturday but the Cardinal defense managed to contein the Broncs enough to force them to punt away the ball on their first two offensive attempts. Junior Jim Baumgartner fielded Barrington's second punt on his own 42 yard line end scampered 20 yards to the Barrington 38.

Four rushing plays, including e 32-yard carry by Meacham, put Arlington on the Brooco one-yard line where Somare plunged through for the score. Senior Keith Culberson's conversion attampt was good, putting Arlington; ahead 7-0 with 2:22 remaining in the first quarter.

Berrington immedietely sprung back with sevan points, fielding the Cardinal kickoff on its own 43-yard line and marching 57 yards in nine pleys for a touchdowo. The Bronc's conversion was good, knotting the score at 7-7.

REDBIRD OFFENSE took over on its own 21-yard line, but, on the first play from scrimmage, Meachem fumblad, and Barrington recovered on the Arlington six-yard line. Three playe later, the Cards were down 14-7 with 9:29 remaining in tha first half, es Berrington's Dick Robey went in from the three for the score.

Arlington cashed io on a Barrington fumble early in the third quarter when the Bronco punter fell victim to e poor snap and was dumped on his own nine-yard line. Somers carried the ball, in for the score on the first down, but Culberson's extra-point attempt fell wide, leaving the Cards one poiot shy of the Broncs.

Barrington egain gathers in en Arlington kickoff and drove its way non-stop into the Arlington end zone. Six plays, including a pass that netted 25 yards, moved the Broncs 47 yards for the tally. Junior linebackar, Dan Selleck, blocked the Barrington conversion attempt to make the score 20-13 end to keep the game within reach.

ARLINGTON TOOK to the air in e desperation attempt to move the ball and at least knot the game, but three Barrlogton intercaptioos halted three of the Cards last four offensive drives and the scoring.

Dennis Meachem ecounted for 68 of the Card's total 152 rushing yerds. Somers finished the game five for 22 in the pass attempt depertment, his best effort a 10-yard toss to junior Dean Schmelzer.

Barrington picked up a total 184 yards, their quarterback going five for 17 for 83 yards.

The Cards will host Prospect neft Friday night in tha conference opener for both schools.

Inexperience, Injuries Hurt Us, Says Walther

"They won't be that way Friday" is how Arlington High School's head football coach, Bob Walther, summed up his squad's 20-13 loss to Barrington last Saturday.

"Inexperience hurt us the most. As a junior team, they played an excellent game," he said.

ONE OF THE main problems that has been hindering the Cards is injuries. "If I wera to run down the list of boys that are already injured, you wouldn't believe it. Most of our best boys are hurting. We're going to make sure that no one gets injured in practice this week so that we can be at full physical strength."

Arlington's quarterback in the Barrington clash, junior Todd Somars, entered the game after a two-day bout with the flu. The Cards' leading ground gainer, Denny Meacham, also contracted flue earlier last week.

Walther feels that Somers post-illness had some effect on his performance. "We had trouble with interceptions. I think there were four. If so, Todd has had his quota for the next two years. I expect two interceptions a year, so he's already in the hole. Our pass defense was hindered greatly with the loss of Bob Graham. With Graham back in the lineup next week, I'm sure we can hold down Prospect's passing game."

GRAHAM, out of action with an injured right arm, doubles as a defensive end and the Card's second-string signal caller.

"I think wa made some tactical mistakes, too," Walther said. "We tried to rely on our aerial attack when we probably could have run up their middle all day long. Wa didn't rush their quarterback as much as we could have. I don't think we got to him once."

Size played an important part in Barrington's game, Walther felt. "Their backfield size is what hurt. Their backs picked up pretty good yardage after they were hit. The defense was good size, but I think our offensive line did an excellent job handling them. They gave Todd (Somers) excellent pass protection."

WALTHER PEGGED senior captain Tom Chandler and junior Dan Selleck as the team's two top defensive stars.

"We'll work on pass defense and our ground attack this week. Prospect has a pretty good quarterback. He's only e sophomore, but he can really throw. I'm sure that with the experience this team picked up Saturday, we'll be ready for Friday."

Viator Harriers Top Glenbrook

St. Viator's cross-country team swept the first seven places to wallop Glenbrook South 15-54 in a dual meet Friday.

Junior Mark Botterman ran the two-mile Glenbrook South course in 11:56 to pace St. Viator to its first win of the season against one loss.

The top five were Botterman, Dan Baron (11:59), John Cunningham (12:05), Fred Booth (12:08), and Kevin Chantry (12:09).

Maine S. Crushes Wheeling Eleven

Musculat Maina South stormed into Wheeling's varsity football playground Saturday and stormed out again, leaving the Wildcats for dead.

The rampaging Hawks, who had been billed as one of the most powerful grid machines ever to invade the area, lived up to every bit of the billing, as they crushed the local crew, 44-0. The upset-minded Wildcats never had a chence.

MAINE'S 44-point finel bulge barely indicated the extent of the rout. The visitors rolled up a staggering 414 yards in total offense to Wheeling's 69, picking up 233 of those yards on the passing of Gary Lange. Lange completed 14 of 24 aerials for three touchdowns, and he ran another score across.

Wheeling, on the other hend, failed to complete a pass in seven attempts. Three Wildcat passes fall into the clutches of Maine South defensive backs.

While the Cats struggled for three first downs, Maine South piled up 21 of them. The highly-touted Wheeling rushing game failed to penetrate the Hawks' 38-yard line.

IT WAS over almost before it began for Coach Bill Daletski's outfit. The hosts got the opening kickoff, ran three plays, and punted back to Maine. Ten plays later, Lange circled end for the Hawks' first touchdown. The conversion was good.

A 27-yard touchdown pass from Lange to Jim Schmitz and another extra point made it 14-0 Maine at the end of the quarter, and another Lange-to-Schmitz combination early in the second quarter gave Maine the 20-0 lead it held at the half.

THERE WAS a little bit of everything in the second half. Halfback Tom Spotts rambled 75 yards for the fourth Hawk score and Borys Shlapak booted a 15-yard field goal late in the third period.

It was Spotts again for 10 yards and a touchdown in the final stanza, and Lange to Al Burgess for 25 and the final tally.

Gren Gridders Edge Addison

Elk Grove bounced back from an 85-yard touchdown return of the second half kickoff Saturday to march for a score of its own, then held on to nip Addison Trail 13-12.

The touchdown runback by Blazer halfback Gary Pierce broke e 6-6 halftime tie, but Elk Grove stopped battering ram fullback Mike Brosseau trying to run over the extra point, setting up the one-point victory.

LED BY QUARTERBACK Larry Pahl, the Grenadiers rebounded from the kick return to march 63 yards in 15 well-mixed plays. Pahl hit on five of seven pass ettempts--three to Roy McClellan and two to Glen Deberge--for 45 of the yards before fullback Jim Oplt plunged over for the touchdown from the one.

Oplt kicked the extra point, and the Elk Grove defense was handed the chore of hanging of to the thin margin. It responded by holding Addison to three first downs in the second half. The Gres got some help from Blazer quarterback Dale Brooks and halfback Andy Werner, who missed connections on a pass with Werner wide open on the Elk Grove 20 on the next-to-last play of the game.

ADDISON HELPED keep the game's first quarter scoreless by intercepting two of Pahl's passes. The Blazers then drove 38 yards--15 of them on e face-mask penalty against the Grenadiers - to score on halfback Jim Bochstahler's five yard run in the second period. The snap was fumbled on the conversion attempt, and Brooks never got his kick off.

Pahl, who completed 13 of 27 pass attampts for 149 yards, led Elk Grove back to tie the score, setting up his own one-yard TD sneak with tosses to Deherge and halfback John Knopf.

Deberge and McClellan each caught five of Pahl's throws as Elk Grove outgained Addison, 218 yards to 152. Brosseau, a compact 175-pounder, rumbled for 91 yards in 20 carries to lead the Blazer attack.

OPLT BLASTED a 65 yard punt late in the fourth quarter that knocked Addison deep into its own territory in a hole they never quite got out of.

Tom Pomey broke up one cond quarter Blazer charge, intercepting a pass from Brooks, who threw only five times in the contest, completing three for a net 17 yards.

N. Chicago	13 0 0 7 -- 20

Prospect had trouble getting the ball from center to quarterback and wound up on the bottom of a 20-0 score at North Chicago Saturday.

Three times the Warhawks flooded through the Prospect line to grab a ball that Knight quarterbacks were unable to hold.

THE BOBBLES came at key points in the game. One set up North Chicago's first score and the others ended Prospect's best drives of the afternoon.

In all, the Knights lost possession on fumbles four times. An intercepted pass resulted in another Warhawk touchdown.

North Chicago also had trouble holding the ball at times, handing it over to Prospect the first time it had possession. The opening Hawk drive carried 77 yards to the Prospect seven where Phil Parker's bobble gave the Knights control.

The Prospect center pass went awry on the following play. The Warhawks took over at the Prospect seven and two plays later were in the end zone. Quarterback Randy Harman sent the fleet Parker around right end for the score. Richard Wiggins converted and North Chicago led, 7-0.

GARY ANDREWS returned the Warhawk kickoff to the 24. Mike Corteen went over left tackle for four yards and then for another three, and it looked like the Knights might be building some momentum.

Another fumble stopped Prospect cold, however, as the handoff was dropped on third down. Tackle Kevin Reid pounced on the loose ball and North Chicago had control just 31 yards from paydirt.

That distance was covered in one play. Harman, who had been grinding it out on the ground, called the game's first pass play.

HE FOUND end Joe Walls far behind the Knight defenders. Walls gathered in the ball and carried it over. Wiggins' kick was wide to the left.

North Chicago was ahead 13-0 with 1:09 to play in the first quarter.

Neither offense could get underway in the second period. Gaffney ran for 15 and a first down but was shaken up two plays later and had to leave the action for a while. Craig VanKampen took the helm, but the line began to spring leaks. The Hawks were on VanKampen as soon as he got the pass from center. He fumbled and defensiva end John Tomkovick recovered.

The rest of the half was an exchange of punts, but it torned into a nightmare for VanKampen. The line just couldn't keep the Hawks out of the backfield as he faded to pass.

Sinca Prospect couldn't assemble an aerial attack, North Chicago was free to concentrate on its ground defenses. This change of tactics successfully bottled the Knight runners for the rest of the game. Prospect managed just two first-downs in the second half.

THE THIRD quarter was played evenly. The Knights kept the attacking Warhawks out near mid-field, but could only advance as far as the North Chicego 31 where another bobbled center pass ended all thoughts of scoring for the moment.

The Hawks' last touchdown came in the fourth period as Prospect was going to the air in a desperate effort to get on the board.

Gaffney faded to throw, but the protective pocket was ripped open by four defenders. The sophomore quarterback chose to flip the ball beyond their reach, rather than to eat the ball and accept the loss. He was hit just as he released the ball, which settled comfortably into the arms of North Chicago's Joe Walls. The junior end, with no Prospect players to obstruct his patch, carried it the last seven yards into the end zone.

WIGGINS converted again to run the score to 20-0.

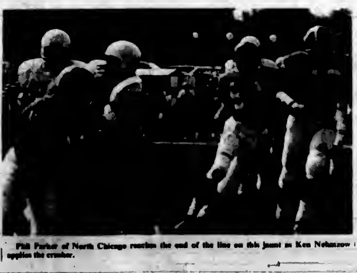
With the Warhawks able to build their defenses against a ground game, Prospect runners had to struggle mightily to move the ball. Corteen was the team's leading rusher with 26 yards. Anderson got 20.

Parker, meenwhile, was collecting 46 and fullback Tom Belski another 43.

The Knight offensive line proved no match for the down men and linebackers of the Warhawk defense, who frequently flooded the backfield. Five times Prospect quarterbacks were thrown for losses which reached e total of 26 yerds. The Hawk defense forced fumbles on the snap and accounted for one touchdown.

THE KNIGHT dafanse allowed only e pair of scores. End Joe Martin led the way with 10 tackles, one of which forced a fumble, a broken pass play and a recovery of a teammate's fumble.

Guerd Norm Klein elso had e good day, hauling down six Warhawk ball carriers.



Phil Parker of North Chicago reaches the end of the line on this jaunt as Ken Nehmzow applies the crusher.

After managing only four offensive plays in Deerfield territory during the first three quarters, the Falcons drove inside their opponants' 26 three times in the final period. But the Warriors, stopped all three marches--one ending with a one-yard line fumble.

FOREST VIEW - quarterback Mike Otto ran for his life more in one afternoon than Ben Gazzara does in a whole television season as Deerfield's defensive line chase him about the Falcon backfield. Otto couldn't organize his forces until the last quarter drives.

The first drive, early in the period, ended on the Deerfield 25 with a fake field goal attempt that didn't even fool the cheerleaders.

Otto, after pretending to hold for the kick, fired e pass that fell incomplete, out of reach of both Falcon end Ted Kubinski and the swarm of Deerfield defenders surrounding him.

Sefely John Caltegirone, who set up the first drive with en interception, stopped a Deerfield march by picking off another pass by Warrior quarterback Scott Gerrett, giving the Falcons the ball on their own 35. They moved to tha Deerfield 11 befora e holding penalty knocked them back to the 25, and they gave out on downs at the 12.

DEERFIELD punted four plays later, a booming 47-yard kick by Scott Ascher putting the Falcons on their own 37 with 44 seconds to play.

Forest View resorted to razzle-dazzle three times in the next six plays, running e trio of triple reverse, end around movements which close with left end Bob Savage in definitive possession. The Falcons seemed more razzled and dazzled by all the ball handling than Deerfield, however. The three extravaganzas netted zero yards.

One of them did lead to a pass interference penalty against Deerfield. Another 15-yard walkoff for roughing the passer, blended with a 26-yard Otto-to-Thor Hibbler pass, left Forest View on the Warriors' six.

FALCON co-captain and fullback Spencer Dreischarf chugged over left guard to the one, but lost the ball in the process. Deerfield needed only one play after that to run out the clock, ending the season's first exhibition game for both teams.

After e scoreless first period, a Falcon drive early in the second quarter was stopped at the Forest View 45, and Otto's punt slid off the side of his foot and out of bounds on the Warrior 41, setting up the game's first score.

SPOTTED 15 yards when pass interference was called against Falcon defenisve back Mike Messer, Deerfield methodically ground out the remaining 44 yards to the Forest View goal in ten running plays. Senior halfback Marc Toma, who rambled for 60 yards in 16 tries for the day to lead all ball carriers, burst over from the two for the touchdown. Scott Jacobs kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

Neither team threetened after that until Forest View couldn't move and punted after taking the third quarter kickoff. Toma and halfback Mitch Weiner brought Deerfield from its 37 to the Falcon 37 before Toma fumbled to Falcon tackle Jeff Nordlund.

Warrior tackle Jim Anderson, the 235-pound Gibraltar of the Deerfield defense, end Ascher then played fox and hounds with Otto as he dropped back to pass, finally falling on him for e 20-yard loss that encouraged the Falcons to punt out on third down.

TOMA SCRAMBLED off guerd for three from the Deerfield 48, and Garrett followed up by hitting Ascher, who had tiptoed eway from Caltagirone and John Terrell, with a pass good for 19. Toma squirmed for ten yards in two carries before Garrett found Bill Mulkey with a flat pass that gained 14 to the Falcon 6.

Toma took it to the 3, and Wainer bounded across for the TD, Jacobs converting again.

After the Falcons were stymied and punted, they got another chance on Cellagirone's interception, which ended the quarter, but Wester lost five on a sweep, the end around lost another yard, and an Otto pass lofted hopefully into e crowd at the Deerfield 10 fell incomplete.

Deerfield took over on its 33 when the fake field goals flopped, and started to move egain before Caltagirona again nabbed a Garrett pass on the Falcon 25 and brought it back 10.

OTTO, WHO ended up with 114 yards passing on eight completions in 15 tries, threw to Messer for 17 and to Frank Wasilewski for 7. Wester and Dreischarf ran the Falcons to the Deerfield 33, and Otto connected with end Ron Traub at the 11, but then the boom--the 15 yard holding penalty--wes lowered, and Deerfield took over on downs.

Taking an ensuing Deerfield punt on its 38, Forest View ran the end around three times in four plays. Savage ran twice for a net standstill, but when he unsuccessfully, tried to pass, a Deerfield defender imerfed with a potential receiver. The voughing penalty left the Falcons at tha 32. From there the Otto-Hibbler pass moved them within scoring distance, but Dreischarf's fumble closed matters.

Viator Triumphs With Big 2nd Half

BY DALE HOFMANN

St. Viator's youthful varsity football troops took a couple of quarters to grow up Friday, leaving them just enough time to gain a satisfying 12-7 victory in their exhibition opener at Glenbrook South.

The junior-dominated Viator crew was pushed all over the field for 24 long minutes by the bigger and more seasoned Titans, But then it stiffened, and veteran quarterback Dennis Palubicki did the rest.

PALUBICKI accounted for 227 of St. Viator's offensive total of 297 yards Friday, passing for 180 of them and picking up 47 more on the ground. The lean senior collected all of his rushing total in the second helf and completed six of 11 aerials after intermission. The sixth one was e 44-yard toss to sophomore Tom Anderson which gave the Lions the winning touchdown with 3:44 left to play.

Until Palubicki launched his second-helf splurge, it looked like a willowy Glenbrook halfback named Tom Willis would waltz off with all the press notices. Willis ran over and around, but mostly through the untested left side of the Viator line for 78 yards in 15 carries in the first half. Coach Joe Gliew made some locker-room changes though, and Willis managed only six yards in two carries in the third and fourth quarters.

FORTUNATELY Glenbrook's dominance in the first half wes fer more noticeable in the game statistics then it was on the scoreboard. The hosts racked up nine first downs to Viator's four before the break, and they out-rushed the Lions 121 yards to 49. The difference that counted though was only one point, e 7-6 Glenbrook scoring edge at halftime.

The Titans had it all to themselves in the first quarter, teking the kickoff and marching to the Viator 21-yard line before their first thrust ran out of downs. The Lions didn't get the ball until eight minutes had elapsed, and they kept it for only six plays.

STILL GLENBROOK failed lo score in the first stanza, and it might not heve made it into the end zone in the second if Viator's Bob Batchelor hadn't fumbled a pitch out on his own 42-yard line.

It look South 13 pleys to covar those 42 yards. Halfback Scott Sims finally squirted over from the six for the score. The point after was good, giving Glenbrook j 7-0 lead with 3:34 left in the half.

Most of thet lead was wiped out in the next two minutes, as Vletor moved the kickoff from its 21-yard line to the goal on two passes and two rushing plays. The big gainers were a 40-yard bomb from Palubicki to Anderson and a 28-yard pitch from Palubicki to Frank Bianca for the score with 1:27 left on the clock.

Palubicki's try for the conversion was wide though, and the scoring was done for the half.

PALUBICKI'S well-placed punts kept the Titans deep in their own territory through most of the third quarter, but neighter team was able to score in thet period. Both teams got their chance in tha final stanza.

The Titans got theirs first when St. Viator's faked punt backfired and gave the hosts the ball on their own 40-yard line.

Glenbrook drove all the way to the Viator 29 in four plays, but then the Lions got tough, forcing the enemy back to the 43. South punted from there, and St. Viator had the ball on its two with eight minutes left to play. Tha longest drive of the night started there.

ONCE AGAIN, the Lions took to the air. Palubicki earned some operating room when he hit Ken Sophie on tha 19. Runs by John McNamara and Anderson carried to the 23, and then Palubicki found Bianca on the 42.

Palubicki picked up five more on the ground, and McNamara added another five before Palubicki connected with Dan Klingberg at the Glenbrook 44. The biggest pass of them all came on the next play as Palubicki floated one to Anderson who grabbed it on tha 15 and sailed home.

The extra-point kick hit the goal posts, but it didn't mattar, as Viator regained possession with an onsides kick.

Falcons' Stamina Encourages Scott

Anyone who hadn't seen tha game Saturday would have had a hard time guessing who had won from looking at Forest View coach Bob Scott.

While he wasn't grinning from ear to ear over his Falcons' 14-0 loss to a veteran Deerfield team, Scott found plenty to praise in his boys' performance.

"IT TOOK US three quarters to do it, but we finally jelled out there in the last period," he said. "We were just starting to move then, and that's a sign that the boys are in good condition."

Scott attributed his team's stamina to what he calls his "concentration camp" training sessions, based on running, running, running, and then some running.

Scott tossed particular compliments to three of his ends--Ron Treub, Mike Messer, and Bob Savage, a senior who made seven unassisted tackles, bringing his career total to a school record 97.

AND HE ADDED thet senior quarterback Mike Otto, who took over the team from junior John Caltagirone in the first quarter, "has won back his place" es the team's starting field general.

The Forest View coach predicted a wide open race in this yaer's Mid-Suburban League, where the Falcons finished fourth last year with a 3-3 record. The Falcons also opened against Deerfield last year, dropping a 16-6 contest.

Coach George Kulton's meanies mora than tripled their most productive previous effort Saturday while riding roughshod over the winless Delaven elavan. Besides bolstering the local craw's confidance, the lop-sided triumph also ran the Travelers' season record to 2-3-1 and kept them safely away from the confines of the Central States League cellar.

THINGS WENT so well for the T's that it got embarassing after awhile. They scored at least twice in every quarter but the third, and they ran up a whopping total of 490 yards while holding Delevan to a scant 62.

Querlerbacks Fred Custardo and Ken Stone accountad for most of the offensiva statistics by completing 24 of 39 passes for 386 yards.

Nine of those completions went to light end John McGuire, a 6-5, 230 pound giant, who joinad the Travelers for the first time Saturday. McGuire tallied on three receptions, and never took a pass of less than seven yerds. Custardo hit the towering newcomer for 70 yerds on one occasion, end Stone found him 51 yards from the line of scrimmage enother time.

DELAVAN NEYER was in the ball geme. The Red Devils got as far as the Traveler 35 only once, and they managed only three first downs to the hosts' 19.

It took the Northwesterners only eight minutes to get on tha board, as Custardo directed e drive which started when Wayne Stringley returned a punt to the Delevan 22. A Custardo-to-Norm Nissen pass set up the score, and a two-yard scamper by Jim Battaglia achlavad it. The Travelers missed on the extra-point ettempt.

THREE MINUTES later, the T's found themselves in possession on their own 21. One running play and e 70-yard bomb from Custardo to McGuire was all it took for them to move to the Delavan goal.

The score simply snowballed after that. The remainder of the local crew's touchdowns came on a six-yard run by Boh Bescht, a two-yard pass from Custardo to Nissen, e 27-yard fiing from Stone to Steve Rice, a two-yard toss from Stone to Ted Rodgers, a 25-yard pass from Custardo to Rodgers, a 28-yard ramble with a fumble by linebacker Jim Bejna, and e 51-yard eerlel from Stone to McGuire.

Prospect Coach Praises Gaffney Despite Fumbles

Prospect's Coach Don Williams will be looking for some help in his offensive line this week, lest it spring leaks in the manner of last Saturday when his charges lost to North Chicago 20-0.

North Chicago defenders got to Knight quarterbacks five times, pushing them back a total of 26 yards. But that isn't the whole story. Knights were guilty of four bobbled center snaps which were recovered by the Warhawks.

"YOU CAN'T operate if you can't get the ball," said Williams. "Every time Mike Gaffney fumbled he had a red arm on him. He wasn't getting the ball."

The fumbles came at bad moments, breaking up drives and once giving North Chicago good field position which led to a score.

The game turned on the play of the line in front of Gaffney. The sophomore quarterback was under such pressure that he couldn't establish a passing attack. Prospect quarterbacks completed just two of seven passes all afternoon for a total of 13 yards. The Warhawks took advantage of the situation by stacking their defense against the Knight ground game, allowing just 54 yards.

WILLIAMS may have some help up front next week when 6-2, 188-pound tackle Butch Leonard will be available full time. There may be additional problems, however. Two other tackles, 200-pound Jeff Schneider and 190-pound Keith Beuschel, were forced to leave the North Chicago game because of injuries. If this pair can't get back in shape by next weekend, the Knights may have even more holes in their front line.

Despite an ineffective aerial attack, Coach Williams expressed satisfaction with the performance of Gaffney, a sophomore tasting varsity play for the first time.

"He made very faw mistakes," Williams said. "There was just too much pressure on him."

THE ONLY mistake Williams saw was a play on which Gaffney passed while under pressure from four Warhawk defenders. While being tackled, he tried to loft a pass over the heads of the charging linemen. The toss was wobbly and short. Warhawk Joe Walls grabbed the ball and ran untouched into the end zone.

"He shouldn't have done that," Williams said, "but that's the sort of thing that's learned with experience."

The Prospect signal caller went into the North Chicago game with but two freshman games last year under his belt. An injury kept him out of action most of last season.

"You'll be hearing more of Gaffney," the coach said. "He's going to be a fine ballplayer."

Williams also could see a bright spot in the play of the Prospect defense, plagued by bad field position most of the afternoon.

"DEFENSIVELY, we didn't look bad at all. I was very satisfied," Williams said.

After a ragged first quarter, Prospect settled down and allowed just 61 yards rushing and 10 passing. The defense batted down all but one of eight passes, recovered a fumble and blocked a field goal attempt. In the final three periods, North Chicago was able to grind out just three first downs, getting no closer than the Prospect 25 yard line.

Only once did the Hawks break loose for a long run. In the third quarter, fullback Tom Belski found some room while slashing off Prospect's right guard and ran for 24 yards.

Your Horoscope

FOR TUESDAY

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Undertake only those projects which are relevant to your present situation. Morning worship should not be neglected.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Take care that you don't arouse another's ire through expressing your opinions too candidly. A good day for the tactful.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--You may have to give up some of your more traditional Sunday activities today if you are to take advantage of new opportunity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--Make sure that the benefits of undertaking the project under consideration are worth the risks. You could end up with nothing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--You can be extremely influential in your own community if you take over the leadership of a community project.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)--Changes may make you feel that all that is good is new. Reconsider your opinion to find much good in the past.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20) --The Aries who plunges into the thick of community affairs this Sunday may find himself in too deep next Sunday.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)--The best way to get out of the doldrums is to find some useful work to do. Seek a project and get busy!

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--You may find yourself in an uncomfortably vulnerable position today, but if you mind your manners -- and your tongue -- all should be well.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--If you attempt to wield authority in your own home today you may find that you have lost the respect of younger members. Take care.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--A transition time for Leo. Don't be too upset about what is gone; look forward happily to what is to come.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)--You can broaden your horizons and your appeal at the same time. Look ahead to new enterprises and a lot of healthy competition.

WORLD REPORT

Communist Presides Over UN General Assembly

By United Press International

UNITED NATIONS – The United Nations General Assembly was opening its 22nd annual session today with its first Communist diplomat in the president's chair. He will guide debate on the Vietnam war, the Middle East crisis and other world problems.

Its first major business was election of a president to replace outgoing president Abdul Rahm Pazhwak of Afghanistan.

Romanian Foreign Minister Corneliu Manescu, an advocate of improved East-West relations, was assured of election. There was no formal opposition to the candidacy of Manescu, the first Communist diplomat to be elected assembly president.

The assembly's three week policy debate, which begins Thursday, was expected to be dominated by the Vietnam war and the Middle East.

Killer Beulah Keeps Churning

TAMPICO, Mexico – Hurricane Beulah, pursuing a "somewhat erratic" course, churned its way through the western Gulf of Mexico today sending thousands of persons along the Mexican coast fleeing to safer ground.

The hurrican, which has already killed 29 persons, was expected to hit the coastline north of Tampico today.

Another Peace Feeler Dispute

WASHINGTON - The administration and Pulitzer Prize winner Harry S. Ashmore appeared stalemated today on the issue of whether a peace feeler dispatched to Hanoi through the writer was "cancelled" by President Johnson.

The administration characterized Ashmore's accusation as "misleadin" Monday, and assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy said Ashmore had erroneously presumed his role was in the "center of the stage" when he actually was only on the edge of events.

But Chairman J. William Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee said Ashmore's charges and other events indicate the United States could have had peace talks with Hanoi - "if we were willing for anything short of surrender."

Bomb, Snipers Hit Embassy

SAIGON - A communist bomb ripped the Nationalist Chinese Embassy today and rooftop snipers took pot shots at rescue workers. U. S. jets bombed Haiphong for the second straight day and hit at 35,000 invasion troops on South Vietnam's flooded northern border, spokesmen said.

The embassy blast narrowly missed Ambassador Hu Lien, 62, tore into a next door bank and caught victims in the street. At least two persons were killed and about 30 wounded in the explosion and sniping.

Police chased down one suspect caught with a .45 caliber pistol in his belt and a grenade in each hand.

Hot Summer

TOKYO – The longest and hottest summer in Japan in decades claimed 2,600 lives in the rivers and sea, on the mountains and on the highways, a police report said today.

Milwaukee Showdown

MILWAUKEE, Wis. - Open housing, the issue that brought Negro marchers and white violence to Milwaukee streets, today moved to city hall for a showdown.

Negro militants demonstrated for the 22nd successive night Monday while white opponents prayed for their own cause. Four times the Milwaukee Common Council has refused to pass an open housing ordinance, the only thing that can end the demonstrations according to Negro militants.

Survivor In 'Good' Condition

Edward W. Jensen, 19, is reported in "good" condition in Northwest Community Hospital and is out of the intensive care unit there.

Jensen, of 1440 Arlington Heights Rd., was injured in an auto accident in Palatine Township Friday night.

His companion, Scott Thornton of 1009 W. Oakton St., also of Arlington Heights, was killed when the car ran off the road and rolled over on Quentens Rd. near Ill. 62.

Vandals Hit Subdivision

Vandalism was reported at the site of the Chesterfield subdivision on Arlington Heights Rd., north of Hintz Rd.

Richard Webster, of Rossetti Sewer Construction Contractors of Rolling Meadows, told Arlington Heights Police Monday a bulldozer was damaged and pipe was broken.

He said the gauge on the bulldozer was broken and gas was missing and 12 pieces of 8-inch pipe were broken. The equipment was in the center of the field of the subdivision area.

Village Board Approves Stavros Development Plans

Differences on the Stavros property plans were finally ironed out last night after four months of negotiations and the Village Board of Trustees approved the 238-acre development located near N. Arlington Heights Rd. and Nickols. Construction is expected to begin in the spring.

By Charles Mouratides

An 18-hole public golf course and a new housing subdivision were born last night when the Village Board of Trustees approved the layout of the multi-million dollar Stavros development.

Beneficiaries for the development, located west of Arlington Heights Rd. and north and south of Nickols Rd., are the brothers James and August Stavros and N.W. Nesset.

Village President John G. Woods called the layout of the 238-acre development "very fine."

He said he was particularly impressed with the open space the subdivision will provide.

ABOUT 130 ACRES in the heart of the subdivision are planned for the golf course which winds around three small lakes.

Along the golf course, the developer plans to build apartment buildings which, along with some others in different parts of the subdivision, occupy 27 acres.

William Moore, attorney for Stavros, said he could not estimate the number of apartments to be constructed there but he said "they would be built very tastefully."

About 20 per cent of the 27 acres, according to Moore, will be spent for streets and other local improvements.

Single family units, about 212 of them, will cover almost 72 acres and a small 8-acre area is zoned for special use -- commercial.

THE ZONING of the commercial section would allow construction of a wide variety of service stores but not manufacturing facilities.

Woods said additional open space may be acquired for the village if negotiations with the same developer on the adjacent 56-acre quarry reach an agreement on price.

The village will acquire the quarry for a sanitary landfill (garbage dump) "provided the developer does not seek an exorbitant price," said Woods.

Projected estimates state the quarry can be used as a landfill for about 10 years. After it is filled it could be used as a recreational area.

The developer initially introduced his plan on the golf course and the subdivision last May, but demands from the trustees for guarantees on the use of land held up the final decision.

MOORE SAID his client agreed to guarantee the indefinite zoning of the golf course.

The trustees contended that if such a clause was not included in the agreement the developer could in the future change the zoning to apartments.

Another major objection to the layout aimed at creating a buffer zone on the north side of the subdivision in order to shield surrounding undeveloped land from immediate apartment zoning.

The issue was resolved last night when Moore proposed plans creating a single-family unit zone between the development and neighboring lands.

Moore said that estimated cost of the development will reach $2 million plus the cost of the apartments and the small commercial area.

He said that work on the new subdivision will probably begin this spring.

Improper Backing; 2 Ticketed

Two truck drivers received tickets from Arlington Heights Police Monday for improper backing in separate accidents near the Dunton and Campbell intersection.

Kent N. Pahlke, 24, of McHenry, was ticketed after he backed his truck into a parked car owned by Philip T. Blair, 57, of 308 W. Golf Rd., Mount Prospect. The accident occurred on Dunton St., near Campbell.

Hilario G. Guajardo, 54, of 812 W. Palatine Rd., Arlington Heights, was ticketed after the truck he was driving collided with a car driven by Mrs. Marie Carlsen, 50, of 3704 Pheasant Dr., Rolling Meadows. The accident occurred on Cambell, near Dunton.

Defer Action On Billboards, Parked Autos

The Arlington Heights Board of Trustees last night voted to refer the ordinance on billboards and parking of dealers autos along the Northwest Hwy. to its legal committee.

The action came after the Arlington Beautification Council requested the removal of both as part of a program to improve the appearance of the village.

A program to decorate the east side of Northwest Hwy with flowers and trees is expected to begin this week.

Meeting Tonight

The finance committee of the Arlington Heights village board of trustees will meet at 8 p.m. in the Arlington Heights village hall.

Purse Found

A woman's purse, white and beaded, with an empty coin purse inside, was turned in to the Arlington Heights Police station Monday.

A crossing guard at Campball and Wilke told police he found the purse at the intersection.

Approve New—Type Building For Rand Jr. High School

BY RICHARD CRABB

The Dist. 25 Board of Education voted approval Monday evening for a new-type building for Rand Junior High School in Arlington Heights, a building that will make possible more teacher team work and provide greater individual attention for students.

The Board of Education, by unanimous vote, approved a preliminary sketch for the new building that will include up to 81,000 square feet of floor space, about 2 per cent larger than Thomas Junior Hight School. The building's unique feature is that the classrooms are arranged around a central hub which serves as a transportation area (replacing traditional hallways) while classes are passing and as a library and service area during class periods. All of the 30 classrooms are almost the same short distance from the library and service area.

THE NEW building will be built in two phases. When the first phase is ready for use in Set., 1969, the building will accommodate 540 students. There will be approximately 50,000 square feet of floor space in the first phase. Construction cost of phase one will be approximately $1,000,000. The money to build the first stage was voted in June.

When the additional 30,000 feet of floor space is added in phase two, the Rand school will serve 900 students. Yet to be determined is exactly what will be included in phase one and phase two. It is probable that only 18 of the 30 classrooms will be built in phase one and that one of the two gyms and the school cafeteria will not be built in phase one. Voter authorization by referendum will be required before phase two of the building can be completed.

Administrators for the Arlington Public Schools believe that the new building will create a series of new opportunities for improved teaching. Here is a summary of the major benefits:

•• The building provides for the junior high school program as it's being presented in the three junior high schools now in use in Dist. 25. In addition the new building opens up the way to program refinement and development. The program in the new school will provide for multiple periods of major subjects such as language arts and social studies of up to five classes per week taught by the same teacher. In addition, there will be four periods of physical education per week and five periods for extra-curricular activities or study.

•• The philosophy underlying this program is hinged to the belief that each child in junior high school benefits from having a limited number of teachers and a home room class group with whom he spends most of his school day.

•• The arrangement of the learning spaces (classrooms) in the new Rand School are designed to facilitate individualized instruction and cooperative by teachers to a degree not attained before in the system.

Architect William Ganster is now under instruction from the board to develop the first drawings for the new building, for review by the board not later than Nov. 13.

At the Monday evening meeting, the board reviewed the enrollment school by school. Enrollment for the fall is 9,150. The average size of classes remains the same as it was last year as a result of adding 11 new classrooms. Miner Junior High School is the school in which the most congestion presently occurs and this cannot be eliminated until the new Rand School is ready for use. It was decided to study 1967 new building permits for single family residences within the district to get a better idea of how many additional students there will be coming to school later this year and next.

President Robert Bukowski announced that, in response to a board directive given him in August, a meeting has been called Sept. 28 of the presidents and chief administrative officers of the tax supported bodies in Arlington Heights. The meeting is scheduled for the Dist. 25 administrative building at 8 p.m.

Trees Cut

Non-aesthetic vandals were at work at the Robert Crowner home at 9 N. Stratford.

Crowner told Arlington Heights Police Monday bushes and trees in his front yard had been cut by vandals.

Metropolitan San. Dist. to Hold Hearings

The Metropolitan Sanitary Dist. is going to hold public hearings in the Cook County suburbs, including one in the Arlington Heights-Mount Prospect area, on its program to eliminate run-off of rainwater, snow and other surface water from district sewer lines by 1972.

This was the major result of the public hearing held yesterday by the Sanitary Dist. in Chicago and attended by representatives of 11 suburban municipalities. [illegible] G. Tower, head of the [illegible] department of engineering, represented Arlington Heights. Daniel Congreve, president of the village of Mount Prospect, also attended the hearing.

Other municipalities represented included Schaumburg, Wheeling, Palatine, Deerfield, Evanston, Glenview, Brookfield, Wilmette and Northfield.

THE DATES and places of the suburban hearings have not been determined. There will be at least one each in southern, northern, northwestern and western Cook County. The northern meeting is likely to be held in Evanston. The northwest meeting is likely to be held in Arlington Heights. It is expected that the hearings will be held within a one week [illegible] the end of the year, most likely in November.

District Supt. Vinton Bacon outlined the three-step program to remove surface water from sewer mains by July 1, 1972:

--By July 1, 1968, all municipalities are to submit reports describing illegal surface water connections within their limits, sewers with excessive surface water infiltration, industrial plants contributing waste, inadequate sewers and recommendations for correcting the problems.

--By July 1, 1969, all municipalities are to have disconnected all downspouts, footing drains and other illegal surface connections which have moved surface water into sewer lines.

--By July 1, 1972, the municipalities are to have completed all corrective measures, assuring that the sanitary district's sewer lines will be free of surface water.

THOSE ATTENDING the hearings raised the following issues:

--The legality of footing drains which at present move surface water out of basements and footing areas in sewer lines need to be reviewed, many representatives said. They pointed out that until three years ago most municipalities are permitted to connect to the sewer system.

--Many communities reported that lowering the infiltration limit from 5,000 gallons a day per mile to 500 gallons was impractical. Some sewer lines have been in service for as much as 100 years. To replace all old lines by 1972 would be economically impractical, they said.

--Several municipalities said that the deadline lines, even the first one, are coming up too soon. They do not allow time to make necessary financial arrangements for such major improvements.

--The question was raised as to who will pay for these improvements to the property. Improvements related to removal of downspouts and footing tile drains.

Bacon indicated that it would be the responsibility of the municipalities.

--Several municipalities, especially Northfield, questioned the merit of channeling surface water out of sewer lines and into creeks and rivers until the waterways have been improved. Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect expressed this concern about Waller Creek. Northfield made reference to the North Chicago River system.

Bacon and his associates conceded that this is a problem and will have to be solved during the same time interval.

Richard Stamm, right, 1414 Redwood, Mount Prospect, is the new Dist. 59 board member. Attorney Frank Hines, center, swears him in, as board president Richard Hess, seated, looks on. Stamm, an Annapolis graduate, has served with the Navy in both the Arctic and Antarctic and is general manager of Intra Service Co-operative, Inc., an air conditioning firm. A candidate for the Dist. 59 board in last April's election, he heads COULD - a local organization concerned with children who have learning disabilities.

School Administrators Seek Better Links To Outside Agencies

BY JAN BONE
Fourth in a Series

What do administrators and consultants of School Dist. 59 say about the system they work for?

How do they get along with teachers? With Parents? Whara do they think the school district needs to do a better job? What areas of the school system do they like best?

As part of its four-section survey, Dist. 59 asked all its administrators and consultants to answer 393 questions with "yes," "no," or "uncertain or mixed feelings."

TWO COUNSELING specialists from Northern Illinois University also interviewed 35 per cent of the administrators in private sessions for a what-do-you-really-think? check of the questionnaires.

How does the district define administrators?

A building principal is an administrator. So is the director of transportation. So is an assistant superintendent.

A consultant, on the other hand, has responsibility for one particular subject area, usually on a district wide basis. A mathematics consultant, a reading consultant, or a science consultant talks to teachers in all the district's 18 buildings.

Here's what the survey said:

Administrators said they better understood their responsibilities to school principals, custodians, classroom teachers and special education teachers than they did to other groups, such as central office people or consultants.

They said their were not clear about their responsibilities to funding agency personnel---people who work with outside agencies that give Dist. 59 money to run some special programs.

Kettering Foundation, for instance, will spend $20,000 during this school year to help run Salt Creek School's Learning Center. The school becomes a model to demonstrate new ideas in education.

STATE FUNDS help run the Fine Arts Center at Ridge School, and a Dempster program for academically gifted children.

Federal funds bring in money for educational opportunity programs and for additional demonstration centers.

Administrators want their relationships with these funded programs spelled out in much more specific details.

For instance, only 21 per cent of administrators knew clearly how policy decisions about funding agencies get made.

Is this important?

Yes. Dist. 59 gets quite a bit of its money from outside sources. Out of every dollar of income for its educational fund, the district gets 29.8 per cent from the state, and 9.3 per cent from federal funds.

PRINCIPALS saw themselves as working together with teachers to help children.

To the statement "A principal's first responsibility is to his teachers and pupils, "88 per cent of the principals responding said "Yes."

Seventy-eight per cent of the principals also felt they gave teachers flexibility to experiment with new techniques in teaching.

It's a co-operative effort, though. Eighty-six per cent of administrators said teachers were as important as principals in achieving school goals. And 90 per cent said the principal of each building should have control over choosing his teachers.

SHOULD PARENTS visit the classrooms in a planned program to help them learn more about different teaching techniques? "Yes," said more than 84 per cent of administrators.

What about children who disrupt regular classes? Find a special place for them, say 68 per cent of administrators.

Many of those who answered the survey questions said they liked Dist. 59's flexibility which allowed each building to be different in its own way. However, some of them had reservations about competition between buildings and principals, and wondered if the district's 18 schools really had equal status.

MEETINGS sometimes got in the way of work, said all the groups who answered this section of the survey.

One problem for most administrators is telling people what's going on in the district. Eighty-two per cent wanted a full-time public relations person to be responsible for letting the community know what's happening.

Typical comments about this were:

"The public is being taken for granted."

"The board is not assuming its share of public relations responsibility."

"The schools are running too far ahead of their public."

"More grass roots parent education is needed."

DR. JOSEPH Ellis of Northern Illinois University, and his assistant, Mrs. Charlotte Farris, directed this part of Dist. 59's four-phase survey.

Others on the steering committee who helped them were Ludwig Bodzewski, Gerry Buckler, Jean Griffith, Merle Nevenhoven, Don Skidmore, and Charles Welch.

12-Yr.-Old Charged In Battery, Assault

A 12-year-old Arlington Heights boy has been placed in the Audy Juvenile Home in Chicago on charges of battery and aggravated assault.

Arlington Heights police arrested the youth Friday after the father of a 6-year-old girl reported his daughter had been threatened by a man with a knife.

The child told police a man put a knife to her throat and threatened her live. She said she screamed, was able to run away, and told her parents.

Earlier this month, a young woman told Arlington Heights Police she was attacked near the underpass at Davis and Bristol. She said a man threw her on the ground and hit her.

The young woman and the little girl told police they thought the boy was a teenager but police said both were able to identify the youth as the man who attacked them.

A hearing date was set for Sept. 26 in Family Court.

'Are You Passing The Buck?'

"Are You Passing the Buck" will be the theme of tonight's meeting of the North School PTA, to be held at 8:15 p.m. in the North School multi-purpose room.

A panel of three representatives from the community will examine the problem of apathy--civic, moral, and spiritual--which the National Congress of Parents and Teachers cites in its "Action Program of 1965-68" as a critical issue influencing the children of today.

Those participating on the panel will be Sergeant George Ekblad, detective division, Arlington Heights Police Dept.; Reverend Kenneth Lemmel, associate minister, First Methodist Church; and Mr. John Strong, social worker, School Dist. 214.

A general discussion will follow the panel presentation.

LWV Fund Drive Begins

The League of Women Voters launched its finance drive officially yesterday morning with a breakfast for league members at the Arlington Heights home of Mrs. Irving Crystal. After breakfast, members contacted business and professional people in the community for contributions. The goal for the finance drive is $900, which includes contributions by members.

The money collected by the LWV will be used to perform voter services in Wheeling and Elk Grove Townships. The LWV publishes local government guides (10,000 of which were printed in Sept.), and distributes them free of charge to village officials, clubs and organizations and interested citizens. They held candidates meetings in Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Rolling Meadows before the last elections and sponsored a legislation school with workshops. LWV members maintain a speaker's bureau and conduct registration and voting drives.

Proclaims Constitution Week

Left – President John G. Woods last night signed a resolution proclaiming Sept. 17 to 23 Constitution Week in Arlington Heights. He also proclaimed the period Sept. 18 to 25 Women Voters Week and was authorized by the board of trustees to send a congratulatory message to Mayor Daniel Congreve on Mount Prospect's 50th Anniversary. Witnessing the proclamation of Constitution Week are Mrs. John Bowen, recording secretary of the Daughter's of the American Revolution, her daughter Marjorie, president of the Children of the American Revolution and her son Peter, a member.

Autos Damaged, Burglarized

Four persons told Arlington Heights Police Sunday their cars were damaged and items in the cars stolen when the vehicles were parked at Hasbrook Park.

The men were part of a square dance club that met at Hasbrook Park and took a bus trip to Chicago. When they returned, early Sunday, they discovered the damage.

Robert Schultz of 1018 N. Kaspar and Boyd Page of Mundelein, told police the tires on their cars were slashed.

Donald S. Peterson of Palatine said a flashlight, compass, electric razor and tow sport jackets, were taken from his car.

Two sweaters and a wig were reported missing from a car owned by Andrew Calas of Des Plaines.

3 Get Jail, 5 Get Supervision For Possession, Sale of Narcotics

Jail sentences and periods of supervision were doled out to eight Arlington Heights youths Friday by Judge James Geocaris in Arlington Heights Branch of Circuit Court.

The boys, all between the ages of 18 and 20, were arrested by Arlington Heights Police August 13 for the possession, sale and distribution of marijuana.

Jeffrey Platt of 806 N. Kennicott, and Moline, was sentenced to serve 30 days in Cook County Jail for the possession and dispensing of narcotic drugs.

Richard Sorensen of 943 N. Kaspar and Dennis Koeppin of 1675 S. Arlington Heights Rd. were ordered to spend the weekend in the Arlington Heights Jail.

Sorenson was charged with selling nercotics and Koeppin was charged with the sale and posession of narcotic drugs.

Steven Schroeder of 836 N. Belmont, charged with selling narcotics, was placed one-year supervision of the court.

Four other youths, charged with posession of narcotics, also were placed on one year supervision which will expire Sept. 20, 1968.

Thought It Was A Car Pool

An evening swim in the pool may seem inviting but it is always best to get out of the car first.

Earl Kimble, night manager of the Holiday Inn on Algonquin Rd. in Rolling Meadows, told Police Sunday a car was driven on the lawn around the swimming pool of the motel.

He said the only damage was tire prints on the wet grass.

Rolling Meadows Police were unable to locate the car.

Battery Gone

Robert Knoaik of 2403 E. Olive told Arlington Heights Police Monday a battery was stolen from his car when it was parked in the Brandenberry Court parking lot.

Panel of American Women

Four Examples Of Prejudice

BELOW — Members of the Arlington Heights branch of the AAUW warmly applaud the Panel of American Women speaking about their personal experiences with prejudice.

BY MARILYN HELFERS

A realistic picture of the many shapes of prejudice was painted for more than 100 members of the Arlington Heights branch of the American Association of University Women at their recent meeting. Five women expressed "in living color" the effect of prejudice on their lives.

Each woman, a Jew, a Catholic, a Negro, a white Anglo-Saxon protestant and a moderator told the story of their own experience with prejudice. The women are members of the Panel of American Women, and are among 17 North Shore women who take part in the panel started two years ago in Lake Forest by Elaine Crowe. The original panel of American Women was formed in Kansas City, Mo. by Esther Brown 10 years ago.

"We're comfortable being Jewish," said Mrs. Fred P. Robbins, a resident of Glencoe for 12 years and the mother of three children, the oldest in college. "I've been asked why Jews stick together. They do because they feel secure together and know they're welcome," she said. Mrs. Robbins said she has the same "degrees" that most mothers have, regardless of their race or religion--"BDF, bird, dog feeder; CC constant chauffer; RLB, retriever of lost books, and PBSM, peanut butter sandwich maker."

MRS. CARL Seichile, Catholic member of the panel, believes that "it is not in our religions that our problems exist, but in ourselves," and "in our house we are more concerned with man's relationship to men than a person's religion."

Mrs. Chester Scott, a wife, mother and Negro who grew up in Evanston, said, "I have laughed and cried at your inconsistant attitudes toward me. I have been called nigger by complete strangers. It's hard to explain to my 4-year-old daughter why the neighbors ignore her."

"I'm tried of being insulated. I went to meet all kinds of people in my community and in my neighborhood," said Mrs. Franz Schulze, white, mostly Anglo-Saxon and protestant panel member. "I grew up on Chicago's South side and everyone tells me I was lucky to get out before it became all black. But I think a live-and-let-live attitude can be rewarding."

WHEN EACH woman had told her story, she answered questions from the audience, not as an expert, but in her own opinions.

"What do you think of Redmond's plan for bussing negro and white children?" was one question. Mrs. Schultz answered, "This way children can get to know other children who are different from them in a casual relationship. And once schools are integrated, housing will become integrated."'

One AAUW member in the audience who had taught in integrated schools cautioned, "You must prepare teachers to teach in integrated schools. You have to prepare them for the hatred on both sides, or it won't work."

SOMEONE else wanted to know, "How can each person further human relations in our community?" Mrs. Robbins responded, "I don't know what Arlington Heights wants to do, but you have to start in your own community--form groups. Most communities have human relation councils, but they are usually ineffective, doing much talking but taking no action. You have to be strong. It's hard work, but it's rewarding."

Mrs. Schulze replied to the same question, "When a house is for sale in your neighborhood, you could casually mention that it would be nice if they put the house on open listing--then RUN." "Seriously," she said, "one of the biggest excuses for not selling houses on open listing is 'I can't, because of my neighbors.' Probably, the neighbors really wouldn't mind, if each was asked casually and separately."

ANOTHER AAUW member commented, "Chicago is very ghetto-like with its ethnic groups sticking together. Some suburbs, like Lake Forest, are more established and have already arrived. The northwest suburbs have young families with husbands on their way up. People are afraid of what their neighbors will think because they themselves are not sure of how they feel about integration."

"Why don't you have an Oriental or Puerto Rican in your group?" asked the audience. "We'd be delighted to, if we could find one who was interested. There aren't enough of us to speak to all the groups who request us," was the reply. (The panel appears on invitation before clubs and other organizations.)

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

Yesterday we told about noticing, finally after quite a few years, that the scales in our regular summer fruit and vegetable stand hadn't been inspected in a long time. The sticker on one of the scales read "Tested and Approved 1944."

So we called the Illinois Department of Agriculture, 300 W. Washington, Chicago. We decided to pose as a prospectiva store owner. "Three of us plan on opening a store, probably in the suburbs and we want to know what we have to do to have our produce scales inspected. We understand it is required and we want to conform to all the laws before we begin."

"This is Jeannette DiVito, I'm the secretary in charge of the Chicago office of the Division of Feeds and Fertilizers. Our department takes care of the testing and approving of all scales in the state, except in towns of over 25,000 population that have their own ordinance."

"Can you tell us what we have to do ragarding the scales wa plan to use in our store? How do we get them tested and approved?"

"When you are ready to begin operations, let us know. If your stora will be in Chicago, the scales will be tested by the city, which has its own department of weights and measures. If you open your store in a suburb that doesn't have an ordinance, we will do the testing. Wa will send a man out to inspect the scales, and if they are approved, he will place a decal on each one to show that they were inspected this year."

"Does this have to be done every year?"

"Yes, it does."

"How can someone tell that the scale was inspected this year?"

"The decal has a different color each year and it has the number of the year on it."

"What is the fee for the inspection?"

"It is 50 cents for each counter scale."

"Could you send me a copy of the weights and measures law and a copy of the fee schedules, so we can look them over and be sure we are doing everything right?"

"We are out of them right now, but I'll send you a copy when we get some more in a few days."

We waited a week, then called again. We were told the information would be sent to us, but instead got a letter from Springfield, telling us to contact them or the city of Chicago when our scales were ready for testing.

Tomorrow: We are able to get a copy of the law and the fee schedule on our own, then set out to check other produce stands.

Bruning Co. Hosts Workers And Residents

BY SONIA JOHNSON

RIGHT – Visitors relax in the sunshine near a fountain at the Charles Bruning Co. which held an open house Saturday.

BELOW -- Helping to entertain at the Bruning open house for workers, their families and residents of the area were the members of the Guardsmen drum and bugle corps.

Charles Bruning Co. employes hosted an extensive open house Saturday for co-workers, families and area residents. Festivities included music by American Legion Post 242 drum and bugle corps, The Guardsmen, a grand tour of the facilities, cake and coffee in the cafeteria, and helium-filled balloons for the youngsters. Mothers left their small ones in the care of capable nurses, clowns and children's movies offered in a special room.

The Bruning firm is well known for its duplicating machines which are world renowned, but a tour of the new facilities points out other areas. They are large suppliers of various types of duplicating papers which are specifically coated, cut and packaged at the plant. Drawing equipment for engineers and draftsmen is also available. They don't manufacture it, but for the convenience of their customers, have it on hand.

In the eternal search for progress and improvement, Bruning houses extensive research laboratories. Here pigments for duplication are improved and perfected, a large staff of engineers is constantly working toward new and better processees, and a small nucleus of men design and develop new products in the field.

Highlights in the plant tour disclosed the tremendous amount of modern, efficient equipment including large paper coating machines that process 7,000 yards of paper per hour going at a constant hum, efficient paper-cutting machines that reeled rolls off in minutes, and a mammoth monster that one walks up on a ramp to oversee and which rolls off, cuts to specifications and counts reams of paper ready for packaging. Facilities also includes some fifty-plus lift trucks, a large truck ramp and a railroad siding which brings boacars into the building for loading or unloading. Air facilities are also used for delivery, both here and overseas, of some of the complicated machinery.

Employes of Bruning enjoy the spacious, new, modern facilities which include ample parking, good food in the attractive cafeteria at low prices, generous employe banefits, clean and comfortable working conditions, good wage, congenial co-workers and for local people, it is magnificently close to home. The plant is undoubtedly an asset to our area.

A New Mousetrap

By Catherine O'Donnell

When Jo and Lawrence Dougherty of St. James St. in Arlington Heights were first married, Lawrence who was still in college said that he would like to invent something.

"Something like an electric knife," he said.

Jo lacked enthusiasm. "No one would be that lazy," she said.

She guessed wrong. A while hack Larry and his good friend Terry Gallagher from Mount Prospect had a great idea.

The two men work for Chicago Aerial Industries in Barrington as project engineers and they usually ride to work together. Both hold degrees in mechanical engineering and their new idea seemed so good that they decided to give their after working hours activity an official name. They called it Prospect Engineering and they located on Lincoln Rd.

The great idea turned into one of those once in a lifetime jackpots.

By giving up the time they'd been spending playing golf, they invented a collapsible golf cart. It is large enough to operate with the best of the carts on a golf course and when it is folded it can fit in the trunk of a car. It is powerad by a gasoline motor. It weighs just fifty pounds and Jo and Terry's wife, Marie have no trouble in handling it.

Last week Lawrence exhibited his cart at a worldwide convention of inventors in New York. From 15,000 inventions, it was given the Show Award for being the most outstanding. Johnny Carson showed it on television last Thursday.

Dougherty is a little overwhelmed by the success. He called home to say that he had a box full of offers from manufacturers.

The two families have lived in the area for 7 years. Jo is a native of Elmhurst.

It's a nice story about nice people, and it's nice that it has a happy ending.

HELPING HAND

Don Nicholson, Grand Knight of the Local Knights of Columbus, is inviting any interested residents to the next meeting of the Knights. It will be held Thursday, Sept. 21 at 8:30 p.m. in the organization hall, 15 N. Hickory.

Don is proud to present Mr. and Mrs. John Drish, an Illinois Bell Telephone Com. executive who has spent years helping ex-convicts re-establish themselves.

The Drishes founded the Citizen's Committee for Employment. The Committee issues a brochure appealing for jobs for the 15 to 25 men released from the County Jail each month. Each of the men have been carefully screened.

His talk to the Knights and their guests will be on the subject of former convicts.

Besides his present work, Drish served as secretary on the Governor's Commission of the Department of Correction for four years.

He is on the Executive Committee of the Christian Family Movement which has a membership of 60,000 couples. He founded the Young Christian Nurses movement which is dedicated to improving the spirit of nursing. He is past advisor to the Junior Achievement Group and a member of the Illinois Academy of Criminology.

It should be an interesting and exciting evening.

WAITING ROOM

The following conversation between a patient mother and a charming little girl happened in the reception room last Saturday morning where Medical Associate member, Dr. Robert Kloempken was the man to see:

"Have you ever been to a wedding?" the around-five-year old asked her mother.

"Yes," was the answer and the second question came.

"Did you ever catch a bouquet?"

The answer to that was, "Yes."

"Was it grandma's?" asked the questioner.

Everyone in the reception room waited for the answer.

"No," said the mother, "no, it wasn't grandma's."

Official to Attend St. Louis Parley

Paul E. Collins, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn., will attend the 88th annual convention of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, Sept. 17-20, at the Chase-Park Plaza Hotel in St. Louis.

Representatives of savings and loan associations will share the platform with top state and federal supervisory officials, according to League President Charles E. Gilliland of Flora.

Delegates also will participate in panel discussions and workshop sessions during the three-day meeting.

A Good Investment

September marks the 10-year milestone of the North American Air Defense Command - the joint U. S. - Canadian operation whose job is to defend the 10 million square miles and 220 million citizens of North America against air attack.

When NORAD was born in 1957, the chief threat was the manned bomber, and the main defenses against it were antiaircraft guns and subsonic fighters firing machine guns.

Today, the inventory lists an all-supersonic interceptor force armed with infrared or radar-guided missiles. Antiaircraft guns have been retired in favor of surface-launched missiles, which can reach up to 150,000 feet.

A ballistic missile early warning system and a space surveillance network have replaced volunteer civilian sky watchers. The radars daily track some 200,000 aircraft flights and nearly 1,200 satellites.

Today, the continent's aerospace fortress - manned by 170,000 people at some 400 locations and linked by 16 million miles of communications circuitry - stretches from the polar ice cap to the Mexican border, from far out over the Pacific across into the Atlantic, from above ground level to the fringes of space.

In equipment and installation, NORAD represents an investment of $11.5 billion.

A cheap enough price for the security it has bought over the past decade.

DOCTOR SAYS

Side Effects Will Vary With Each Tranquilizer

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q--I read that Miltown has caused disastrous results in recent tests on animals in some research centers. What kind of harm would it cause?

A--Although most modern drugs can have undesirable side effects, these can usually be avoided by careful medical supervision. Meprobamate (Miltown) is one of the safest of the so-called tranquilizers. It may produce undue drowsiness but when this is observed dextroamphetamine given simultaneously should counteract this dffect.

Q--I've been taking Equanil every night for five years. Could this drug have a bad effect on my mental condition?

A--This is a brand of meprobamate. It improves rather than impairs the mental condition of persons who are overly excitable or excessively fearful.

Q--What is Meprospan given for?

A--This is a brand of meprobamate, a mild tranquilizer.

Q--What causes purpura? What will cure it or prevent a recurrence?

A--Purpura is a disease in which bleeding occurs under tha skin spontaneously or after very slight trauma. The underlying mechanism is a deficiency in the number of platelets in the blood. In many cases the cause of this deficiency is unknown; in others it may be due to an allergy, an individual sensitivity to various drugs, rheumatic fever or a deficiency of vitamin C.

If the cause can be determined, the prevention and cure present no serious problem. If the cause is unknown, treatment with ACTH or related drugs may be of value. For severe purpura, transfusions with fresh plasma and removal of the spleen are often necessary. Anyone with this disease who must have his spleen removed should have this done before any other operation is attempted.

Q--How can I get rid of stretch marks on my abdomen resulting from pregnancy?

A--These marks or striae, which may also be caused by rapid growth, large benign tumors or loss of weight after a period of obesity, consist of fibrous scar tissue. There is no way of getting rid of them. If the skin of the area is replaced with a skin graft the stretch marks would almost surely reappear in the same location.

Five Area Harrier Squads Seek Improvement on Road

Five ares cross country squads will be busy on the road tomorrow afternoon.

Arlington will visit Evanston while St. Viator is at Maine East, Forest View at West Leyden, Wheeling at Highland Park and Elk Grove at Barrington in n triangular with the Broncos and Maine West.

THE CARDINALS will challenge n team that swept the district meet of the state tourney last season. Dave Abernalhy, district champ last year, is back but Evanston was damaged by graduation and is not fielding as strong a team this season.

Arlington, meanwhile, has been rounding into shape. Dave Dieters, mostly recovered from foot trouble that hampered his training in previous weeks, took n second at the Maine West Centers meet last Saturday. Rich Saxton and Tom Swanson also are running better, according to Coach Bruce Samoore, but are still weak from colds. The pair probably will not be in top form for a couple of weeks.

Coach John Heenan at Forest View has been getting improved performances from some of his runners of late, expecinlly Bob Bell who finished sixth at the sophomore level of the Maine West meet. Rich Thnyer came in sixth for the Falcons on the junior varsity level.

"THE BOYS are looking reni good," snid Heennn. "They're working hard and getting into shnpe. We're looking forward to tnking West Leyden."

Other runners carrying the brunt of the Forest View attack are Joe Branka, Tom Vaughn and Oscar Pequento.

St. Viator will hnve its hands full with the Bulldogs of Mnine East. Maine is led by slick senior Jack Gilio who last week beat out the best that Arlington could throw against him. Gilio was timed at 8:58 for the 1.85 mile course.

Other Bulldogs who may give the Lions fits are Bill Nawman, Bnrry Cnponi, Bruce Ruiz and Denny Arends.

ST. VIATOR Coach Owen Fox hns been getting improved milenge from his chnrges Glenbrook South yeilded the first seven places to Lions last Friday. Junior Mark Botterman ran the two mile course in 11:56 to take first place.

"This is the kind of meet we need right now," seld Conch Bob Rees of Elk Grove, looking toward the triangular with Bnrrington and Mnine West at Barrington.

"We won two meets last week, but the caliber of competition wasn't what it will be at Barrington. We need to run against strong competition to find out how good we are."

If strong competition can help n team prove its quality, the Grenadiers will have the opportunity. Maine comes into the match off an overall win in its own meet last weekend.

Lee LaBadie, a four-year letterman, set n new varsity record for in that one with n 9:58. In varsity competition, Maine finished fourth, behind New Trier, Arlington and LaGrange.

AGAINST THIS formidible crew, Elk Grove will rely on the speed of Gary Steen, Bob Bachus, Jerry Arnona, Bob Texidor and Wayne Wille as its first five.

Steen, the sqund's only senior, finished first against Addison Trnil in the squad's opener and repeated his performance against Fenton Thursday.

Wheeling nnd Highland Park were brushing shoulders at the end of the Maine West meet. In the overall standings, the Wildcats tied for 11th while Highland was 14th.

Wheeling will be led by Greg Gawlik and Phil Smith who have come on strong in recent dual meets. At Maine, Gawlik took a second in the sophomore division with a time of 11:08.

Bruce Hubbard, former football star for Arlington High School, will be with Northwestern University when the Wildcats open their 1967 grid season Saturday at the University of Miami, Fla. Hubbard, n 6-6, 200-pound split end graduated from Arlington in June, 1965. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hubbard, 1311 W. Park, Arlington Heights.

Sidelines

BY JIM MASEK

Dale Hoffman has left these pages, leaving behind not so much as a fnrewell column introducing his replacement. So it's up to me to make the introductions.

As the byline says nbove, I'm Jim Masek, new sports editor of the Day.

So much for that.

Now we can telk sports.

Watching n football game or getting down on the field to bump heads is great fun. But football, like nll sports, is much more than entertaining.

THE BOOM IN attendance figures for all sports shows pretty well that people enjoy seeing young men do battle of one form or nnother. We are told by coaches that ethletics is n great source of physical conditioning. There is no immedintely epparent reason to contradict them.

There may be n social value to sports as well, n value particularly relevant to n country beset with racial unrest.

The Wretched of the Earth is a book nbout oppressed minorities by Algerian psychologist Frantz Fanon. In it, Fanon claims that persons subjected to the domination of others bulid up n need to take violent action ageinst their oppressors. As translated into American terms by Black Power advocates like Stokely Carmichael and Rap Brown, this comes to mean thet the Negro minority mentally and physically needs to commit violence against whites who are seen as enemies.

THE POINT IS not whether this claim is true or fnlse. The problem is that enough people believing its truth create a danger to the law.

If there is a physical need for violence, Fanon probably is overstating it. That's where sports can come in. Athletics of all sorts provide healthy competition. Footbell, for example, can provide a satisfying and harmless wey to relieve tension, to get even, if you prefer it that wey.

Expanded recreation programs in ghetto areas might do much to relieve the pressures building there, just as they help keep kids off the streets elsewhere.

• • •

THE MOST HAPPY man in the area must be Coach Dick Mudge of Elk Grove High. His Grenadiers not only won their first ever against varsity competition Saturday, but they ware the only team from their conference to win n game.

It's good to see the Grens upholding the good name of the Mid-Suburban Conference.

'Grens Needed Win': Mudge

"We won one when we really needed it," said Elk Grove football Coach Dick Mudge following his Grenadiers' 13-12 win over Addison Trail Saturday.

The victory was the first for Elk Grove against n varsity opponent end the only win by n Mid-Suburban League team against foreign opposition.

"ADDISON HAD a good ball club, one that was vastly improved over inst yenr," Mudge said.

Then the Grens are improved too?

"That's whet was running through my mind after the game," the coach said. "They beat us 19-6 last year and had most of their boys back. It took a second and third effort some times, but we got the job done."

"We had our ground game going for us this year. Our kids just had n little more confidence in our running. They didn't hnve as much last year."

With the infantry troops working, the nir lanes opened up. The Greandiers rolled up 154 ynrds in the eir as quarterback Larry Pahl made good on 14 of 31 passes.

"Pahl did n good job, but so does Jim Veltri," Mudge said. "Who knows, maybe it will be Veltri against Forest View next weekend."

VELTRI AND Pahl have nlternated at qunrterbnck since the beginning of last season. Before the Addison game, Mudge had said that he would use the signal caller who could move the team. Pahl accomplished this and stayed in, although Veltri saw some action in the second half.

There were n couple turning points late in the game, according to the coach. One was n 65-yard punt by Jim Oplt. The kick came in the fourth period when the Grens were nursing their one-point lead. It put Addison back on its own three, e bad field position that it was never able to overcome.

Another important element in the game was provided by the second offensive unit, also late in the fourth quarter. Elk Grove was playing n cautious game, resting the players who play first string on both defense and offense. The second offensive unit cnme through with a pair of first downs, enting up precious time.

MUDGE WAS encouraged by the pley of fullback Oplt, converted from n lineman this year. He also singled out the performances of guard Bruce Spada and halfback Jim Hoffman on offense as well as guard Jim Holmes, end Roy McCleilnn nnd end Tom Pomey on defense.

The Grens will try to extend their winning strenk when they visit Forest View this Saturday.

"If we cen go ngninst Forest View," Mudge said, "we'll be able to go against anybody in the league."

R. Langlois Advances In Fishing Tourney

Richard Langlois of 1111 W. Maude, Arlington Heights, will join more than 4 other fishermen competing for the 1967 Illinois State Fishing Championship Sunday.

Langlois reached the finais by qualifying last Thursday when he caught 10 white bass, good for 54 points.

Sundny's contest will be heid nt Lake Catherine.

The Arlington angler was one of 20 who qualified during the first seven days of the 13-day qualifying period which will end Saturday.

Under the scoring system of the tournament, each pound of fish caught counts for one point.

Coach Joe Gliwn takes advantage of n break in the proceedings against Glenbrook South to point out some cracks in the defense to quarterback Dennis Palubicki. The fleet signal caller passed for 180 yards against Glenbrook, hitting 9 of 16, and ran for another 47 yards.

'Lot of Little Things' Make Lion Coach Happy

"Yes, I was pretty satisfied with that for a first game," said St. Viator Coach Joe Gliwa as he looked back on his charges' 12-7 victory over Glenbrook South Friday. "But I sure wouldn't want to play them again next week."

GLIWA FOUND what he called "n lot of little things" to be heppy with in the Lions' victory, but he also came away with n healthy respect for the defeated enemy.

The Lions' skipper pointed to two things that he thought gave his crew an edge Friday. "In the first place I think we were in a little better shape than they were. We didn't really change that much nt halftime, but they seemed to run out of gas. And our kids got stronger. Of course, it seems like our kids always get stronger in the second half."

THE OTHER big factor working for St. Viator was the absence of a legitimatn Glenbrook passing attack. "We kept expecting them to throw, especially on third down situations," Gliwa explained. "But they never did. "I guess it was because they just didn't hnve a strong thrower anywhere."

The Lions' own passing game was one of the encouraging aspects of the contest to Gliwn. The game plan called for Viator to pass as much as possible and to run only enough to keep the enemy defense honest. And that is just what the local eleven did, es quarterbnck Dennis Pelubicki connected on nine of 16 tosses for 180 yards.

"PALUBICKI did n great job," Gljwa said. "But I think this game was a team effort. "You have to give a lot of credit to the boys who caught those passes nnd to the underclnssmen who cnme through so well on defense in the second half.

Gliwa referred to the Lions who were manning the left side of the defensive line. Glenbrook aimed several successful plays at them in the first two quarters, but the Titans were contained nfter that.

"We had three juniors over there," Gliwn said. "They just needed some experience. You know, one full game is worth more to them than n whole season of playing once in n while."

The Lions' bnttle-tested rookies will get their next chance to use that experience Saturday against Argo at Arlington High School.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

The pitch and run is one of the easiest and one of the most important of the short shots around the green. It is plnyed with e wedge or some other lofted club.

The object of the pitch and run is to loft the ball over some obstacle or stretch of high grass nnd onto the green to run to the pin. It is generally used when the pin is cut close to the edge of the fringe and you don't heve much room to run on.

WITH THE pitch nnd run, you don't try to apply nny backspin. You only pitch the ball into the nir very softly onto the green and let it run to the hole. This shot is used out of the rough or high grass around the green.

The mechanics remain apparoximately the same for this shot as any wedge shot--with the exception of the lack of bnckspin. You realize that backspin cannot be obtained and yet you hnve some room between the fringe end the pin.

PICK A SPOT just over the heavy area on which you must land the ball so that there will still be enough running room to the hole: Pitch the ball as if you were tossing something underhanded and let it lend on the target area--the rest is up to nature.

Flying Senior

Prospect's Leo Essick Looks To the Sky

Within two weeks, Leo Essick, 17, expects to hold a private pilot's license, a goal he has been working towards since he was a small child.

Always interested in aviation, the Prospect High School senior had his first lesson at 13 but abandoned flying lessons on a steady basis until the past year.

He explained that while he would have legally been able to solo an airplane when he was 15 years old, he wasn't old enough to obtain a driver's license and had no way to get out to the airport after school for lessons.

The second early obstacle was expense. It costs approximately $600 to earn a private pilot's license and Essick has borne this expense himself by working after school and in the summer.

His present schedule includes a full academic program, flying lessons twice each week, ground school, and a part time job repairing automatic pinsetters at a bowling alley.

DURING THE next two weeks he will have his final examination in ground school, take the FAA private pilot's exam, and have a final flight test.

Essick, who takes lessons at George Priester, Inc. at Palwaukee Airport, has completed 40 hours of flying time which included 10 hours of solo cross-country flying.

He said he's been fortunate in not having any serious problems during flight although he said he and his instructor once landed a single-engine aircraft at O'Hare Field, an experience he found "a little rough."

ALTHOUGH O'Hara is reported to be the world's busiest airport, Essick said he thinks there are many more take-offs and landings at Palwaukee because of the great number of student pilots there.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo C. Essick, 13 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, have supported his interest in flying.

Essick plans a career as a commercial airline pilot, a goal he hopes to reach by the time he is 20 years old. To attain the rating he must have had two years of college, packed in 1,500 more hours of flying time and passed four more FAA tests and ratings.

"When I soloed for the first time I had a fleeting thought about 'What am I doing up here in this plane alone?' At the same time it's probably one of the most exciting moments a pilot ever has. It seems odd because there is no instructor telling you to watch this or that," he said.

ONE FACET of flying that causes problems for many students is operation of the radio. Essick held a radio operator's license before he even began flying and had only to learn the terminology used in flight radio exchanges.

Although he has concentrated most of his time and attention on flying, Essick has also been a member of the Prospect High School swimming team for three years and was on the school's baseball team last year.

He plans to begin accumulating flying time toward his commercial license as soon as he obtains his private pilot rating. He is also looking forward to another first experience the private license will enable him to do — take his parents on a flight as their pilot.

Aircraft approaches Palwaukee Airport for a landing with Leo Essick in the pilot's seat. Day photographer George Steiner was invited along for a short flight with Essick and his instructor and reported a smooth trip.

Leo Essick, 17, secures the aircraft after a flight from Palwaukee Airport in Wheeling. He hopes to attain his private pilot's rating within two weeks, has financed the expensive process himself.

Lobbies Is GOP Topic

WILLIAM L. WATSON

A discussion on "Lobbying and Lobbyists" will be presented to the Elk Grove Republican organization by William L. Watson, lobbyist legislative chairman for the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce, on Monday, Sept. 25, at 8 p.m. at the Mount Prospect Country Club.

Watson is presently serving his second term as a member of the governor's highway study commission, which was created by the 73rd Illinois General Assembly. He was village president of Lombard for four years, vice president of the Illinois Municipal League for two years and was chairman of the Western Suburban Mayors' Committee on Mass Transportation for three years.

STATE REP. David Ragner (R-Mount Prospect) will review the fall session of the Illinois Assembly for the organization.

Other items on the agenda include a report on current projects of the Cook County Republican Organization from Carl R. Hansen, township committeeman and committee reports on fall activities, including the annual dance, scheduled for Oct. 27.

Cancer Drive Over The Top

The American Cancer Society has announced that its 1967 campaign in 21 Northwest suburban communities has gone over the top with contributions totaling $59,746.

In making the announcement, Ill. Div. Crusade Chairman Milton J. Darr and Dr. Frank J. Smith, president of the Northwest Suburban Unit, praised Unit Campaign Chairman John O. Logan and the volunteer workers who helped him make this Year's Crusade an overwhelming success.

"Logan and hundreds of public-spirited volunteers in this 21-community area deserve high praise for exceeding our announced goal of $55,000 and for being able to increase the annual contributions level by 18 per cent," Darr said.

He went on to point out that while pushing toward a $2,350,000 state goal this year that 125,000 Ill. volunteers had for the first time in history conducted a brief health habit survey. He added that this volunteer tabulation of the results of person-to-person interviews would prove invaluable in affecting a reduction in the tragic number of needless deaths from cancer.

UNIT Chairman Logan, who is president of Universal Oil Products Co., also emphasized the long-range benefits stemming from the annual Crusade against Cancer.

"Broadly speaking," the Barrington Hills resident said, "this year's drive has made people much more conscious of the importance of heeding cancer's warning signals."

He then added his own tribute to the volunteers who handled everything from trades and industries' solicitation to door-to-door canvassing:

"Every gain we have made against cancer in this crusade is due to the hard work of our volunteers and the public's growing knowledge of the urgency of this problem," Logan said. Among those singled out for special mention were the following community chairmen: James Stricklin, Arlington Heights; John Lorz, Barrington; Mrs. Mary Bullock, Buffalo Grove; Frank DePaul, Des Plaines; William Martin, Elk Grove Village; Mrs. Patricia Smith, Hoffman Estates; O. Grodon Dahlquist, Mount Prospect; Mrs. LaVergne Behm, Palatine; Robert Lindquist, Rolling Meadows and Burnett Nichols, Wheeling.

Hippie in Indian Is 'Ugh'!

BY TOM TIEDE
(NEA Staff Correspondent)

NEW BUFFALO, N.M. The sign on the gate says "No Trespassing." On the other side there is a deeply rutted road which twists e hot quarter-mile towerd the base of e small featureless mountain.

This, such as it is, is Hippieland, U.S.A.

And outeiders aren't welcome.

Tall, gaunt youths rush into the road whenever strangers approach. They wear no shirts nor shoes. Their ears ere studded with chaap jewelry and their faces ere grimly camouflaged with long snarls of shaggy heir.

"What do you want?"

Just looking.

"You're trespassing."

Just a friendly visit.

"Get off our land," the youths shout, "we haya no friends."

THE FINAL statement is true. The dozen psychedelic families which heva homesteaded here in northern New Meaico have no friends at all. In the past few months they heve managed to alienate nearly everyone in sight.

"Nobody likes them," says nearest neighbor Eli Arellano. "Thay ara dirty and unpleesant. Nobody even wants to assoicate with the kooks."

The "kooks" moved into this area last spring. They ceme from Penneylvania, California and elsewhere, some in cars, one in a Jeep truck and one in e Volkswagen painted to resemble a large yellow flower.

ON ARRIVAL, the hippie men stripped to the weist and the hippie women strapped their bebies on their backs. The idea was simple. They hed decided to imitate nearby Indian tribes, both physically and philosophically.

Eapalined one of them: "We want to get close to nature."

After examining all of the available nature in the region, the hippies bought 103 acres of it near Aroyo Hondo (for $22,000). Their bead-bedecked leader told the seller his bend was out to "Build e better world."

THE BETTER world began with tepees. Using poles ehopped from pine trees and canvas purchased in stores, the hippies construetad 11 wigwams, a few hundred feet epart, in the shade of their neerby hill.

Then followed the outdoor ovens, the dirt cellars, the scraggly gardens and, with the aid of a hippie-owned drilling truck, a wet well.

FOR HELP they turned to neighbor Eli Arellano.

"They didn't know anything ebout anything," Arellano says. "Most of them were skinny kids from the cities. I felt sorry for them. They offered to pay me to show them the ropes and I eccepted.

"First thing I did was teach them to mix straw and mud to make adobe brick. They'd never last the winter in the Indian tepees. So they decided to build e great big adobe house before the first freeze.

"I didn't mind working for them at first. They seemed to be sincere. But after awhile I knew it was no good. They've got all of these funny ideas, you know, and I just don't go along with that stuff."

NEITHER DO many others in this area.

Local women, for instance, are worried about the rumor that soma of the hippie families heven't bothered with the ceremony of marriage, this despite the 16 children that romp among the so-called flower people.

"I wonder," says a matron, "how many of those kids are legal."

Locel man era worried ebout the effect the hippies are heving on the peace and contentment of their lend. They say thet tourists ere already flocking around, kicking down fences and asking silly questions.

"My doorbell," saye e rancher, "just rings all day long."

LOCAL POLICE are worried ebout the over-all hippie motive. Several merijuene farms heve been discovered in the state recently end thus police admit the hippie people, by nature, are suspect.

"They'd better," says e cop, "just stick to growing corn."

Ironically, even the erea Indians are adversely concerned about their imitators. The Pueblo frankly feel that their tribe is being slandered.

"Only an Indien can be an Indien," scoffs Pueblo-born Tony Naylor. "The hippies are not good Indians. They aren't even good white men. I think they ere only parasites...like the fleas on the dog."

As far as both Indiens end whites are concerned, the only close-to-natura word thet adequately describes the hippie homasteeders ie: "Ugh!"

Bank of Arlington Heights Plans $100,000 Expansion

W.C. Wolf (left), president of the Bank of Arlington Heights, yesterday revealed to Village Manager L.A. Hanson an artist's drawing of the institution as it will look after the $100,000 expansion is completed in the beginning of the new year. The 75-foot building front will be precast concrete.

By Charles Mouratides

A $100,000 expansion to be completed "shortly after Jan. 1" was announced yesterday by the Bank of Arlington Heights.

The new facilities of the bank which is located in the Arlington Market, 900 E. Kensington, will occupy the place of the presently-adjacent barber shop and Wash-'n' Shop.

The two stores, according to W. C. Wolf, president of the bank, will be relocated to the extreme southern part of the market plaza. The bank will extend as far as the Polk Bros. store.

THE ADDITIONAL facilities will house all the commercial and laon business of the bank, Wolf said.

The institution now provides full banking facilities, Wolf said, but the directors are planning to introduce more services in the old section of the bank. He said be could not be specific regarding the nature of those services, but that they would increase the number of business transaction hours.

The bank is presently open six days a week, with several hours of evening business and is now serving about 19,000 accounts, Wolf said.

"The constantly growing community and our acceptance by its residents has made it necessary again for the bank directors to plan further expansion, and in so doing feel that a modernized appearance would further improve the already attractive facilities," said Wolf.

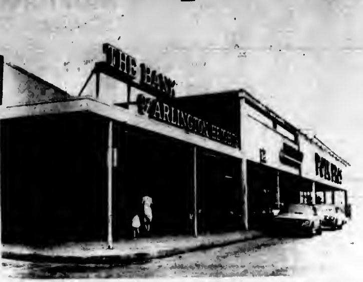
WHEN THE BANK opened in 1960 it had two drive-in windows. In 1965 two additional windows and 2,600 feet of housing were constructed.

Wolf said that about 2,500 feet of space now will be added to the present 7,500 feet. The completed frontage will total 75 feet and will be constructed from precast concrete.

Wolf called his bank the second fastest growing bank in the suburban area since it was built. The first one reportedly is O'Hare International Bank.

The Bank of Arlington Heights, according to Wolf, has total assets close to $23 million and capital of about $900,000.

When it started the capital was $510,000 and about $700,000 was deposited the first day of business.



The present building of the Bank of Arlington Heights, in the Arlington Market, will be expanded to occupy the place of the barber shop and the Wash-N-Shop store. Four drive-in windows not shown, are around the corner, to the left.

WORLD REPORT

Raging Beulah Strikes Texas

By United Press International

Beulah, the most intense gulf hurricane of the century, roared along the outline of the Texas coast, north-northwestward aiming at Corpus Christi.

At Brownsville, a motel was heavily damaged and a group of houses near the airport had heavy roof damage and many were unroofed.

Residents of Corpus Christi, a city of 194,000, were warned to take precautions against winds in excess of 100 miles per hour and 10 - 15 foot tides.

Beulah's death toll stood at 30. Bridgett Lavern Anthony, 15, of Houston, fell from a surfboard in the boiling waters off Freeport and was lost, becoming the first victim of Beulah in the United States.

The hurricane had killed 29 others in its trip through the Caribbean and the Yucatan Penninsula of Mexico.

New Lutheran Church Plat Approved

The preliminary plat of a new American Lutheran Church to be built in Arlington Heights was approved Monday by the Village Board of Trustees.

The church, to be located on 2.7 acres of land at the corner of Rand Rd. and the Commonwealth Edison right-of-way, south of the Rand Hill Cemetery, is expected to be completed by March 1968. Its estimated cost is $85,000.

The church will serve the north section of Arlington Heights and part of Palatine, according to the Rev. Norman L. Orth, regional director of the denomination's Division of American Missions.

The church does not have any members yet nor any pledges, the Rev. Mr. Orth said, but a pastor will be assigned to it to develop the parish.

Ha said that the church will eventually offer parking space for 500 cars which places the potential membership of the church to about 2,000 persons.

Park - School Pool Sharing Talks Slated

Park District use of High School Dist. 214 swimming pools will come up for discussion again next month.

Thomas Thornton, superintendent of the Arlington Heights Park District, has contacted Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent of the school district to arrange a meeting between board members of both groups to discuss the future park use of the John Hersey High School site.

The high school is under construction in Arlington Heights at Willow and Rand Roads.

A MEETING date for all the board members is expected to be set at the Sept. 25 Board of Education.

Thornton said the park district is interested in purchasing five acres of the high school site to be used as a neighborhood park, possibly to include an indoor-outdoor swimming pool.

The park district has completed purchase of five acres of land at the Forest View High School site with the same plan in mind.

"WE HAD A tentative agreement to purchase the five acres at the Hersey High School site but postponed any action because of the formation of the Prospect Heights Park District," Thornton said.

The high school property bounded on the east by the Prospect Heights Park District. However, the high school site has been annexed by the village of Arlington Heights and is within the Arlington Heights Park District.

"We will discuss the proposals with the school board in hopes to get ready for a future referendum," Thornton said.

Other schools in the district are Arlington, Prospect, Wheeling and Elk Grove high schools. None of Dist. 214 schools has a swimming pool.

A COMMITTEE OF THE Board of Education has been formed to discuss shared facilities--particularly swimming pools--with representatives of interested park districts.

The Elk Grove Park District already has indicated an interest in sharing a pool at Elk Grove High School.

School Crossings Concern Of Meadows Parents

BY TED LACEY

Safety of school children crossing streets was the major issue during last night's meeting of the Rolling Meadows Licenses, Police and Health Committee.

A petition containing signatures of 33 parents living south of Kirchoff Rd., whose children walk to Kimball Hill School, was presented by Mrs. Virgil F. Grewe, 2313 Kingfisher Ln., to the board. The petition stated that a crossing guard should be placed at the intersaction of Kirchoff and Oriole, and that measures should be taken to minimize the danger at various driveways.

Committae Chairman Stephen J. Eberhard said that until a year or two ago there had been a guard at the intersection, but was deemed no longer necessary when a sidewalk was laid along the south side of Kirchoff so that children could remain on that side of the street until they got to Meadow, where they would be conducted across by the guard stationed there.

"THE MAIN problem," Mrs. Stephen J. Csanadi, 502 W. Campbell, principal of Kimball Hill School said, "is the fact that wa have nine first graders and 15 second graders transferred to our school from the Carl Sandburg area this year. The third through sixth-graders usually know how to cross by now, but the younger kids are more oblivious to the danger. We try to maintain three patrol boys at three different intersections four times a day, but they are often unreliable - especially when the weather turns cold."

"Just putting a crossing guard at the intersection," said Rolling Meadows Police Chief Cy Campbell," is not going to solve the problem. First, definite routes must be established, and kids must develop the habit of crossing at intersections with stoplights. Then, if a guard is off duty for some reason the kids can cross by the lights. Also, if there are definite routes, we can keep a better eye on danger areas from patrol cars."

"We tried having women act as guards to patrol other intersections," Eberhard said, "but we had the same trouble with them that Mrs. Csanadi has with her patrol boys - the first cold day comes and the guards don't show up."

"BESIDES," Eberhard said, "thare aren't enough policemen available to accommodate every need. If I were to answer all the requests we hava had for police crossing guards we would have to hire at least ten extra men. Maybe we will be in better shape, financially, next year to do something about it."

"We do our best," said Campbell, "to watch problem areas from patrol cars while kids are walking to and from school."

Mrs. Grewe also requested that signs warning motorists of children on foot be placed at driveways in front of the Texaco station, Topps, and the Patio. Eberhard said he would look into the possibility.

Also seeking school safety measures were Bill Zuehlke, of Chicago, representing the Cardinal Drive School, and Mrs. James Kettleborough, Rolling Meadows, safety chairman of the PTA.

Zueheke, director of the school safety patrol, wanted some stop signs placed along Rolling Rd., especially at Freemont and at Campbell. Right now there are no stops between Euclid and Kirchoff, making a hazardous condition for children trying to cross at intersections, he said.

Thomas W. Scanlan said that the committee was unable to help, as Cardinal Drive School was in an outlying area.

Eberhard said, however, that he would see if he could provide some information later about getting help, and suggested that the school write to County Commissioner Floyd Fulle, Des Plaines, and perhaps also have as many area parents as possible write letters to Cook County Board of Commissioners President Richard Oglvie.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kettleborough, 3200 Freemont, Rolling Meadows, express their concern for the safety of school children crossing streets, at last night's meeting of the Rolling Meadows Licenses, Police & Health Committee. Mrs. Kettleborough is Safety Chairman of the PTA at Cardinal Drive School.

Battery Stolen

David Albani, 4923 Wilke Rd., Rolling Meadows, reported to police that sometime Monday night the battery, was stolen from his car, parked in front of his apartment. Albani evaluated the battery at $30.

Egg Vandals

Someone had a heyday with eggs Monday night in Rolling Meadows. An officer patroling the araa near Carl Sandburg School noticed that a parked school bus had been peppered with about 4 eggs - most of which were direct hits on the windows. When the officer checked the school he discovered that classroom windows on the north side of the building had been barraged with 6 or 8 eggs also. Later the officer found that an egg had been thrown at a door on the south side of Topps Super City, 2995 Kirchoff Rd.

Under - 18 Driver Laws Tightening

The state is making it tougher for anyone under the age of 18 to get a license to drive a car or a motorcycle.

According to bills passed by the General Assembly nobody under 18 can get a drivers license without completing a high school driver education course.

Even to get an automobile drivers license, if you're under 18, it will be necessary to have a minimum amount of instruction in motorcycle driving safety.

According to Senate Bill 62, classroom instruction in the driver education program must include a portion of the course on safe operation of a motor driven cycle.

HOUSE BILL 1951 prohibits issuance of a motorcycle license to anyone under the age of 18 unless he can prove he has completed successfully a high school driver education course.

After Jan. 1, 969, according to Senate Bill 69, persons between the ages of 16 and 18 must prove they have completed a course in driver education to be eligible to receive an automobile operator's license.

After January, 1969, the cost of a license for three years will go from $5 to $8.

According to House Bill 1273, the driver education course of a public high school district must accommodate students from private, parochial and independent high schools within the district, but the district will be reimbursed by the state for the cost of the training.

IN TOWNSHIP High School Dist. 214 administrators report the most popular course offered in summer school is the driver education program. Most eligible parochial high school students attend the Dist. 214 course during the summer.

The office of Ray Page, superintendent of public instruction, has issued this statement:

"It is our belief that approximately 95 per cent of the youth of Illinois will avail themselves of the opportunity to be licensed before the age of 18. School administrators and teachers of driver education will need to anticipate the maximum needs of their district for driver education courses not only for public school students but also for private, parochial and independent school students and out-of-school youth. School authorities will need to anticipate requests from handicapped youth."

2 Help Plan Pow-Wow

Two area Boy Scouts, Don Petersen, 2505 E. Grove, Arlington Heights, and Owan MacBride, 303 S. Emerson, Mount Prospect, helped plan the program for some 500 honor campers who held a pow-wow Sept. 14 through 16 at Camp Dan Beard, near Wheeling.

The planning group is called the Order of the Arrow.

Each honor camper is selected to be a member of the Order of the Arrow by his own Scout Troop or Explorer Post on the basis of leadership ability, camping experience, and his desire to serve fellow scouts and the community.

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

We weren't able to obtain a copy of the weights and measures laws officially from anyone in the Illinois Dept. of Agriculture (we were trying to find out if produce stand owners must have their counter scales tested every year, as other stores do).

So we went down to the State Agriculture Department's Chicago office, arriving there when almost everyone was at lunch. An office employe, when told what we wanted, went into a storeroom and brought us a copy of "Rules and Regulations for the Enforcement of the Weights and Measures" and a copy of "Weights and Measures."

Section 110, Weights and Measures, says ". . . the director shall, within each period of 12 months or more frequently if necessary, inspect and test all weights and measures commercially used.

PENALTIES FOR violations can be a fine of from $20 to $200 and imprisonment up to three months for the first conviction. A subsequent conviction could bring a fine of from $50 to $500 and up to a year in prison.

Then we went for a drive, to see how well the state has enforced this area of the law. We took mainly heavily-traveled roads, stopping at stands whenever we saw one.

A busy produce stand in Arlington Heights has three scales in use. Two do not have decals stating when they were tested, one has a decal from the City of Chicago, dated 1965.

Others were: Elgin, a stand with one scale, tested in 1965; Des Plaines, a stand with one scale apparently never tested; Park Ridge, the one we told about Monday that have five scales, one last tested in 1944; Chicago, a stand with one scale, and a decal dated 1962.

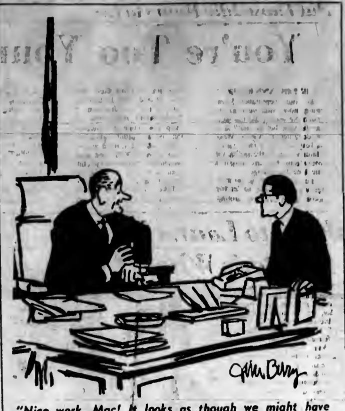
WE HEADED south and found the same thing. In Summit, a produce stand with four scales, no decals to show they had been tested and in Blue Island, a store that is apparently open year-around has two scales with decals dated 1961.

At last, on 127th St. in Calumet Park, we came upon a stand with four scales that had all been inspected this year and bore the proper decals. We had driven over a hundred miles to find it.

The above lists some apparent violators; we have more examples and plan to supply the state with their addresses. Of the municipalities listed, Chicago and Des Plaines have their own weights and measures ordinances. Arlington Heights, Elgin and Park Ridge don't have ordinances.

•••

TOMORROW: What state officials and produce stand owners have to say about the untested counter scales.



"Nice work, Mac! It looks as though we might have brainwashed Romney right out of being a threat next year!"

Day Light

Jerry Ford, All-American

Rep. Gerald R. Ford, GOP leader in the U. S. House of Representatives who is coming to Arlington Heights Oct. 7 to speak at the annual fall Wheeling Township Republican Dinner-dance, would be a welcome speaker here on other occasions in an entirely non-political capacity.

What a speaker he would make for the football letter dinner at one of the high schools. Ford was one of america's gridiron greats of the 1930s.

Born in Nebraska in 1913, he grew up in Grand Rapids, Mich. The South High team won the all-city play-off and Ford won a berth on the all-Michigan high school football team. He had no trouble selecting the University of Michigan, this being in the days before Michigan State was in the Big Ten and a national football power.

At Ann Arbor, Ford was a freshman standout in 1931. As a sophomore he played regularly in the backfield of Michigan's national grid champions of 1932. He was the sparkplug on the University of Michigan football team that repeated as national champions in his junior year in 1933. In his senior year, he was named Michigan's most valuable man on the Wolverine's 1934 team.

POST BOWL games were just getting started then. In the big time there were only the Rose Bowl, the East-West Shrine Bowl and the Chicago Tribune's new All-Star game. Ford played in two of the three but was not eligible to play in the Rose Bowl, this being before the era when the West Coast Conference and the Big Ten Conference provided annually the team for that game.

Ford played with the East team in the annual East-West Shrine bowl, an annual crippled children's benefit. He game a good account of himself, and was placed on the all-star college team to meet the Chicago Bears in Soldiers' Field in August 1935. He did well in that game, too. The Bears couldn't score a touchdown against Ford's all-star team, but neither did the All-Stars score against the Bears. The Bears did, however, score a touchback and a field goal while the All-Stars were doing no scoring at all. The result was that the Bears were the winners 5 to 0. The All-Stars that year had coaches like Edward "Slip" Madigan and Doc C. W. Spears.

EVEN IN defeat Ford's team made All-Star game history. It was the first time the NFL team had ever beaten the All-Stars. There were plenty of people, entitled to some opinion, who thought no professional team would ever be able to defeat the best players all the universities and colleges could turn out in one year.

The game had originated in 1934, at the suggestion of Arch Ward, Tribune sports editor, who had dreamed up the baseball all-star game the year before as a feature of Chicago's Century of Progress, more commonly known as Chicago's World's Fair.

In 1934 when the spectacle began, the Chicago Bears played the College All-Stars to a 0 to 0 tie and were glad to settle for that. In 1935 the Bears won without the benefit of a touchdown. The first time that the NFL champions were able to cross an All-Star team's goal line did not come until 1936 when the Detroit Lions did it--just once. But the All-Stars did it once too so the game ended in a 7 to 7 tie.

After that for some years the All-Stars generally won. It was not until after World war II that the NFL champs began humbling All-Star teams as they have rather often done in recent years.

BUT FORD'S greatest "sports achievement" was still ahead of him. It came in 1959 when he received the "Silver Anniversary All-American Award". This award is given to 25 football players 25 years after graduation, the outstanding football players who are judged to have made the outstanding contribution to their fellow citizens in the intervening quarter century.

After putting aside his cleats and shoulder pads, Ford went to law school. He received his law degree from Yale University Law School in 1941, but he didn't give up football entirely. During his Yale years he also served as assistant varsity football coach. He returned to Michigan and was admitted to the bar in 1941.

The awards, even without a pigskin under his arm, have kept right on coming for Ford. There have been too many to give a comprehensive report. In 1961 he received the "Distinguished Congressional Service Award". In 1965 he received an honorary Doctor of Laws by the University of Michigan's arch rival, Michigan State University. Last year he received the "George Washington Award" from the American Good Government Society.

DOCTOR SAYS

Diet and Drugs Can Help Control Overperspiration

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — What would cause my husband to have drenching sweats at night? He may sweat three or four nights in a row, then be dry for a few nights.

A — Night sweats are commonly seen in persons who have tuberculosis but they usually occur every night. Other possibilities include a deficiency of vitamin C or D, nightmares which may be due to a variety of causes, a general run-down condition or, according to some authorities, a decrease in male hormone (male menopause). The treatment is to remove the cause if it can be found.

Q — My son, 18, has excessive sweating of his hands. What causes this and what can be done for it?

A — Sweating limited to or chiefly on the palms is usually caused by instability of the nervous control of the blood vessels in the skin. When the surrounding air is warm or the victim is emotionally keyed up, these blood vessels dilate and sweating occurs.

The antiperspirants applied to the armpits will not control this type of sweating. Your son should avoid coffee and other drinks that contain caffeine. Propantheline bromide, obtainable only on a doctor's prescription, has helped some persons with this complaint.

The Problem Kids

A population expert has stated publicly what many an individual specimen of our booming population has thought to himself:

People would be better off if it weren't for people!.

The population explosion is all very well for business, Dudley Kirk, director of the Population Council in New York, told a North American Wildlife Conference in San Francisco recently, but it does have its drawbacks.

The beauty of California, for instance, said Kirk, has been "smothered by smog, scarred by bulldozers, corroded by subdivisions, and put out of bounds by fear of fire and trampling human feet."

Yet, he pointed out, all this unpleasantness has brought profits and a good living to many people.

It adds up to a tough problem -- especially since humans haven't come up so far with a really effective plan to stop humans from producing humans so prodigiously.

It brings to mind the oft-quoted discovery that most of the people who favor birth control have already been born.

It also proves again that people are more capable than anyone of outsmarting themselves.

Borrow Crutches Here

By Catherine O'Donnell

The lending closet is an inventory of all kinds of items that are used by the sick, the lame and the halt to get them back to good health. There are crutches, canes, bedpans, beds, mattresses, wheelchairs and every other visible aid to a sick or convalescent person. They are loaned for as long as necessary free of charge.

The closet is a very special part of the Arlington Heights Nurses Club.

Another special cause espoused by the women in white are their annual scholarships for local student to accredited school of nursing. The number of people who have been helped by them has never been counted.

The free services have been the bright spots in many a dreary illness.

Right now, the tables are turned. The nurses are asking for help so that they can continue to provide help. On October 20 and 21 they will hold a fund-raising rummage sale at the American Legion Hall.

They've been saving all of their odds and ends but they still need a lot more. They are willing to pick up anything, furniture, toys, children's furniture, clothes, household items, anything that any householder no longer wants. They would like whatever they pick up to be clean. They're all just too busy to try to wash and scrub all of the items they hope will appear.

Most of the merchants have always been very good to them. They expect to use these gifts in a specialty shop. The special rummage items are either new or slightly worn and they're always bargains.

Co-chairmen for the Fund Raiser are Sally Exline, whose phone number is 392-2942, and Shirley Anderson, who can be called at 392-5567.

Start the fall cleaning early and send all of those extra clothes and things to the Nurses' Club. They are an exceptional group.

SEVEN

Seven little girls were guests at the birthday party of Katie Egan of N. Forrest, who counted seven birthday candles in front of seven little pink birds on a lovely cake. Katie's mother, Mrs. Thomas Egan, is sure that all of the young ladies enjoyed themselves.

She spent part of the party preparation time blowing up seven balloons. The guests were Chris and Cathy Bissel who are twins. (Katie announced that they were also sisters.) and Meg Hayes, Chris Barone, Ellen McGovern and Linda Eggert.

BEAUTIFICATION

Some of the patrons of the Tiara Beauty Salon in the Prospect Plaza are a little surprised to discover that one of the hard working crew in the shop is only 12 years old.

She is Debby Weidel the small daughter of the owner Jeanne. Jeanne decided a long time ago that there was no use in discouraging Debby because she used to do the same thing herself when she was that old.

Debby only does little things like picking up fallen curlers or carrying magazines and messages but she feels she is a real part of the establishment when she isn't in school or doing her homework.

Her mother, Jeanne is is the sister of Beverly Mullins who formerly owned the shop and now lives in Memphis. The two are daughters of Blanche Ninnemann of N. Yale who operates two beauty salons in Rolling Meadows, the Aloha and the Duchess.

"We didn't notice Debby's interest because we were all that way," said Jeanne, "I guess it just runs in the family."

Jeanne, as a very special service now keeps her shop open on Sunday from two to six.

"There were so many people who were disappointed on on Saturday that I tried it as an experiment," she said, "and it is becoming very popular."

(Now you gals know where to go when the football games start on the television on Sunday afternoon.)

Put Those Idle Hours to Use

You're Too Young to Gather Dust

BY LOU ANN BLAIR

Is your September humming along this year pretty much the way it did last year or the year before that? If it is, don't let it happen! Make a few changes this year. January may be the month for resolutions, but any month is the time for change.

You are too young, no matter what your age, to let life settle down, on and around you like so much dust. And one of the best featherdusters to use is education. A featherduster ready-made to keep you young and interesting is an adult education course offered at night at area high schools. You need your education as much as the children and there are so many things to learn.

Take a look at the courses especially offered for women in the eduit educatinn handbook recently mailed to all residents of High School Dist. 214. You can choose from classes ranging from "Cake Decorating" to "Exercises for Educated Childbirth." In the Home and Family Living section of the brochure alone, there are 18 cnurses. In the fieid nf business and commerce there is a course to teach you to type or buy stocks and bonds. Maybe French is your cup of tea, or bridge or the Great Books Discussion Groups. Courses are offered for high school or college credit, too. Something for everything.

Dr. E. H. Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, concurs with the statement by Edwin Brice, director of adult education for the U.S. Office of Education, that the nation is nn the verge nf an expansion of adult education on a scale "beyond description or comprehension." Gilbert says, "Dist. 214 is already well into that predicted acceleration of this area of education."

So don't drag your heels. Select your course of study nnw. A change in your routine will make a more interesting YOU.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Self-deprecation will get you nowhere. Pick yourself up out of the doldrums and get on about your business -- the sooner the better.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Rely on your own inner resources to help you solve the day's problems. Others may have answers -- but they may be the wrong ones.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--Accept a new challenge willingly and begin at once to act vigorously upon it. A good day for making gains.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--You may be able to make the opposition capitulate through force -- but sweet persuasion would be the safer method.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--The wise Aquarius will refuse to withdraw from the scene of action. Important happenings may be just around the corner.

PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 21)--Benefit best through private transactions with others. Only take care that all your transactions are honorable ones.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)--You have a great many resourceful friends and could well find the solution to present difficulties by enlisting their aid.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--It may take a daring move on your part, but you can take a giant step forward in business or profession if you're courageous.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--Don't allow fear to interrupt your progress. You can overcome timidity easily once you take the bull by the horns.

Cardinals Lose a Battle But Win the War 22-37

Arlington High School's varsity cross-country team lost a battle but won the war Tuesday as it took a dual meet from Evanston Township 22-37.

While Evanston senior Dave Abernathy, who's built like a fire plug and runs like a fire engine, ran away from the field to take first, the Cardinals took the next four spots and seven of the first ten.

ARLINGTON SENIOR Dave Dieters ran 11 seconds behind Abernathy, who covered the Wildkits' 1.93 mile course in 9:41.9. Senior Rory Cassidy (9:54), sophomore Scott Butler (10:00), and senior Rich Saxton (10:06) nailed down the next three places for the Cardinals, while Ken Malcomson, Tom Swanson and Dave Marszalak took eighth, ninth, and tenth.

Arlington's victory foiled a bid by Evanston to avenge a 24-31 licking the Cardinals. That was the only dual meet defeat for the 1966 Wildkit runners, who won the district championship.

Freshman Jeff Kowalski recovered from a fall at the start of the frosh race to finish a strong second in leading Arlington to a 28-31 triumph. The Wildkits' Mike Brownstein won handily in 12:01.8 -- 22 seconds ahead of Kowalski -- and Evanston also nabbed third and fourth.

BUT JOHN Brodnan, Bill Moore, Ron Lawan, Ken Pickett, Jim Eggert, and John Yorke secured the next six spots for Arlington to provide the victory margin.

The Cardinals' sophomores couldn't crack the first four as Evanston's Larry Bristow sparked his team to a 19-36 win, edging teammate Dave Ingraham to take first in 11:26.

John Curtin led the Cardinal sophs with an 11:42 good for fifth. Cliff Laufer was sixth, Joe Camp seventh, George Chapman eighth, and Jim Hilgenfeld tenth.

TUESDAY'S WIN was the second in two dual meets this season for the Arlington varsity. The Cardinals previously beat Maine East in head-to-head competition and lost to New Trier East at Maine West's invitational Saturday.

Evanston whipped Wheeling and Palatine in a triangular contest, finished second at the Crystal Lake invitational and tied for fifth Saturday at Proviso West.

Mob of harriers breaks away from starting line in double dual meet between Elk Grove, Maine West and Barrington. Elk Grove's Gary Steen, (far right, wearing head band) was comfortably in second place, but missed a turn and had to settle for 11th.

Packers Still Unbeaten

The undefeated Mount Prospect Midget Football senior league Packers extended their winning streak to three games, last Sunday, as they walloped the defending champion Colts, 33-0.

Steve Raymond accounted for two of the winner's five tallies, running back the opening kickoff and again scoring in the first quarter with a 30-yard scamper up center. Quarterback Jim Johannesen figured in two tallies as he scored on a quarterback sneak late in the second period and connected with end Don Divito for another six points. Allen Weidenfeller scored the Packer's last touchdown on a double reverse.

THE SECOND-place Cardinals romped over the cellar-dwelling Giants, 19-0 on touchdowns in each of the first three quarters.

Quarterback Mike Passarelli connected with Chris Sullivan for a 24-yard touchdown pass, Jerry Lopotko gathered in a 40-yard bomb for another six points, and halfback Mike Kinney dashed around end for the winner's only other tally.

Intra-League junior action saw the clash of the undefeated end in a scoreless tie. The Redskins and the Browns knocked heads in a defensive battle that failed to decide a division power.

THE NATIONAL junior league-leading Vikings trampled the last place Eagles, 27-6. Viking signal caller Kevin White accounted for three of the Viking's four touchdowns. Jim Hamann added the other.

The American Division 49'ers remained undefeated by tripping the Steelers, 13-6. A Tom Trendel interception and touchdown scored the deciding margin for the winners after a Bill Eilbracht to Greg Deringer pass accounted for the 49'ers initial score.

Other national league play saw the Jets and the Rams play to a 6-6 deadlock. Mike Raymond scored the Jet's only touchdown when he scurried 50 yards with an intercepted pass. A 40-yard center run by Tom Freyman gave the Rams the equalizer.

IN THE ONLY other junior league tilt, the Cowboys whitewashed the Chiefs, 36-0, behind Phil Radtke's three touchdowns, and Chris Wilson's and Pete Donahue's single six-point efforts.

Bantam division play saw the Gophers take their first game in two seasons as they overpowered the Wolverines, 20-0 on a pair of TD's by Kyle Powers and a solo performance by George Miscevich.

Brian Mc Eneely's three-yard plunge late in the final quarter enabled the Buckeyes to blank the Lions, 7-0. The win was the first of the season for the Buckeyes against one tie.

Wildcat Steve Spielmann accounted for close to all of the scoring in Sunday's Wildcat-Spartan clash as he scored on a 55-yard punt return and a 35-yard pass interception to pace his squad to a 13-0 win.

THE TOP-RANKED Hawkeyes stayed atop the american-division standings by beating the second-place Badgers, 18-0. George Bicego popped across twice and George Breger added another six to give the winner's 18 points.

In the only other contest, the Boilermakers jumped the Panthers, 13-0 to pick up their first win of the 1967 season. Dave Kennedy and Gregg Jacobs swept around end for the winner's touchdowns.

Winkelmann's Wins Golf League Title

Winkelmann's Shell Service has won the championship of the Mount Prospect Twilight Golf League, beating Kersting's Garden Center 7½-4½.

Bob Ryan scored three points to lead Winkelmann's. Ryan shot a 67 net score against Bob Milligan to gain medalist honors. Bob Herman, also of Winkelmann's bested Carl Lindquist in both net score and holes won to score another two points.

STAN DEMING added another point by tying Dave Shehan. Dick Clement managed one-half against Pete Peterson, who contributed one and one-half to Kersting's total.

Art Hammerstrom was leading scorer for the losers with two points at the expense of Ken Willert. Hammerstrom also had the low gross score for the night, a 78.

Winkelmann's other point was earned for having the lowest aggregate point total.

Forest View Harriers Clobber West Leyden

Forest View's varsity cross country squad prepped for its run at a Mid-Suburban League championship by ripping West Leyden 15-50 on a rain-dampened Leyden course yesterday.

Seven Falcons were in the chute before the opposition could make any kind of a reply.

Joe Branka covered the two miles plus in a time of 10:54. Teammate Oscar Pequanto joined him 15 seconds later.

The Forest View flood continued as Tom Vaughn, Joe Joyce, Rich Thayer and Dave Lighthall crossed the finish line.

"Joe looked the best he has all season," said Coach John Haanen of Branka's performance. "And Oscar really did a fine job today. I think he's coming back into his own. He's been kind of down on himself lately and he really needed this one to restore some of his confidence."

The Falcon sophomore squad couldn't manage such a flawless whitewashing, but managed to squeeze past Leyden 27-29.

Tom Moore took a second place, leading the Forest View underclassmen with a time of 12:00. He was followed by John Horan in fourth, Brian Maly in fifth, Dan Johnson in seventh and Kirk Bukholz in ninth.

Haanen generally was satisfied with his team as he looked forward to the coming conference schedule.

"I think this meet kind of psyched all these kids up quite a bit," he said.

The Falcons will open league action when they visit Prospect Friday beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Lion Harriers Avoid Shutout By Maine East

St. Viator's cross-country team barely averted a shutout Tuesday, losing a dual meet to Maine East 15-47.

Mike Cunningham, Dan Baron, and Mark Botterman finishing seventh, eighth, and ninth, paced the Lions, who swept the first seven places in a dual meet Friday with Glenbrook South.

The Blue Demons completed the rout by blanking the St. Viator frosh-soph 15-50.

Smithless Wildcats Lose To Highland Park 22-31

Phil Smith is the big difference for Wheeling's varsity cross country team.

The Wildcats absorbed a 24-31 loss at Highland Park yesterday, but might have been able to turn around the score had Smith run. The senior harrier, top man on the squad, has been ill with flu and couldn't make the trip.

"WE WOULD have won it with Smith," said Coach Ken Carter. "He's been beating Greg Gawlik regularly this year."

Gawlik, a sophomore, took first in the dual meet with a time of 10:57.

He was followed across the line by teammates Keith Grasens in sixth, Frank Savage in seventh, Paul Royer in eighth and Lenn Eaton in ninth.

"We're young and improving," said Carter, whose top five includes two sophs and two juniors. "But we rely heavily on Smith. With him we're tough. Without him we're not so tough. We showed that today."

Carter had praise for Gawlik, however.

"GREG DID a fine job today," said the coach. "He showed us that he could do it without Smith. He's coming along."

The Wheeling frosh-soph wasn't even as fortunate as the upperclassmen and dropped a 22-37 decision.

John Rogers finished first for the cats and second in the run with a clocking of 11:35. Bill McGowan was fourth, Larry Ioman ninth, John Trufano tenth and Kevin Barthule twelfth.

Grens Fall to Warriors, Edge Broncos in Meet

Elk Grove's varsity harriers managed a split for the day in a double dual meet with Maine West and Barrington yesterday at Barrington.

Maine West clobbered the Grenadiers 18-43 while the Broncos fell 25 - 34. Maine beat Barrington 21-35.

Maine finished one-two-three, but the Grens assembled a string of their own, taking in seventh through twelfth places. Bob Texidor was first into the chute for Elk Grove at 10:57. He was followed by Bob Bachus, Tom Swietek, Jerry Ancona, Gary Steen and Wayne Wille.

The race might have been much closer had not Steen made a wrong turn in the last quarter mile. Steen was far ahead of the pack in second place when he missed a marker and had to retrace 130 yards. He settled for a time of 11:05 over the two miles.

Had Steen finished second, the score would have stood at 24-32, Maine still on top.

"That was my fault as much as it was his," said Greandier Coach Bob Rees. "He came around one flag and I thought I had him lined up for the next one, but he missed it."

Lee LaBadie, Maine West's premier runner, took first honors with a time of 9:51.

"We ran the kind of race we wanted," said Rees, "but we didn't run it as fast as we would have liked. We stayed together nicely, but we just didn't get up there high enough."

Rees had praise for the performance of Swiatek.

"He went out and ran one heck of a race for us," the coach said. "He's usually our sixth man and if he had finished sixth among our runner with the same time today, the meet might have had a different finish."

The Elk Grove sophomores suffered a double loss. Maine downed them 15-50 and Barrington didn't miss that margin by much, 15-49. The Warriors also dumped the host Broncos 15-44.

Jim Wallen led the Elk Grove underclassmen, but his 12:25 was good enough only for 14th in the meet.

Bob Lidinsky of Maine set the pace with 11:37.

The Greandiers will now head into Mid-Suburban League action. They will journey to Wheeling for a dual meet on Friday. Starting time will be 4:30 p.m.

Bob Texidor of Elk Grove, far left, strains to pass a Barrington runner as Maine West man heads for chute. Texidor finished seventh in the double dual meet yesterday and was followed across the finish line by teammates in places eight through twelve.

Dist. 59 Bases Changes On Survey Results

BY JAN BONE
Last in a Series

How did Dist. 59 change its school system as a result of its survey?

This district that dared to ask its teachers, its administrators, its children and their parents what they tought about its operation – then had the courage to publish the results – had made six major changes since the survey began in December, 1966.

Some of the changes affect teachers; others affect parents and children.

Most of the district's teachers said they didn't like in-service training (a series of meetings, often on curriculum or educational philosophy, set up within school buildings and often run by principals or consultants).

If we must have in-service training, they felt, give us college credit for it.

SALARY INCREASES in the district come automatically when teachers have completed a certain number of graduate credit-hours. A bachelor's-degree-plus-15 hours rating, for instance, merits more money than just a bachelor's degree.

Arrangements were made last spring with National College of Education, Wilmette, and with Bradley University, Peoria to offer credit courses taught by Dist. 59 qualified staff members, and held in the Arlington-area schools.

Since the teachers were surveyed in December, the district has held two trimesters of college courses. So far, 255 district teachers have taken part in them.

New courses announced for this fall include several designed to meet Illinois requirements for certification as special education teachers, a "teaching through television" course which will show the teachers how to run the district's five videotape units, and a school law course which will count towards state certification requirements for administrators.

"GIVE US a shorter school day," said teachers.

The district did.

It scheduled half an hour for conferences with students or parents before the class day began, and half an hour for conferences at the end of the day.

Parents are urged to call in for a conference if their child's behavior changes. If he comes home saying, "I hate school," or doesn't understand his work, or has a drastic change in his attitude; if there are home factors such as a new baby, a parent's illness, a divorce" parents can tell the teachers about them. Together, they can work out a way to help the child get through this problem period.

TEACHERS, TOO, send "please come in" notes home much more frequently than they used to.

Before-school conferences often can be set up so fathers can come along, too.

"We don't understand the student services organization," said both teachers and administrators.

Now Albion Woltman heads the re-organized department.

Under him are Ken Deal, in charge of psychologists, speech correctionists, and social workers; Merle Nauvenhofan, who runs special education classes for hard-of-hearing and similarly handicapped children; and Catherine Maun, who heads a program for gifted children.

WITH DIST. 59'S 18 buildings each unique in its own way, some parents felt that perhaps their children weren't doing well in a school because the type of educational program might not fit the personalities and needs of the youngsters.

Now, Open Transfer is an official policy of the board.

It means that if a child is really having problems in a particular school and staff conferences, evaluation, and testing don't help; if the principal and teachers really feel the child might do better in a different environment -- the parents can ask that he be transferred to another school.

Final judgment, of course, still remains with Supt. Don Thomas.

So far, only 12 students have been transferred under these circumstances.

Coming up in the near future: open transfer of children between teachers in a building. Again, only after careful study. Yet, it's another attempt by the district to provide individualized instruction for its children, and provide an atmosphere in which they can do their best.

"BETTER COMMUNICATIONS," was an urgent need, survey answers showed.

Dist. 59 now has a School-Community Council, made up of 50 parents throughout the district, with each school and organization represented, and headed by the Rev. David D. Crail.

Each principal in the district will write a newsletter for parents. Every week.

The "second-cup-of-coffee" program has principals inviting 20 or 30 parents in for an informal discussion of schools and programs.

Supt. Donald Thomas sends out newsletters himself to every parent on a regular schedule. In each is the statement, "Do you have a question for Dr. Thomas? All questions will receive an answer from Dr. Thomas." And they do. Promptly.

IN SHORT, as assistant superintendent Ludwig Bodzewski who designed the survey, says, "Too often in the past, schools have communicated by saying, 'We have told you.' Now we're making education a complete co-operative venture. Parents can tell us. We want them to. We want their ideas and suggestions and their criticisms. Together we'll work to solve our school problems.

Dist. 59 buildings are Juliette Low School in Arlington Heights, and John Jay, Forest View Elementary, Robert Frost, and Dempster and Holmes junior highs in Mount Prospect.

In Elk Grove Village, the district has Ridge, Rupley, Hopkins, Grant Wood, Salt Creek, Byrd, and Grove Junior High.

Des Plaines schools are Brentwood, High Ridge Knolls, Einstein, and Devonshire.

'Very Little Damage'

Tornado Touches Down In Elk Grove Village

BY MAXINE TYMA

A tornado that touched down in Elk Grove Village last night caused e lot of concern -- but very little damage.

Initial reports indicated a great amount of property loss in the village from high winds and severe rains.

And raportars and photographers arrived on the scene, the villega looked peaceful. Cars began to stream from the Elk Grove High School parking lot as students attending Classes at Harper Junior College prepared to go home.

A drive down Victoria St., an area that was reported severely hit by the tornado, found houses lit up, roofs in tact, and rows of garbage cans lined up waiting for the morning pick up.

CENTER of the activity was the municipal bulilding where tha police end fira departments wera keeping track of damage reports and informing callers that damage was minor.

No injuries were reported as a result of tornado damage.

Fire Chief Virgil Botlller said members of his department went to homes at 255 Pleasant, 1101 Cypress, 945 Victoria, 63 Walpole and 629 Birchwood to investigate reports of damage.

He said a few roofs were damagad, and fences, television antennas, tool sheds and awnings also sustained damage in several locations.

Firemen repaired roofs with rolls of tar paper to save the homes from further interior damage after additional rain.

Chiaf Botlller said there was a lot of broken glass in several areas.

"It all heppened at once," the chief said.

"Wa were lucky there was no major damage."

THE FIRE CHIEF said he was visiting at Elk Grove High School when he received the report of this tornado at approximately 8:10 p.m. He said he drove to the areas where damage was reported and was accompanied to a few places by Robert Hnskell, principal of the high school, and Dr. Robert Lahti, president of Harper College.

Tha Elk Grova Village police said approximately 100 phone calls were received to report damage and inquire about the extent of damage to the village.

Communications and assistance were provided in the emergency situation by the members of the Elk Grove Village Civil Defense Unit.

The group, all amateur radio operators, usually meets each Wednesday at 8 p.m. The first warning of the tornado came from the Civil Defense teletype located in the Elk Grove Village police station.

The teletype is in direct communication with messages from the Weather Bureau and from a central station located at Chicago's Civic Center.

CD members J. C. Havranek and Fred Spinner stayed in the police station to watch the teletype for further information and to keep communication with the cars of other CD members that were investigating damaged areas in the village.

WHEN POLICE received a call about damaga or emergency situations, the CD radio operator dispatched a car to the area to determine what assistance could be given.

A representative from the American Red Cross was sent to the village to determine if shelter areas were necessary. A deputy from the Cook County Sheriff's office was sent to the police station to assist the department if he was needed.

Elk Grova village personnel had the situation under control and all said they were relieved to learn the tornado had not left tragedy in its wake.

The men who covered the villaga in cars included CD mambers John Kiulehan, Mike Mowwchine, Bill Preen and Frank Yurek.

The Civil Defense members also were able to assist Illinois State Police in blocking and directing traffic at the scene of an auto accident on Higgins Rd. during the evening rain.

Two persons, Daniel Conklin, of Elk Grove Village end Jeroma Krocki of Schaumburg, were treated for injurias at St. Alexius Hospital when thay were involved in the accident on the slick highway.

Civil Defense workers (from left): Fred Spinner, Bill Preen and J. C. Havranek, pitch in to help during last night's tornado alert in Elk Grove Village. Spinner relays communications and dispatches cars while Preen points out the areas he visited in his car. Havranek kept a watch on weather reports from the teletype machine.

Crop damage in the lush Rio Grande Valley was conservatively estimated at $50 million. Beulah's 175 mile - an - hour winds nearly wiped Port Isabel, a community of 3,600, from the map. The hamlat was 85 per cent destroyed.

The awesoma storm's powerful winds spawned 28 tornadoas, a record. At Matamoras, across the U.S. - Mexico border, 50,000 evacuees were being cared for. Some 30,000 Texans were in temporary shelters.

LAGOS, Nigeria -- Federal troops battled rebels today in the streets of Benin, capital of the Midwest Region, hours after that area became the second in Nigeria to declare itself an independent republic, informed sources reported.

Rep. Chapman Assigned To Constitution Unit

State Rep. Euganla S. Chapman (D-Arlington Heights) yesterday was placed on two commissions of the Illinois General Assembly, including the important Illinois Constitution Study Commission.

Mrs. Chapman also was named to the Commission on the Status of Women of Which Sen. Esther Saperstein (D-Chicago) is chairman. This commission is charged with making recommendations to the next General Assembly for possible legislation concerning employment policies and practices for women, legal rights of women, better educational opportunities for women and women as citizen volunteers.

This commission has been in existence since 1964 and has a number of important achievaments to its credit. Perhaps its most important work has been done in proposing legislation to provide assistance to women wishing to resuma thair aducation after their children are out of school.

MRS. CHAPMAN is one of 26 legislators appointed to the Illinois Constitution Study Commission. Ten were appointed by the speaker of the house, ten by the president pro tem of the Senate and six by Gov. Otto Kerner. The aommission has the responsibility of making recommendations on the holding and organizing of the constitutional convention which will be placed before Illinois voters in a refarendum in November, 1968.

The General Assambly voted earlier this year to hold a stata constitutional convention which requires approval by the citizens of the state in a referendum. It is expected that the voters will approve holding a convention. In that event the convention will be held in 1969 to writa a new constitution to replace the present one which was adopted largely in its present form in 1870.

A new constitution also would heve to be approved by the citizens of the state in a referendum. It is possible thet this approval will be sought in 1970.

"I WILL ENTER with special enthusiasm into the work of this commission," Mrs. Chapman said. "It is urgent that wa provide our stata with a governmantal structure which will permit it to deal with the pressing problems such as those emerging from our congested urban areas and our rapidly growing suburbs. We cannot effectively meet the needs of the future working with a state constitution that predates the automobile and the airplane by a quarter of a century."

Mrs. Chapman said that she thought the first major task of the Illinois Constitution Study Commission will be to study the policies and procedures used in other states which hava developed and adopted new constitutions within the last 10 to 20 years.

The commission will need to complete its work in the next 15 months, Mrs. Chapman reported, so as to be ready to maka immediata recommendations in event the call of a constitutional convention is approved by the people of Illinois in the 1968 referendum.

Sky - Divers Grounded By O'Hare Chief

The 50th anniversary celebration in Mount Prospect has been dampened somewhat by the ennouncement that there will be no sky-diving exhibitions this Saturday.

John Weber, chairman of the 50th annivarsary committee, said that he could not get permission from O-Hare Field to heve the sky-divers.

"Dan Kuravitch, the airport tower chief, told me that since O-Hara is the world's busiest airport, there might be some kind of problem with air traffic," Weber said. "He said the whole thing would be a nuisanaa problem."

WEBER expressed his disappointment and unhappiness with the airport officials when he said, "It makes me mad when we heve to put up with their planes flying over Mount Prospect every day and night, but we can't do one thing over our village for an hour even though it occurs once in 50 years."

Robert Schwank, assistant tower chief at O-Hare, said the main consideration given in the refusal to allow the exhibition was the safety factor.

"The divers wanted to drop from 7,000 feet, and at thet altitude, any wind shift could throw the divers off target." The divers had planned to drop into the Prospect High School field, Schwank said, which is not far from high tension electric lines.

"WE ARE always interestad in promoting air shows, and getting people interested in aviation," Schwank said, "but to risk having someone killed for a celebration could be disastrous."

One part of the diving exhibition, tha Batman and Robin duo, will still arrive at the celebration, but not under parachutes, just on chairs.

They'll arrive by helocopter.

Killed While Fixing Tire

GOLFPORT, Ill. -- Paul R. Holton, 41, Stronghurst, was killed Wednesday when e hit - and - run driver struck the victim as he was changing a tire on U.S. 34, five miles aast of here.

State Police said Holton and Melvin R. Grafton, 34, Oquawka were changing a tire on the Holton car when an eastbound auto struck the two men and sped off. Graton was treated for injuries and released.

Homeowners Don't Want Apartments

Rapresentatives from about 30 families appeared before the Arlington Heights Plan Commission last night to testify against a petition to rezone the vacant commercial land behind the Westgate Shopping Center for apartment buildings.

The hearing was continued to Nov. 8 when both the petitioner, Robin Construction Co., represented by attorney Benjamin Ordowar, and residents of Wastgate, represented by Donald Hill, 204 S. Rudder, are axpected to present their final arguments.

It's the old-time problem. A developer wants to rezone a piace of land but tha neighbors are against it.

Robin Construction Co. wants to rezone a business district into two-and three-story buildings totaling 100 apartments.

THE RESIDENTS are opposed to apartments because, they say, multiple-dwelling units bring more children into the area and generate heavy traffic.

The petitioner's architect contends that "this type of apartments" attract families with fewar children than single family residences and traffic is heavier when a commercial area is developed.

"Look at it this way," said Martin Reinheimar, a Chicago architact. "If you don't get apartments you will get a commercial center. What will thet do to your residential area?"

Robin's attorney said if he cannot rezone the property he can satisfy the village's ordinance on commercial zoning (B-1) by constructing stores in the first floor and apartments on the top.

Ha said he had seen it done.

"In Arlington Heights?" wondared Sam Ruddar, member of the plan commission.

It is also unclear whether the controversial portion of land is under a covenant, restricted for any specific use. Court records must be examinad to datarmine the status of the land.

Two Injured

Two persons were injured Wednesday after an auto accident at Kensington and Gibbons in Arlington Heights.

Mrs. Joan Harcherick, 37, of 102 S. Stevenson, Mount Prospect, was treated for injuries by her family doctor.

Alfred E. Simonson, 38, of 1616 Hawthorn, Arlington Heights, was treated for injuries at Northwest Community Hospital. He was ticketed by Arlington Heights Police for failure to yield right of wey at a stop.

Dist. 15 Adopts $7 Million Budget

A budget of over $7 million was adopted last night for Community Consolidated School Dist. 15, Rolling Meadows and Palatine. A total of $2,975,000 will be levied in taxas, at an estimated rate of 2.215 per $100 of assessed property value.

At this rate a homeowner with assessed property value of $10,000 would be taxed $221.50. Broken down, this means that of the total tax rate $1.40 will go into the education fund, for an estimatad total lavy of $128,000.

Other divisions of the total rate and estimated tax totals are: 25 cents for a building fund of $400,000; five cents for a lifa safety code fund of $80,000; eight cents for a transportation fund of $128,000; approx. four cents for an Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund (IMRF) of $55,000; approximately five cents for rent of State buildings, $72,800; and 35 cents for bond and interest, $524,455.

THESE LEVIED taxes along with other funds, will be used in total estimated expenditures of $5,021,960 for the education fund, $599,300 for the building fund, $230,700 for the ransportation fund, $52,000 for IMRF, $80,160 for rental, $449,925 for bond and interest, and $864,113 for construction sites.

"The committee working on the new budget," said Joel D. Meyer, 2406 Georga, Rolling Meadows, at last night's baord meeting, "consisted of Howard Meadors, Leslei Ehringer, and myself, with 99 and 44 one hundredths per cent of the work being done by Business Manager Roe."

The possibility of buying tax sheltered annuities for teachers was also discussed. Stanley Roe, 2295 W. Sunset, Palatine, said he would investigata the matter further so that the board could establish a policy concerning the selection and number of companies from which to purchase.

If such annuitias wera purchased teachers would be able to have a regular amount deducted from their salaries and put in a retirement fund. This amount deducted would then not be included as part of taxable income.

One Way To Eat Out

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Edelson, Shalmar Apartments, 2234 Goebert Rd., ate their dinner at a restaurant Wednesday.

Their dining out was not a case of advance planning.

When Mrs. Edelson left to keep an appointment with a doctor Wednesday afternoon, she forgot to turn off the oven fire on which she was preparing a roast.

A neighbor in an adjoining apartment noticed smoke seeping from under the door and a strong odor of burning pot. She informed apartment owner J. Marcy who called the Arlington Heights fire department.

When Mrs. Edelson returned homa at approximately 3:45 she met a fireman in her doorway who is reported to have informed her thet her roast was a bit overdone.

Edelson raturned home from his job at Crystal Lake soon afterwards, looked over the situation and made an immediate decision. "We ara eating out tonight," he told Mrs. Edelson.

Currently Only English Is at Ohm

Electricity played a trick on Lt. Morris English yesterday

His phone rang yesterday afternoon but the calls were not for him. People wanted to talk to village hall employes but English was receiving all the phone calls.

They were coming in so fast that two women clerks had to be dispatched to the police station, on the first floor of the Village Hall to answer them.

Stuart Grant, finance director, explained that probably a blown fuse in the switchboard was to blame

As soon as the fuse blew the switchboard went dead. But, because of a built in emergency measure all phone calls for Village Hall were transferred to the police station

Bonds Won't Up Tax, Says Dist. 59 Chief

"Your tax rate will not be increased if you approve our building program," Supt. Donald Thomas told Dist. 59 community leaders at a kick-off luncheon promoting the Oct. 21 referendum.

The district will ask voters to approve bonds totaling $3,480,000 to build three schools, eight additions, and buy two building sites; improve library and learning center materials for each of the district's 18 buildings; and buy playground equipment and provide landscaping for schools.

"How do you know my taxes won't go up?" a woman asked.

"ALTHOUGH YOUR total tax bill may go up because of other agencies, such as Harper College and High School Dist. 214," Thomas said, "the tax rate you pay for School Dist. 59 will not increase."

"Here's why:

"Enough new people and new businesses are moving into Dist. 59 each year to more than pay for the additional principal and interest requirements without costing existing residents more tax money.

"District assessed evaluation -- now $197,000,000 -- is increasing by about $30,000,000 a year. Most of this growth is coming in the industrial sections of our district, which are now only one-third developed."

"In addition," Thomas said, "We can schedule our bonds to mature and be retired at any time we want to during the 20-year life of the bond issue."

"WILL MY TAXES go down if the bond referendum is defeated?" asked another woman.

"Yes," said Thomas.

"However, this would not happen immediately. We estimate that such a tax decrease would only be $4 for each individual home owner.

"Because our district is growing at the rate of 1,000 students each fall, a bond referendum defeat would mean we'd have to cut services, increase class sizes, and not have the same quality of education our children now enjoy."

"As a matter of fact," Thomas continued, "the tax rate for Dist. 59 has been going down. In 1965, it was 2.242 per $1,000 of assessed evaluation. In 1966, it is 2.234."

Dist. 59 schools are Juliette Low in Arlington Heights, Robert Frost, Dempster, Holmes junior highs, Forest View Elementary, and John Jay in Mount Prospect.

The district also has Brentwood, Einstein, Devonshire and High Ridge Knolls schools in Des Plaines, and other Elk Grove Village buildings.

Cadet James E. Trulove, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Trulove, 607 S. Yale, Arlington Heights, has been awarded an Air Force ROTC financial assistance grant. Trulove is a junior at the University of Illinois studying electrical engineering. He was one of 1400 juniors throughout the nation to be picked for the award.

Swingers at Chamber Dinner

Harold Bell (right), executive director of the Arlington Chamber of Commerce, presents an award to Mike Graft who made a hole in one during the chamber's annual golf outing at Old Orchard Country Club yesterday.

Enjoying the music after the dinner are Mr. and Mrs. John Janszen. Janszen is president of the chamber of commerce. Top golfer for the day was Don Hger, who was honored for the low gross score.

Want Same Land

In an effort to cut off any further attempt by the City of Des Plaines to annex land west of Illinois Rt. 83 and north of Dempster, the Mount Prospect Village Board of Trustees moved to annex a small parcel of land east of Dempster Junior High School.

The move was made, Acting Village Manager Robert Moore said, after Des Plaines tried to annex the same property. Since in the opinion of attorneys hired by the village, Des Plaines' attempt may not be legally sound.

Des Plaines, having been thwarted from annexing the 22 acres around the Bel Air Development when voters chose by a 12 to 2 vote to join Mount Prospect, is now trying to take the property immediately south of Bel Air.

STATE LAW provides that only adjacent property can be annexed by a village, and the small parcel now being contested would provide Des Plaines an access corridor across Dempster and into the unincorporated area from Illinois Rt. 83 west to Busse Rd.

THE TWO municipalities are in effect creating a patchwork of boundary lines in the contested area, which until this summer, neither community had any interest in annexing.

Dists. 59 and 15 to Discuss Students from Nike Site

School building plans for Rolling Meadows and Palatine Community Consolidated School Dist. 15 were discussed last night, but plans for a new referendum have not been stabilized yet. Board members of Dist. 15 will meet with members of Dist. 59 next Wednesday to try to decide the best place for a school to accommodate children in the proposed naval housing project at the Nike Missile site.

Superintendant E. S. Castor said that when he communicated last with Dist. 59 they said they would build a school in their area to accommodate the children if the Wilke Rd. district boundary matter were settled so that the entire housing area would be included within Dist. 59.

Castor explained the three-stage building program, spanning a 3 year period, which was provided for in the referendum that Dist. 15 passed in Aug., 1966. The first stage of the program entailed using State funds for the purchase of 10 portable classrooms and the completion of Winston Churchill School. The completion of the addition to Plum Grove School (hopefully in March) will complete the second stage. The third stage will be undertaken in 2 phases. First, a new kindergarten - through - 6th grade ("K-6") school is to be built in the Winston Park area of Lake Louise. Then, an addition will be built on Marion Jordan School, and a new "K-6" school will be built in Rolling Meadows.

THE LAND for the future school in Lake Louise has been secured, but it has not been established whether Dist. 15 will pay $30,000 for the 5-acre plot or accept Miller Builders' offer of accepting the land as a donation (providing the district pay for roads and improvements not to exceed $30,000).

Architect Richard Donatoni, of Del Bianco & Associates, who is handling the plans for construction of the Lake Louise school asked for authorization to have more soil borings made at the proposed site to confirm the opinion that the ground is sound enough for building and in deciding that the exact placement of the school on the lot. He was so authorized.

The plans to be used for the new school will probably be the same ones used for Winston Churchill school, according to the board, unless they decide that the new school should be gas heated, rather than electrically heated, in which case extensive changes in plans would be required. Castor would like the building operational by 1968, thus the time element is a factor in the decision.

LOCAL FUNDS will provide for the building of the school in Lake Louise, Castor said, but State funds would have to be borrowed to build the addition to Marion Jordon School and build the "K-6" school in Rolling Meadows. Dist. 15 is No. 20 on the State waiting list, and won't get attention until December or January Business Manager Stanley Roe said. A new referendum would then have to be passed, as the last one did not provide for the borrowing of State funds.

With the proposed development of the Hunting Ridge sub-division, Creekside, and Willow Bend (in Rolling Meadows) a school will have to be built to accommodate growth in these areas, Castor said. "Thinking in terms of these 3 sub-divisions," he said, "if we went for a referendum in November, the school might best be placed in Hunting Ridge, as this area will probably go fastest. This would take pressure off several other areas also." A special committee was appointed to investigate the matter further.

Hunting Ridge will be a fairly prosperous area, Castor said, consisting of 470 homes, each of which has at least 4 bedrooms, and each of which will cost between $35,000 and $50,000.

Annexation Requested

Lawrence P. Maloney, 1820 Pheasant Trail, Mount Prospect, appeared before the Mount Prospect Park District Board of Commissioners Monday night with a petition he and William Murphy, 1824 W. Pheasant Trail, were submitting for the annexation into the park district of the residential area west of Busse Rd. and south of Golf Rd.

Annexation is desirable, Murphy said, because the John Jay Elementary School across from the subdivision offers no organized recreational program for local children.

Day by Day

A Breath of Fresh Air

By Catherine O'Donnell

The Chamber of Commerce is usually looked upon as an unexciting group of men gathered together to promote better community relations, smoother traffic flow past the business district, list clubs and do's and don'ts for newcomers and to be the repository for sponsorship of sales, flag days and welcoming committees.

Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Harold Bell has sent on a brochure about a state Chamber of Commerce sponsored event that is like a breath of fresh air in a crowded dungeon.

Next Tuesday, Sept. 26, the Chamber will sponsor a state wide conference on respect for law and order. It will be held at the Hotel Pere Marquette in Peoria and it is one place where every community and business should be represented.

Through an impressive list of speakers, the C of C hopes to point the way for a community action program that can involve untapped resources to build respect for law and order.

THE ANNOUNCEMENT of the conference reads:

"The increasing lack of respect for law and order exhibited by almost all segments of our modern society can be countered only by responsible leadership."

It goes on, "Everyone now recognizes that lack of respect is one of the major problems facing us in the next decade. Numerous agencies and organizations have directed their attention to segments of the total problem. Businessmen, through their chambers of commerce, are capable and must be willing to coordinate and unify these efforts."

THERE IS a quote from Abraham Lincoln -- "Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his prosperity, swear by the blood of the Revolution, never to violate in the least particular, the laws of the country ... Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the character of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother, to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap --- Let it be taught in schools, in seminaries and in colleges; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and young, rich and poor, the grave and gay, of all sexes, tongues, and colors and conditions sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars."

BELL WILL not be at the meeting because of a prior commitment but Arlington Heights will be very capably represented by Police Chief L. W. Calderwood.

This is a movement that should be backed by us ordinary people who just sit and shake our heads. You can send along a vote of confidence to the chamber either through a telephone call (253-1703) or a note to 103 N. Arlington Heights Rd., 60004.

When a group as massive and as tremendous as the Chamber of Commerce starts a movement like this one, that is excitement.

DEAR BOB

Despite the deep search for the different telephone numbers once reported in this column, the Illinois Bell is still doing the same business at the airport.

If you dial Arlington Heights from a atelephone with six as the first digit, it costs one dime. If you pick a phone with nine as the first digit the operator asks for an additional nickel.

The last time snoopy old Day by Day discovered this, it was in the American Air Lines corridor. What's more one of the porters was explaining the facts of telephone usage to a stranger in town.

Thomas B. Maver, 412 N. Wilshire Lane, Arlington Heights, a representative of Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, was awarded the Chartered Life Underwriter designation at National Conferment Exercises of the American College of Life Underwriters in Chicago.

The American College of Life Underwriters grants the C.L.U. designation to persons engaged in activities relating to the insuring of human life values and who pass a series of professional examinations and meet the experience and ethical requirements of the college.

Maver has represented The Equitable for the last eight years, served as a district manager for four years, and is a member of Equitable's Leaders Corp. He was graduated from Dartmouth College, and the Amos Tuck School of Business Administration at Dartmouth.

More Boys Than Girls, Barely

Boys outnumber girls in Township High School Dist. 214, but only by nine.

And the total district enrollment of 12,007 is only 10 more students than the projected enrollment for the year of 11,997 high school students.

The figures on the enrollment for the district were compiled by Nelson Lowry and William Reid.

The total number of boys in the district is 6,008 and the total number of girls in 5,999.

The official enrollment for the 1967-68 school year is taken on the sixth day of school.

OFFICIAL enrollment by each building is: Arlington High School, 2,507 with 1,231 boys and 1,276 girls; Prospect High School, 2,381 with 1,199 boys and 1,182 girls; Forest View High School, 2,005 with 1,011 boys and 994 girls; Wheeling High School, 3,162 with 1,602 boys and 1,560 girls, and Elk Grove High School, 965 boys and 987 girls.

District administrators in their estimates of the enrollments came within 50 students at most to the exact figure.

The projected enrollment for Arlington High School was 2,512; Forest View High School, projected, 1,986; Elk Grove High School, projected, 1,996; Prospect High School, projected, 2,346; and Wheeling High School, projected, 3,157 students.

Last year the total enrollment in the district was 10,784 students.

Broken down by classes, there are 3,338 freshmen, 3,256 sophomores; 2,990 juniors and 2,423 seniors in the district.

The first class of seniors will be graduated from Elk Grove High School in June, 1968. A sixth school for the district, John Hersey High School, is expected to have its first classes in September, 1968. The building now is under construction at 2100 E. Willow Rd., near Rand Rd., in Arlington Heights.

Personnel Assoc. Elects Officers

Members of the Dist. 25 Office Personnel Assoc. held their fall dinner meeting at the Thomas Junior High School cafeteria Tuesday, elected officers to be installed at the winter meeting and made plans for community service projects including the sending of Christmas gifts to veterans in Vietnam.

The association is beginning its first full school year. The first meeting of the group was held earlier this year. The Association includes all officer personnel working in the Dist. 25 schools of Arlington Heights. There are nearly 60 persons in the new organization.

Scholarship help will be provided during the year for Charlotte Dahlgren, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Dahlgren who lost her life in an automobile accident during the summer. Mrs. Dahlgren was a member of the association, having been secretary to the principal of the South Junior High School.

TWO MEMBERS of the organization were present who retired during the year. Mrs. Eleanor Forbes who retired ten months ago after working 14 years in the Dist. 25 superintendent's office. She and her husband have been traveling in the south. They will soon leave for an extended trip to the west coast.

Mrs. Ruby Olson retired in March after working 11 years at the Miner Junior High School. Mrs. Olson reported that she and her husband went immediately to Florida for several weeks. Then they returned and went to Minnesota where they worked during the summer in a resort, finding it hard but interesting work.

Officers elected for the coming year include Mildred Reyna of Ridge School, president; Mrs. Grace Rodgers of the Olive School, secretary and Mrs. Jan Chartrand of the administration building staff, treasurer. The officers will be installed at the Dec. 13 meeting. The association meets four times a year.

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

We've been talking all week about the counter scales in the summer produce stands, and our discovery that the Illinois Department of Agriculture apparently isn't testing the scales yearly as required by law.

We asked some of the produce stand owners about it. They say they all know about the law, but are dependent upon the state coming around to do the testing.

We talked to the owner of the stand in Arlington Heights that we mentioned here yesterday.

"Are you aware of the law?"

"Oh yes, we comply with it."

"There are no decals on your scales to show that they have been tested. This scale here shows it was last tested in 1965."

"WELL, THAT'S how it is with those people (from the state). They have no regular time to stop by, so I never know if they've been here or not. Sometimes they don't stop by for a couple of years."

"Have you ever tried to call and have them send someone out?"

"Yes we have, but could never find anyone that could help us. We have our own scale tester who comes out every spring to test and adjust the scales, and we would welcome the state inspection, just to prove that everything here is all right. The scales are out in sight of everyone and the inspector can come in anytime."

The owner of a stand in Park Ridge (where one scale hasn't been tested apparently in 23 years) told us the same thing.

"We know about the law, but no one has been here yet this year." (The stand closes for the winter next month.)

THEN WE CALLED Jeannette DiVito, secretary of the State Agriculture Department Chicago office.

"We have found a lot of stands with untested scales in the Chicago area. What do you do to check on them?"

"The only way we know about it is if a store owner tells us or we get a complaint from a customer."

"Can't you make up a list of stores, perhaps from the sales tax returns?"

"No, we can't do that."

"How do I contact your superintendent in Springfield, Hubert Goforth?"

"He resigned Sept. 1, to become postmaster of Carbondale. John Staley is the acting superintendent."

"All right, I'll call him."

Did you ever consider the problems of moving 50,000 books across town quickly and without damage? The Arlington Heights Public Library is coming to grips with these problems preparatory to moving into its new building a few months from now.

The Mount Prospect Library is already located in a modern facility that looks so new that it might have been occupied within the year. But the Mount Prospect Library did not have to face up to such a responsibility at one time. In 1950 the library moved one block from its Main Street site, now occupied by the Mount Prospect Paint Store, to its present location. Then in the fall of 1962 the present building was occupied on the same location.

The Arlington Heights Public Library has no opportunity to make the move by easy stages. Sometime this winter, probably about Feb. 1, the library will suddenly cease to operate from its present location at Miner and Belmont and, as quickly as possible, begin functioning at its new location on N. Dunton. There will be little furniture or equipment to be moved since the new building is being appointed with new furnishings, but the books — that's different. The approximately 55,000 books, plus thousands more magazines, bulletins and leaflets, will be moved.

THERE are four major steps:

 ONE — Take the books from present shelves or storage areas and pack them in cartons all properly labelled for the exact location where they will be used in the new library.

 TWO -- Move the cartons from the packing room into a truck.

 THREE — After the truck has transported the books to the new library location, unload the cartons and carry them into the new building, placing them in the area where the books will be placed on shelves for use.

 FOUR — Unpack the cartons and place the books in proper order on the new shelves ready for use by library patrons.

THE SIZE of the undertaking begins to come into focus when the realization sinks home that from 1500 to 200 cartons will be needed to transport the books and magazines from one location to another.

To take these cartons in the front or back door of the new library would involve a lot of walking and loss of time. To overcome this it is proposed by professional consultants on moving procedures that several of the permanent Thermopane windows not be installed until after the books are moved so that conveyors can be used to quickly elevate the cartons into the building at approximately the places where they will be permanently housed.

Some of the work can be done in advance, but for the most part it will be a crash program of condensing all four of the steps into the shortest possible time. It has not yet been determined how long the library will have to be closed to permit the transfer of the books but at best several days will be needed.

In addition to all the other considerations, there will be major expense to moving the books. The organizations in the Arlington Heights community are beginning too take cognizance of this fact. The Newcomers Club of Arlington Heights has just sent the library a check for $125 to be used in any way that the library board deems most appropriate. There will be others.

NO ONE, not on the library board, has any idea of the mass of details which must be faced in order to erect and occupy a new library building.

Just a few of the big matters being given attention this week are:

Making payments to contractors for approximately $112,000, representing about 7 per cent of the total cost of the new building.

Begin work of introducing the new library emblem designed by the Arlington Heights artist, Kenneth Krom, and adopted by the library board at its last meeting.

CHECK UPON the new stainless steel partitions in the public lavatories being substituted for other materials to hold down maintenance expenses. Specifically this is to discourage the wisecrackers and natural poets who insist on providing their own decorations for such walls. Not that the library board expects to completely prevent this great undertaking, but the inscriptions will be so much easier to remove from stainless steel panels.

As a library board erecting a new building, you have to think often and fast about a lot of things.

"What gripes me most about this strike is that today is the day I was supposedta go on vacation!"

Are you on the road to

Personal bankruptcies, according to a national newsmagazine, are "an alarming new nationwide phenomenon." A bankrupt condition doesn't descend like lightning. It has recognizable stages.

The first is when the individual or family senses that it is overspending but doesn't bother to learn precisely where it stands.

The second stage comes when current obligations cannot be completely met and there is urgent need of cash.

The third is when the customary sources of money and goods are closed because of financial insolvency.

The best way to prevent bankruptcy is first to take stock and then to plan a financial future that includes the buildup of cash reserves through savings.

'Unconcern' For School Bus Riders

Editor:

I can understand how Supt. Pansino (School District 23, Prospect Heights) can be happy that House Bill 1661 (school bus transportation) was vetoed by Governor Kerner. He is "delighted" that his district has saved $60,000 But I resent the fact that he is so obviously unconcerned about the unfortunate people in his district who have several children in his schools who must ride the bus, and who would welcome a little state aid for their bus bills.

Pansino also seems oblivious to the fact that the taxpayers in his district who send their children to private schools feel that their feelings have been tactlessly and needlessly hurt by his school district's "delight" in what has turned out to be their misfortune. Many private school children would have recieved free or much less expensive transportation to chool, had the bill been approved by the governor.

Pansino doesn't seem to realize that each child who attends private school saves his district several hundred dollars every year. I don't feel that it is asking too much for the public schools to provide bus transportation for these students whose parents pay public school taxes, but elect to send their children to private schools; and evidently the state legislature felt the same way when it passed House Bill 1661.

I think that the parents of private school children have been pretty good about voting to pass referenda about increased taxes for public schools, since they realize that education is a public need and benefits all of society. But, judging from the numbers who turned out to vote at District 23's last referendum, voting turn-outs are poor in that district.

Since Supt. Pansino doesn't seem to care about the financial plight of some of the taxpayers in his district, perhaps it would behoove these same taxpayers to get out and vote selfishly, and not consider the needs of the public schools. After all, the hippies have their forms of protest, and we can protest in the best way of all, legally, by voting.

DOCTOR SAYS

Varying Means for Wart Removal Are Available

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — Is there any cure for plantar warts? Is surgery necessary?

A — Although plantar warts may occur at any age they are seen most often in adolescents. They are caused by a virus. The warts are flush with the surface of the skin and pressure on them, as in walking, may be very painful. Many types of treatment have been used with varying success. A few disappear spontaneously, especially if the area can be kept dry, but most plantar warts are persistent and may recur after they have been removed.

One treatment that has been effective, especially in children, is to soak the area in 5 per cent formalin for 15 minutes every night for several weeks until the warts drop out. This course of treatment is shortened if your doctor freezes the wart with carbon dioxide snow before the foot soaks are started.

Another treatment has been worked well with some victims is the application of an ointment containing linseed oil to soften the wart and podophyllin to kill it. Warts that have failed to respond to other measures have been removed successfully with a series of treatments with ultrasound. Most doctors avoid surgical removal.

Q — Would a tipped uterus affect the bowel? Would it interfere with conception?

A — A uterus that is acutely tipped backward may cause pressure on the rectum and a feeling of fullness or distress in that region. It may also make it difficult to conceive. The degree of tipping varies widely. If there are no symptoms, no treatment is required. For some of the milder forms, assuming the knee-chest posture (knees and chest resting on the bed with the hip elevated) for 20 minutes twice a day is helpful. For the more severe degrees your doctor can replace the uterus in its normal position, then prevent its tipping by inserting a pessary designed for this purpose.

Operations to fix the uterus in place are not recommended for women of child-bearing age because following childbirth the uterus is very likely to return to its tipped position.

Q -- What are the symptoms of a fallen or prolapsed uterus? What causes it and what can be done to help the victim?

A — Prolapse of the uterus occurs following childbirth in women with a weak pelvic floor. It may cause a feeling of heaviness in the pelvis and difficulty controlling the urine. In some women a carefully fitted pessary may be all that is needed to correct this condition. In others a pelvic repair operation is required.

Q — What will make one's clothing turn yellow from sweat?

A — In persons who are not jaundiced, yellow sweat may be caused by the invasion of the sweat glands by certain harmless bacteria or (usually in the armpits) with a fungus called Nocardia. Yellow sweat is occasionally seen in women who are pregnant.

Q — I am a housewife. I am taking Tylosterone. What is it given for? Are there any harmful side affects?

A — This combination of male and female hormones is used chiefly in the treatment of menopausal symptoms and especially for the osteoporosis (softening of the bones) associated with the change of life. Such side effects as nausea, a sense of fullness in the breasts, headache and abdominal distress can usually be controlled by adjusting the dosage to your individual needs.

Q — What are steptomycin shots for? What effect do cortisone shots have on lung viruses?

A — The chief use of the antibiotic, streptomycin, is in the treatment of tuberculosis. Cortisone has no direct affect on any kind of virus but is given to reduce inflammation. It is also used with streptomycin in the treatment of tuberculosis.

Miniature Coffeecakes

Pep Up Reluctant A.M. Appetites

If you're trying to tempt the younger members of your family to eat a big breakfast, try serving them miniature coffeecakes, baked in tiny loaf pans which can be purchased at the toy counter.

The batter can be spooned into a 9-inch square baking pan or muffin cups if the miniatures are not immediately available. Garnish these petite coffeecakes with bits of red maraschino cherries and golden pineapple to add eye appeal to the butter flavored nut and brown sugar topping.

The topping and dry ingredients of the recipe may be measured and mixed together in advance and stored in tightly covered containers to cut down morning preparation time.

INDIVIDUAL COFFEECAKES

2 tablespoons butter
⅓ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
2 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons chopped nuts
¼ cup crushed pineapple, drained
2 cups sifted flour
½ cup granulated sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup (1 stick) butter
1 egg
1 cup milk

Cut 2 tablespoons butter into brown sugar. Stir in cherries and nuts, then lightly mix in pineapple in order to keep misture crumbly. Set aside for topping. In mixing bowl, sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Cut in ½ cup butter until mixture resembles coarse meal. Beat together egg and milk; add all at once to dry ingredients, stirring until just moistened.

Pour into 6 buttarad miniatura loaf pans. Sprinkla with topping. Bake in preheated 350 degree oven 25 - 30 minutes. Makes 6 small cakes.

May be baked in buttered 9-inch square pan, 30 - 35 minutes, or in 18 paper-lined 2½ inch muffin cups, 20 - 25 minutes.

Miniature coffeecakes topped with brightly colored maraschino cherries and golden pineapple are especially designed to attract youngsters to the breakfast table.

They'll Last a Lifetime

Take Care Of Child's Feet

The importance of a child's feet to his general well-being can scarcely be over-rated. One could say that health is, literally, built from the ground up.

The other ingredients of a vigorous life, such as rest, proper foods and exercise, cannot be underestimated, of course, but if a child has all of these in good measure it is still true that his feet must take him wherever he goes all during his active life.

Most parents realize this and are eager to learn the ways they can insure that their own children will keep the perfect feet they were born with. And podiatrists, by the way, tell us that ninety-eight per cent of babies do have perfectly formed feet at birth.

THE NATIONAL Footwear Institute has these suggestions based on the questions that are most frequently asked by parents:

1. A child's first pair of shoes should be purchased when he stands without help, and not before. His feet need perfect freedom during infancy, and it is only when he begins to stand and walk that he requires extra support. His first shoes should be the soft soled "pre-walker" type.

2. In order to be certain of proper fit, from the very first shoe on, make a practice of visiting the same shoe store so that the salesman will understand your child's needs and can prevent the occurrence of any malfunction due to improper shoes. He can also spot any other difficulty in its earliest stage.

3. If you shop at a self service shoe counter, never be tempted to buy a pair of shoes without your child trying them on, since size and shape vary from one brand or one style to another. Remember that bad fit is no bargain.

4. A rule of thumb to follow if you must do the fitting yourself is that the shoe should be three-quarters of an inch longer than the longest toe, measured while standing up.

5. For school, have at least two pairs of shoes to alternate. Shoes and feet need a rest from one another, and if shoes are at all damp from perspiration or weather they should have at least twenty-four hours to dry thoroughly before they are worn again. And change a child's shoes after school, before he goes out to play. While you're about it, change socks too.

6. Mothers who are trying to stretch the family budget are often tempted to save a pair of shoes which is not worn out, to be given to a younger child later. This is very bad practice, since a shoe quickly conforms to the shape of the wearer's foot. So even if the size is correct, the younger child's foot will be forced into the shape left by the older child. Foot defects are caused in just this way.

7. Parents who let their children go barefoot in the summer are running the risk of injuries, ringworm and irritation from chemicals used in lawn care. The best rule is: bare feet are fine on the beach. Other than that, play it safe with well fitting shoes.

Before and After Dark

A Buffet Luncheon To Make You Forget Dinner

BY SONIA JOHNSON

In the 1890's a good stolid German from the old country established Piper's bakery on north Wells Street. With substantial, delicious, aromatic, home-type goods coming over the counter daily, business became prosperous and eventually tables, chairs and coffee were added for those who chose to consume current offerings before they became cold.

The premises were taken over by an enterprising fellow who doesn't mind taking a chance. Ralph Mitchell is not new to the business. He introduced The Twist in his formerly-owned The Scene. He added a partner, Harold Seltzer, a good chef, reasonable prices, incorporated with the '90's atmosphere and it spelled success for That Steak Joint.

It's a small, intimate dining room that has been accepted in Old Town. None of the swinging crowd care for this fare, but the oldsters do. It is one of the islands of refuge in the area where some of us can rest when we feel our vitamins have run out for the day.

THE DECOR is authentic, utilizing the original bakery shelves and display cases, sculptured plaster ceilings, ancient billiard chandelier, mirrors, wood paneling and other artifacts. It is done in red velvet and black woods, tastefully and subdued with that muffled-sound feeling.

The prime commodity is not atmosphere - it's food! They really do have a good chef.

We went for luncheon which is served either from a menu or buffet style. If you try the latter, forget about dinner later. It features scads of salads, appetizers. We tried the lamb patties, nicely seasoned and wrapped in bacon, the beef Burgundy, the juicy, rare roast beef, and fried chicken.

Other things like the soup of the day, vegetables, potatoes, gravy and desserts are for the ones with more substantial appetites and those who are not calorie conscious.

WE WENT because Ted Weber, an old friend, does a radio show out of there on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at about 2:00, or whenever he finishes lunch. The show is taped and aired on station WXFM at 11:30 those evenings. Being on the show was enjoyable except that anyone with as many things to say as I have has trouble squeezing it all into a half hour. I wonder if Ted will ever forgive me for only giving him enough time to do the commercials.

Ted's other guest was Jerry Dhesse, who is involved in filming for Screen Gems, and is currantly working on documentary films locally.

He is a young man with much talent, ambition and a tolerance for the adequate and inadequate. It is more than stimulating -- it is educational -- to meet young men who are worried about our world today, think constructively, and want to do something about everything some of us can't.

NEXT WEEK, opening the 26th, Julia Meade stars in "The Third Best Sport," a comedy that has a fun plot, at Pheasant Run Playhouse. It will run through October 15th.

LOCALLY, at Country Club Theatre, "Dream World," a comedy by Fred Carmichael, opened this week. This is a midwest premier of the script, and not the first one Will Haas has been able to secure before it became something that is showing everywhere.

John Stephen Cox, Pat Fraser, Bob Kidder and Joan Xanders will be appearing in the play. With that cast, it should be a gooder.

FLASH! - Duke Ellington, a living musical legend, and his complete recording orchestra will appear in person at The Bramble Bush on Sunday for one night only. The band includes such jazz greats as Louis Belhon on drums, "Cat" Andersen on trombone and Johnny Hodges on alto sax. First show is scheduled for about 9:00 p.m.

The legendary Duke has been a member of the royalty of show business for almost half a century, and his fame and popularity continues to grow. The Bush is fortunate to have secured this engagement, and local jazz lovers will undoubtedly storm the doors early to get choice seats.

AND - Don Riley and The Imperials, popular local group currently appearing at the Flying Carpet weekends, enjoyed an engagement last Sunday and Monday at The Ivanhoe.

Evidently guests enjoyed the show, because management has asked them to return.

The one and only Duke Ellington and his complete recording jazz band will make a personal appearance locally at The Bramble Bush, Sunday for one night only.

Plan Park Site Development

Plans for the development of the newly-acquired park site adjacent to the Robert Frost Elementary School are underway in the River Trails Park District.

Marvin Weiss, superintendent of the Park District, says that he would like to heve the park site graded this fall so that it would be ready for seeding in the spring. Plans for a topographical survey to be made this fall were discussed by the board Wednesday.

Roger Bjorvik, attorney for the board, announced that the application for Federal funds has been returned from Washington. The application was originally reviewed by the village of Mount Prospect, but now says Bjorvik, must also be reviewed by the village of Wheeling and the city of Des Plaines. The park board has been notified that the Federal funds slated for this project have been depleted for this calender year, but that they will be considered for next year's funding.

Paul Novak, of the landscape engineering firm of Dean, Novak, and Carlson, who is under contract for the park site development, said that the firm is losing a partner and is changing its name to Novak, Carlson, and Associates. Novak said that the park will remain under the original contract.

To Help Crusade Of Mercy

Three Arlington Heights residents, Terry Turnock, 815 W. Sigwalt; George W. Kaucher, 410 N. Patton; and Glenn J. Wilplot, 112 S. Patton, have been loaned on a full time basis to the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy by their respective employers.

Turnock, a marketing representative for IBM, Kaucher, a division staff supervisor for Ill. Bell Telephone Co., and Wilplot, a marketing specialist of the Container Corp. of America, will all be paid by their companies while they work full time for the Crusade until the end of the year.

Forty-five Chicago area executives have been loaned to the Crusade this year by 39 companies to assist in the $24,046,120 campaign which opens officially Sept. 20.

HENRY W. Meers, general campaign chairman and resident partner at White, Weld & Co., said, "Loaned executives are a 'plus' contribution made by each of these civic-minded companies. It is a valuable contribution greatly appreciated by the Crusade of Mercy, because without the assistance of these men, the Crusade could not possibly mount a campaign of this size and scope."

MEERS SAID 35,000 business firms and 1,750,000 employes in this area are solicited during the campaign. "Loaned executives work with volunteer solicitors to cover this vast group of potential contributors," Meers explained.

Sharing in the funds raised by the Crusade are the Suburban Community Chest Council with its 82 participating suburban chests, the Community Fund of Chicago, and the Mid-America Chapter of the American Red Cross. Over one million people are aided annually through the 900 Crusade supported voluntary humen care services.

All classroom supplies will be provided by the civil defense units. Certificates will be awarded to residents who complete the course.

Registration can be made by calling the Mount Prospect Civil Defense Director, Lt. Larry Pairitz of the Mount Prospect Fire Department, CL 9-3920, or at the first session. Director of the Des Plaines Civil Defense Corps is Richard G. Arthur, 296-4800.

County Advisory Council Picks Executive Committee

The special committee to create a Cook County advisory council of governments has set Oct. 26 as the date to approve the appointments to its executive committee.

The council, which was proposed by County Board President Richard Ogilvie last June, is being formed to handle county problems which affect more than one community or government organization.

The council will consist of a general assembly, about 600 members from all government bodies in the county, and an executive committee, which will handle the administrative and routine business.

Mount Prospect Mayor Daniel Congreve was appointed to the special committee last month, but was unable to attend last Thursday's meeting. Plan Commission President Malcolm Young attended the meeting in Congreve's absence.

ONE HALF of the 20-men membership in the executive committee will consist of representatives from county municipalties, and the other half will come from the various other governments in the county, such as fire protection districts, park and school districts.

The idea of having an advisory body in metropolitan Cook County which will be able to cut through conventional government channels in order to solve problems is not new. Similar organizations are now working in the Philadelphia and San Francisco areas.

Some of the problems the council will be charged with solving after it is formed are flooding, sewage, and mass transportation.

A Chance to Learn About Japan

MRS. JOHN SMIT

BY BETTY HANSEN

Mrs. John Smit will help you fulfill your dream of visiting an exotic foreign country. For 12 years she was a missionary in Japan where she learned to speak the language and taught English to Japanese high school students.

Mrs. Smit, who lives at 3702 Wren Ln., Rolling Meadows, will teach Japanese at Forest View High School in Adult Education classes every Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. starting Sept. 28.

"Japan is one of the most interesting oriental countries and will come to life through the study of its easy-to-pronounce language," said Mrs. Smit.

CLASS sessions will be highlighted by colorful first-person descriptions about the people, the home, the food, schools, customs, geishas, religion and cultural aspects of Japanese life. Mrs. Smit teaches how to tie words with their formal and informal application.

"Four months after graduating from Westmont College in Santa Barbara, Calf. I was on my way to Honshu Island at Ishikawa (Stone River) Prefecture on the west coast near Siberia," said Mrs. Smit.

SMILING happily as she recalled Karuizawa (Light Valley), she talked about her experiences at language school. Finishing the two year course in 18 months she was sent to Tokyo as head of the Evangelical Alliance Mission. Later assigned to work with the people in a small mountain valley called Daishooji Machi (Great Holy Temple) she found 40 temples both Shinto and Buddhist.

"Some 40 years earlier the first Christian missionaries to this village were not accepted. The villager stoned them and they left," said Mrs. Smit.

Mrs. Smit said her call to mission work occurred when she was 16 years old. "A definite clear guidance came into my life, moment by moment and day by day, I felt Gods' guidance." Thus at 23 Mrs. Smit found herself on her way to a country and people strange to her. Before mission life she was with the original Billy Graham team and attended Moody Bible Institute.

MRS. SMIT emphasized that the dialects in Japan differ in different parts of the country just as they do in the United States. She will teach the standard Tokyo dialect as taught in all Japanese school because it is understood everywhere, according to Mrs. Smit.

"Recordings will be used in the language laboratory to acquaint the student with the phonetic sound of Japanese. Native-born Japanese will vist the class and also assist the learning students. Japanese floral arrangements and the traditional Japanese tea ceremony will be presented by professional artists to add to the learning atmosphere," said Mrs. Smit.

Her second mission term was in Karuizawa in Nagano Ken on the Island of Honshu in the heart of Japan. After one year of language review the high school principal asked Mrs. Smit to teach English to his pupils.

IN JULY 1962 after five years at Karuizawa she was asked to present the farewell lecture to the graduation class.

"This was done with the consent of the principal for I wanted to give it in Japanese and I prepared thoroughly for it. I was especially concerned because the mayor and all local dignitaries came in their dark kimonos to this important occasion," she said.

Over 1,000 people assembled in the school auditoruim to celebrate. Mrs. Smit said the Japanese women began to whisper when she began to speak and the words drifted up to her. "Oh! She is speaking Japanese. What is going on here? She is not speaking in a foreign language."

"I was completely accepted and given all advantages," she said. Each day she rode a motor bike (Maha) to the mountain top, about five miles to the school. This was better transportation than when she first came to Japan, then she had a bicycle.

FOR THE past three years Mrs. Smit has taught English to wives of business men from Japan and to Japanese wives of American men. She is also a substitute teacher for District 214.

The Smit's have three children. Judy 20, a student at Northern Illinois University at DeKalb. Joyce 19, a student at Detroit Bible College in Mich., and John 14, a freshman at Forest View High School.

Persons desiring information about enrolling for the class, Japanese I, may call CI 9-5300 Administration Center for District 214, Adult Education. it is 15 dollars for 15 two hour sessions.

FOR FRIDAY

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)--Be sure to specify exactly what you want from another. Vague answers to direct questions will be of benefit to no one.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)--Don't hesitate to demonstrate your knowledge of topics under discussion, especially should higher-ups be present.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)--Chances for advancement are very good for the Sagittarius who has kept his nose to the grindstone and his eye on the future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)--The conventional Capricorn has the best chance of success today. Originality is fine in its place -- but this is not the time for it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)--Stick strictly to routine today regardless of incentives offered by others to do otherwise. A good day.

PISCES (Feb.20-Mar. 21)--You may have difficulty recognizing an opportunity for advancement today -- but not if you've laid the groundwork well.

ARIES (Mar. 22-Apr. 20)--Accept another's view as if it were your own and you may be in for trouble. Best to do what is right for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 21-May 21)--Awkwardness in expressing yourself could keep you from achieving an important goal today. Think before speaking.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)--Let all your references to others be of a complimentary nature. You'll only make enemies by trying to play both ends against the middle.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)--If you're prepared to cite your sources, to name names, and be specific about circumstances, you may be able to persuade others as you wish.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)--Make sure that your words carry all the weight you want them to. This is no time to be wishy-washy in expressing yourself.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)--Rewards in store for the Virgo who chooses his companions carefully today. Take care what kind of company you keep.

Most Area Teams Healthy For Conference Openers

Most area grid squads will head into their first weekend of conference play this weekend.

For all Mid-Suburban conference schools, the exhibitions are things of the past. St. Viator will take on Argo Saturday in one more test before the Chicagoland Prep League teams begin bumping heads.

ALL AREA teams are basically healthy after one week of play and most are standing on the personel and techniques used in the openers. The sole exception is Wheeling High where Coach Bill Daletski has been conducting a "complete re-evaluation of our players."

Here's a report from the local training fields:

Arlington, which will play host to Prospect Friday night after a loss to Barrington, will have a net gain in healthy ballplayers. Plagued by the flu last week, Todd Somers wasn't in top form. He has recovered. Flu also hit Al LaLond and John Vetter before the Barrington game, but they, too, are back in shape.

THE CARDINALS have been working on techniques which worked against the Broncos and on polishing their pass defense.

"We did a lot of things well, but our inexperience showed at points," said Assistant Coach Tom Pitchford.

Arlington is starting seven or eight juniors this season and the emphasis now is to get them to work smoothly with the veterans.

"They intend to come back as a group," said Pitchford. "We weren't bad last week. Barrington just played a fine ball game."

At Prospect, the offensive line that sprang as many leaks as a do-it-yourself plumbing job Saturday has been overhauled.

JIM NOVAK HAS been moved from tackle to center and Maurice Loeffel sidestepped one notch to guard. The return of Butch Leonard, a 6-2, 190 pound letterman makes the whole thing possible.

"Novak was a center-tackle," said Coach Don Williams, "and we seriously considered starting him at center before the North Chicago game, so he should work out."

Mike Herod, who started at guard against the Warhawks but whose size (145 pounds) worked against him, will back up Loeffel.

The move gives the Knights a net gain of 45 pounds and a year of experience up front.

Ninety per cent of the work this week has been on offensive blocking and on the center pass, a glaring defect in the Prospect attack last week.

AT WHEELING, Coach Bill Daletski has seen a sufficient number of weak spots to order a new look at his offensive and defensive squads.

"We're in the midst of a complete re-evaluation of our team, starting with fundamentals," Daletski said. "I think we assumed too much before the season began, particularly on defense."

Traditionally a Wildcat strength, the defense allowed Maine South 44 points Saturday.

"We're not as bad as we looked against Maine," the coach said. "As we look at it, our season begins this week. Maine was the best team I've seen around here in five years. They could beat any team in our conference."

The Cats are back to the fundamentals, stressing blocking and tackling. The renovated team will be tested against Fremd in a home game Saturday.

BY CONTRAST with the Wildcats, St. Viator's Lions are healthy and happy.

No changes in players or plays is envisioned for Argo's visit to town Saturday.

"We have been trying to solidify the center of our defense," said Coach Joe Gliwa. "Argo has a fullback who goes about 195 pounds. We don't expect him to go wide, so we won't play as wide a defense. We have two seniors at the ends and they should be able to handle whatever comes to the outside."

The only casualty of the Lions' 12-7 win over Glenbrook South was John Wendell. Wendell, who played halfback last week, will be out for one or two weeks.

"We're emphasizing repetition "now," Gliwa said. "We did add a couple of plays, but primarily we're repeating what we've done so that we've got it down."

FOREST VIEW'S 14-0 loss to tough Deerfield was costly in another way. Two starters, Chuck Smith and Mike Otto, were hurt and will be missing from the Falcon cast for a couple of weeks.

Smith will be replaced at guard by Bill Stark, a 6-4, 215 pound junior. John Caltagirone and Al Ernst will replace Otto in the backfield.

"We're trying to reach the point where our defense does not slip off when making tackles," said Coach Bill Scott. "And we've been running point-out drills, polishing our blocking assignments."

The Falcons will be up against Elk Grove at home Saturday.

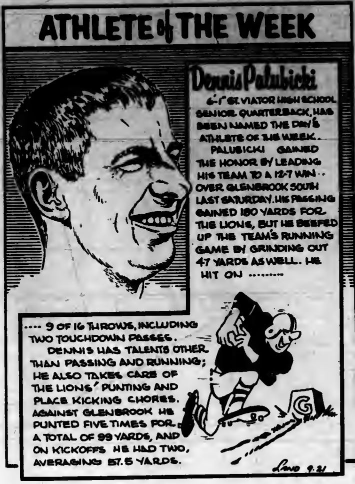
THE GRENADIERS, the only Mid-Suburban League victor last weekend, are standing pat with the combination that earned them a 14-13 win at the expense of Addison Trail.

"We haven't added anything to our offense or defense," said Coach Dick Mudge. "It's that time of year when you don't jump around, especially when you're winning. You just try to improve what you've got."

Basically, the Grens are healthy, but will miss Glenn DeBierge whose hand was injured in the Addison game. Torn ligaments will keep him on the sidelines. Either Tom Pomey or Joe Kalisz will take over. Both filled in for DeBierge last week.

"We used Pomey as a slotback," Mudge said, "but we had a lot of help from sophomore Ron Fink, so we can afford to make the change."

Wheeling gridders run through basic blocking and tackling techniques following Coach Bill Daletski's call for a "complete re-evaluation" of his team.



ATHLETE of THE WEEK
Dennis Palubicki
6-1" ST. VIATOR HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR QUARTERBACK, HAS BEEN NAMED THE DAY'S ATHLETE OF THE WEEK.
PALUBICKI GAINED THE HONOR BY LEADING HIS TEAM TO A 12-7 WIN OVER GLENBROOK SOUTH LAST SATURDAY. HIS PASSING GAINED 180 YARDS FOR THE LIONS, BUT HE BEEFED UP THE TEAM'S RUNNING GAME BY GRINDING OUT 47 YARDS AS WELL. HE HIT ON ....
.... 9 OF 16 THROWS, INCLUDING TWO TOUCHDOWN PASSES.
DENNIS HAS TALENTS OTHER THAN PASSING AND RUNNING; HE ALSO TAKES CARE OF THE LIONS' PUNTING AND PLACE KICKING CHORES. AGAINST GLENBROOK HE PUNTED FIVE TIMES FOR A TOTAL OF 99 YARDS, AND ON KICKOFFS HE HAD TWO, AVERAGING 57.5 YARDS.

Lion QB Palubicki Named Day's 'Athlete of Week'

Dennis Palubicki, St. Viator High School's rapid fire quarterback, has been named the Day's Athlete of the Week.

Palubicki gained the honor after leading his team to a 12-7 win over Glenbrook South last Saturday. His passing gained 180 yards for the Lions, but he beefed up the team's running game by grinding out 47 yards as well.

"HE'S NOT primarily a runner," said Coach Joe Gliwa of the senior signal caller, "but he picked up some nice yardage for us. He can run when his receivers are covered, but Saturday he also ran a couple of options too."

Palubicki hit on 9 of 16 throws, including two touchdown passes. In the second quarter, he fired to end Frank Bianca from the Glenbrook 28 for the score. The TD brought the Lions back into contention after Glenbrook had grabbed an early 7-0 lead. Palubicki was not through for the day, however. In the last period, he found sophomore halfback Tom Anderson for a 44-yard touchdown.

"You have to call him a scrambler," said Gliwa. "He can throw well while on the run and we like to roll out quite a bit. But he's 6-1, so he can stand up there in the pocket and throw as well."

PALUBICKI STEPPED in as first-string quarterback in the fourth game last season and has held on the job ever since.

"He has a lot of poise and a good arm," said the coach. "He called a great percentage of our plays Saturday. I sent in some, but he called a fine game."

St. Viator uses many spread formations with backs slotted in its primarily airborne attack. Palubicki is the key to its success.

BIANCE AND halfback Ken Sophie have been his favorite targets, but Anderson, coming off his performance Saturday, probably will become an equally popular receiver.

Palubicki has talents other than passing and running. He also takes care of the Lions' punting and place kicking chores. Against Glenbrook, he punted five times for a total of 99 yards, an average of 24.5 On the kickoffs, he had two, averaging 57.5 yards.

All area athletes are eligible for the Day's weekly honor. Nominations are invited and may be made by phone, mail, or in person. Anonymous nominations will be accepted. Suggestions should be made to the Day office by 5 p.m. Mondays.

The office is located at 217 S. Arlington Heights Rd. The phone number is 255-7200.

Smith Misses Meet

Deerfield Tames Wildcats

Wheeling High School's varsity harriers have had the misfortune of running two meets in two days without their top man.

The Wildcats dropped a 19-42 match to Deerfield yesterday as Phil Smith sat it out.

Smith also was among the missing Tuesday when the Cats fell to Highland Park 22-31.

Wheeling Coach Ken Carter took yesterday's loss philosophically.

"It's one of those things," he said. Sometimes it happens to you, sometimes it happens to the other guy. Today it was our turn, but these kids should have done better.

"We knew Deerfield would be tough, but we have a little break in the schedule now with Elk Grove and Forest View, so we should do a little better."

Greg Gawlik had to take up the slack left by Smith's absence. Gawlik responded by coming in second with a time of 10:36, but he had little help. Deerfield swept four of the first five places.

"Gawlik ran a nice race for us today," said Carter. "He's a sophomore and he's coming along nicely."

"The boys were really down today. They're a bunch of sophomores and juniors and they need Smitty."

Gawlik was followed across the finish line by teammates Keith Greens, seventh; Frank Savage, tenth; Paul Royer, eleventh, and Lenn Eaton, twelfth.

Jim Gesler of Deerfield led the pack with a 10:28.

The Wildcats also were without the services of two other runners yesterday. Flu sidelined Steve Mykytiuk, the team's fifth man, and Fred Schneller.

"Smith was the most improved runner in the area last spring," said Carter, "and he's looked very good for us so far this fall."

The Wheeling underclassmen also went home beaten. Deerfield took that one 25-30.

Bill McGowan of the Wildcats took medalist honors with an 11:18. He was followed by John Rodgers in third, Ed Reiger in seventh, Larry Inman in ninth and John Tulfano in tenth.

Wheeling's next outing will be against Elk Grove at home tomorrow.

Wildcat Keith Greens, center, strains to catch Leif Backe of Deerfield at the wire. Greens finished seventh as Wheeling absorbed at a 19-14 loss.

Knight Harrier Squad Invades Maine South

Prospect High will enter its first cross country dual meet of the year tomorrow when it visits Maine South.

"I don't know exactly what we have yet," said Knight Coach Joe Wanner. At the Maine West meet last Saturday, some of our varsity runners looked good, but I don't know what they can do in a dual meet."

Wanner said that the work of seniors Joe Wilcox and Dave Baker has been "surprising" and that Bruce Oswald looks good.

"From the looks of our varsity results at Maine West, this will be a very close meet," said Wanner. "I took the point totals of each team and we tied at 28-28.

"We have good balance. All our boys run about the same time. There's only about eight seconds separating them."

Prospect is running five seniors among its top seven this year: Wilcox, Baker and Oswald together with Steve Holmes, Owen McBride. Junior Bill Treece and soph Keith Matthews are the other top Knight runners.

"Maine South should be tough," the coach said. "They're one of the better teams in their conference. But since that Maine West meet, we've been looking much better."

At Maine, Prospect's varsity finished sixth among 24 teams.

And give you up to 5 years to repay?

Who would you turn to if you needed $5,000?

Or, even $1,000?

To borrow money like that, you're sure to have an important reason — a family emergency, home improvement, or whatever — but, what friend would lend you the money?

We've been that kind of friend to thousands of people. At this office. And, at our nearly 500 offices all over the country.

We're the kind of friend who helps when people really need help. With big loans. And we make it easy to repay.

For example, borrow $5,000 and take 5 years to repay with monthly payments of only $148.54. Borrow $3,000 and make monthly payments of only $89.12. Borrow $1,000 and make monthly payments of only $29.70. (All payments include life, accident and health insurance coverage.)

So, if you need money — now or in the future — remember that you've got a friend close by. Commercial Credit. If there's a chance that we can help, we'll be glad to.

After all, that's what we're here for . . . friend. "Need money? Come and get it" . . . at

4 Recall Hectic Days as Legislature Pages

BY RICHARD CRABB

Ever wonder how it is with the state legislature page boys at Springfield?

They are a rare breed. For one thing, except for members of the legislature, only they are entitled to come and go on the floors of the House and Senate with no questions asked.

Four Arlington Heights boys served as page boys this summer. Their political careers have now been curtailed, or at least detoured, by having to return to home and school, but they agree that being a page boy in Springfield will stand as one of their great experiences of 1967.

THE FOUR boys are George and John Chapman, sons of State Rep. Eugenie Chepmnn (D-Arlington Heights), and Andy and Steve Schickmnn, sons of State Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights). All of them served during the hectic days before the June 30 adjournment when continuous 12-hour sessions were the rule.

The interesting things they learned and their impressions of the legislators would fill a book, and they may. One of the head pages, Jimmy Hirsh, who is attending college in Colorado this fall, is writing a book on his experiences as a page for the Illinois legislature.

-- There are Democratic pages and Republican pages. They cross the center aisle only when directed to do so by a legislator on "their side." Party leaders in each house hire the pages.

-- Page boys are stationed at benches in front of the House and Senate. A special electrical system flashes lights at the page boy bench when a member wishes service. Pages take the assignments in order. Sometimes a page becomes so interested in the discussion on the floor that he will ask the next boy in line to take the turn so that he can stay and listen to the proceedings.

-- Some page boys are hired by the day. There are honorary pages who receive no pay but do accept tips. All do the same work.

-- Pages can be any age. One page this year was 78. Most pages are 14 to 20.

-- Pages are the lengthened arms of the legislators. They carry messages, bring in food, secure copies of bills and pick up packages and papers both within and outside the Capitol building.

Here are some facts about Arlington Height's page boys and comments on their experiences in Springfield:

ANDY SCHLICKMAN -- This has been a very big year for Andy. Before his experience as Republican page boy, he was made an Eagle Scout. At Springfield he twice disagreed with his father's stand and vote on bills before the House. "I took the matter up with him, but after Dad had given me all the background on the issues involved, I had to agree that be was right." It was Andy's first experience working directly with Negroes. Several of the page boys were Negroes. "The Negro pages were exceptionally well informed and nice fellows. One of them, Dave, was very outstanding. He would always help you. He was everybody's friend." During the last hectic week in June Andy averaged nearly 10 hours a day on the floor.

GEORGE CHAPMAN -- Attends Arlington High where he is a sophomore and a prominent member of the sophomore cross country team. George reports that "almost everyone on the Democratic side of the lower house tips the page. It is just a question of how much the tip will be. Everyone gets service regardless, but those who tip get the best service," he says candidly. George was on duty the adjournment night, June 30. He stayed on duty until morning in the House and then went over to the Senate to listen to the last minute debate there. The clock had been stopped at 11:40 p.m. the night before. About 8 in the morning some senators managed to get the clock started again only to have the chairman of the body proclaim that the official time piece was his wrist watch and according to his timepiece it was "exactly 11:39 p.m. on June 30."

STEVE SCHLICKMAN -- Steve is following his older brother on the Eagle Scout trail. The difference is that Andy has been one for some weeks and Steve is about the same number of weeks from being one. He has 19 of the 21 merit badges required, but acknowledges that the last ones are not difficult and that he will qualify by midnight December 31 when the requirements for an Eagle Scout are being upped. Steve put in one day as page that began at 11 in the morning and continued without a break until midnight. Handling telegrams, mailing letters or picking them up and getting food for the members were the major jobs he performed. "It is a great experience and I agree with those who have said being a page for a year is as important as a year in college. This would be especially true for anyone planning to go into law or teach history or government," Steve observed.

JOHN CHAPMAN -- John is a realist. He sizes up the page boy's situation like this: "You get a thrill out of some of the work. The tips can be good if you work hard. Actually, however, there is a lot of waiting at the bench and it can get a little boring, too. Another thing that pages need to keep in mind that a page can be fired. They fired one page because he had long hair and didn't keep it combed. Pages are expected to wear a tie and a coat. They maintain high standards and that's the way it should be."

ON THE DEMOCRATIC SIDE -- John (left) and George Chapman, sons of Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D-Arlington Heights). They served as page boys during the last hectic week of June and both were on the floor on the final night when the clock was stopped in order that business could be conducted "officially" after midnight on June 30.

ON THE REPUBLICAN SIDE -- Andy (left) and Steve Schlickman, sons of Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights), as they were dressed while page boys of the lower house of the General Assembly, GOP side. The identification cards give their names and state that they are official pages of the 1967 House of Representatives.

Band in Michigan Contest

Members of the Wheeling High School Marching Band will compete in the University of Michigan Band Day this Saturday.

The group will leave the high school Friday morning and will make a stop in Saline, Mich. They will be guests of students at Saline High School and will march in the half-time show at the high school football game that evening.

Saturday the band members will arrive in Ann Arbor and will participate in a three-hour rehearsal with 200 high school bands. In the afternoon they will perform in a mass band consisting of 14,000 members.

The Wheeling band, a band from Ohio and a band from a Pennsylvania school, have been selected to present an eight-minute show.

Among more than 200 persons planning to accompany the band on its trip are: Dr. Edward Gilbert, superintendent of Dist. 214, and his wife; Thomas Shirley, principal of Wheeling High School, and his wife; Frank Bohac, assistant principal in charge of administrative services, and his wife; Dean Depoy, band director, and his wife; Douglas Peterson, assistant band director, and his wife; Eric Lidh, announcer; Robert Seng, head of the division of English and fine arts at Wheeling, and Miss Charlyn Stockero, mathematics teacher

FORD OF DES PLAINES

Hoffman Estates - Young, Fast - Growing

Hoffman Estates, a relatively young but fast-growing community, maintains a bit of show business history in its municipal building. It now houses the village board meeting rooms, courtroom, clerk's office, park board, police headquarters, building commissioner's office, water department and youth commission. The building was acquired by the village in 1959.

Before that, this was the retirement home of Broadway theatrical producer Arthur Hammerstein, the uncle of lyricist Oscar Hammerstein, and the man who gave him his first job in the theater. From that beginning, Oscar went on to write the lyrics for many well-known musicals, including Oklahoma!, Carousel, Sound of Music, and South Pacific.

The Village of Hoffman Estates has grown from a township population in 1959 of less than 1,000 to the present estimated village population of 18,500. Catholic, Lutheran, Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Jewish and other faiths have established houses of worship in the village. Numerous public and parochial schools have been established. Shopping is close at hand with the Hoffman Estates shopping district and industry is being attracted by the Hoffman Estates business-industrial park.

Noises in Plumbing Hint Trouble Ahead

Lend an ear to the noises made by your plumbing and you'll save money.

You needn't be a Toscanini with perfect pitch to know when the pipes in your house are making the wrong kind of music.

Three types of noise usually will alert you to impending trouble, according to the Plumbing - Heating-Cooling Information Bureau of Chicago. Water hammer, whistling, and chattering generally indicate there's a defect or hard wear at some point along the line.

WATER HAMMER, the thump you hear when faucets are turned off abruptly, can be corrected with an air chamber, a short section of pipe, or even a special shock absorber at the right spot.

Chattering is easily detected and leads right to the loose pipe or worn faucet washer or other parts which often just need tightening.

Whistling occurs when the water speeds too rapidly through a pipe too small for the flow, often at the bends and tees in pipes. A pressure-reducing valve corrects the situation in most cases.

Single Color On Walls Monotonous

Monotony in a room decor is spelled "walls all one color."

While every room always should have a dominant color, the scheme for the sake of appearance and comfortable living requires some relief, says Norma Brown, decorator consultant to Masonite Corporation.

She has some tips:

"ONE SHOULD strike a happy medium between one color, which produces a monotonous effect, and many colors, which create confusion. The homemaker must decide on how many colors to use so that they will provide interest and still avoid chaos.

"An elementary rule is that two colors should not be used in equal areas. This means that a larger expanse may be one color and a smaller one a contrasting shade. One way to give character to the smaller area is the use of textured woodgrained paneling."

Miss Brown suggests Royalcote Alpine Oak, an off-white, woodgrained hardboard, as ideal for such an accent. While white does not count as a color in a room's decor, its presence tends to give greater unity to contrasting colors.

THE OFF-WHITE paneling has a pleasing woodgrained texture which in itself enhances a room's appearance. Important to the homemaker is the simple maintenance -- occasional wiping with a damp sponge. Common household stains yield readily to a mild detergent and water.

"Give your favorite room a change of pace by applying some basic principles of decorating," suggests the Masonite decorator consultant. For ideas, visit any public library.

Fences Create Beauty, Privacy

"Do fence me in!"

Besides adding to a yard's neatness and good looks, fences also define boundaries, create privacy and become an element of landscape or architectural designs.

Also, they can offer shade, form a wind screen, shut off an unpleasant view and make a backdrop for shrub and garden plantings.

Perimeter walls can define your property and at the same time make your land look larger and give the home and yard an integral appearance, according to John Concord, home improvement consultant to Masonite Corporation.

Sometimes a stationary screen becomes an asset. Often this is used to provide privacy, shade or a camouflage for trash cans.

ESPECIALLY suitable for fancas because of their resistance to weather, hard wear and abuse are Masonite axterior siding products. Various effects can be achieved with them because of their shapes and textures. For axample, panel style fences may be built with distinctiva hardboards having built-in hattens, e rough-sawn texture or vertical grooves. They can be used in many traditional and unusual ways to produce fences that are attractive and long-lived.

They may be woven vertically, used in cut-to-size panels placed horizontally or in harlequin style, used in a basket weave and many other ways such as creating gently rounded curves.

The Masonite consultant has some advice to home owners on fundamentals of fence construction:

"Since redwood is noted for its resistance to decay when placed in the ground, posts of this material are e wise choice. You need only paint the exposed portion. Select your posts to measure 2 to 2½ feet longer than the height of your fence."

"Decay, the natural enemy of garden fences, develops at points where the fence posts enter the ground, on surfaces where moisture can collect, or in joints between framing and hardboard panels."

MASONITE hardboerd fencas, he points out, will not check or crack, and there is no wood grain to rise and cause cracks in the paint finish. "Exact sizes of hardboard used for fencing make for easier planning, handling and greater economy with less waste materials," he adds.

Painting a fence is important, the axpert points out.

For best result, use a good grade exterior linseed oil primer as the first coat and conventional house paint for the top coats. To eliminate having to put a primer on your fence, select one of the Masonite axterior hardboards with factory-applied primer.

Check to see that all exposed edges and surfaces of the fence are painted.

Report Urges New Approach To Residential Engineering

When is a narrow, ambling street more desirable than an expanse of wide, straight roadway?

When it is intended only to provide vehicular access to home sites, says Jack Newville, author of New Engineering Concepts in Community Development, published recently by the Urban Land Institute of Washington, D. C.

In the report, which stresses that engineers today must be alert to changes in their field, Newville points out that many times the provision of wider, straighter streets in residential communities only invites more traffic and higher speeds. He suggests that, except for collector roads, the building of "micro-freeways" on residential areas is open to question.

THE PRESIDENT of Engineering Service Corporation in Los Angeles, California, the author devotes a major part of the report to the direction in which engineering practices must move if engineers are to update present practices and develop new ones. In addition to streets, some of the areas the author feels need a fresh approach are:

Plans for grading: Large boulders on the site need not always be treated as nuisances to be buried; they may be incorporated into the landscaping. Defective soils may, in some instances, be stabilized rather than relying on the traditional solution of designing special foundations.

Sewerage: A performance criteria rather than a specification type of standard would be more forward-looking, says Newville. Other possible improvements lie in the direction of pressure and vacuum systems rather than gravity systems and in the development of the closed, recirculating system.

Public utilities: The possibility of providing a common trench for all service lines, including water, electricity and telephone.

THE URBAN LAND Institute is an independent, non-profit research and educational organization founded in 1936 to improve standards of urban planning and development. Copies of the report may be ordered for $6.00 each from the Urban Land Institute, 1200 18th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Special discounts are available for quantity orders.

Look Alikes?

Should window shades throughout the house look the same from the outside?

"Yes and no", says Mary Davis Gillies, author of "The Elegant World of Window Shades." The total appearance of the house is the determining factor. In contemporary homes with windows of assorted sizes, the shades need not match. If the house is traditional and has orderly window placement, shades should be of the two-faced type, with color or pattern on the room side only, and a uniform look from the street.

TELLVIEW ESTATES
(Frontage Rd. Rolling Meadows, Ill.)

We define a home as a house that has warmth and personality in looks and design. It must be located near schools, Churches, and shopping. It must be easy to live in and afford privacy. And most important, it must be able to grow with a growing family. This is such a house.

The stimulated constructive thinking behind this design has provided a flexible plan for convenience comfort, and economy.

The central core of this "space-to-spare" home is as efficient as possible. Mechanical facilities are closely grouped, saving space and money. A maintenance-free exterior, your choice of brick or aluminum siding; a paved drive; gutters and downspouts; aluminum storm windows and doors; quality built with these exciting extras and many more. There are no "hidden costs".

Home Building Projects Demand Specific Materials

Just as mom should know the difference between "good" and "prime" beef, the home handyman should know what grade lumber he needs for a specific project.

In the long run, according to building material experts, it saves time and money and assures a more satisfactory job.

Review building plans with a lumber dealer to get the right material for the job, advises Alex B. Claney, executive vice-president of Lord and Bushnell Lumber Co., Chicago lumber products distributor.

CLANEY HAS some practical advice for weekend carpenters heading for the lumber yard who don't know the difference between construction, and utility grades. Here are some of the materials to be found at the yard and their uses:

2 x 4 Framing – Fir, spruce and hemlock are available. Kiln dried is preferable, since green wood may twist and shrink after it is in place. Specify standard and better grades for all framing purposes. Choose fir or yellow pine on wider width framing, since they hold nails better.

Beams – In great demand now for room additions and second homes, beams are available in solid sawn or laminated form. Moisture is controlled in the manufacture of laminated beams so the beams will be unaffected by heat or cold, dryness or dampness.

Decking – Spruce, cedar and fir provide a wide choice in decking for ceilings. Decking also comes solid sawn or laminated. Cedar has excellent coloring; fir is best for a longer span.

Fencing – Whether redwood or cedar are to be used treat the fence posts to resist decay.

Plywood – Fir plywood is a versatile material which can be painted. Prefinished ¼ inch plywood saves time on built-ins and other handyman projects.

Plasterboard – For kitchens and country houses a distance from fire-fighting facilities, use thicker plasterboard (½ inch or ⅝ inch) with a fire code rating. Standard ⅜ inch plasterboard is adequate, however, for most other projects.

Cement forms – The appearance of forms for cement work is not important so use utility grade or the least expensive lumber available. Most dealers have a supply of 2 x 4s and boards for cement form work.

"ALL LUMBER carries a grade stamp," Claney points out. "Be sure you check on this with your lumber dealer when selecting your material. Manufacturers apply the grade stamp by general practice and custom to simplify selection."

End Terrace Erosion

That terrace erosion problem is now easily solved with concrete planter blocks, installed in interlocking tiers, needing no mortar or footing. They're called Hold-A-Hills.

Arlington Heights United Fund Drive Gets Under Way

Official kick-off for the Arlington Heights United Fund Drive was held in front of village hall Thursday when Boy Scouts of Troop 132 raised the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy Flag. Participating were (from left): Scott Wolfmeyer, Mayor John G. Woods, Jim Dunlap, Senior Patrol Leader Guy Spinks, Chairman James Mason, Kelly Prenslow, Lt. Jack Aldrich, Stan Dederich, Executive Manager of the Chamber of Commerce Harold Bell, and Steve Schaefer.

The Arlington Heights United Fund Drive received en official kickoff Thursday morning, complete with a check presentation, flag raising, bugles and a mayor's proclamation.

Chairman of this year's fund raising drive, James Mason, 902 S. Arlington Heights Rd., received the first donation from John G. Woods, village president.

The Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy flag was raised along with the American Flag in front of village hall by members of Boy Scout Troop 132 under the direction of Guy Spinks, senior patrol leader.

MASON SAID the village goal of $50,000 is "the most ambitious we have ever attempted."

"The Arlington Heights United Fund drive has a reputation of being one of the most successful in the entire Chicago area," Mason said.

"This certainly is a wonderful testimonial to the support the drive has received from citizens of this community, Increasing agency needs of course are the reason for the increased goal. To reach our goal we will need more support from old friends and certainly consideration from firms and individuals who have not heretofore made any kind of contribution," he said.

"IF EVERYONE will consider one per cent of their income or one day's pay as a contribution, I'm confident we'll make our goal," said Mason.

Woods issued a proclamation declaring Oct. 23 as "United Fund Contribution Day in Arlington Heights."

"I urge the citizens to participate in the occasion in giving generously to these most worthwhile charitable organizations," Woods said.

The village United Fund is part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy. The appeal is an attempt to consolidate donations to major charitable organizations through one contribution.

James Mason, (left), of 902 S. Arlington Heights Rd., chairman of the United Fund Drive, accepts the first donation in the villege from John G. Woods, village president. As a step toward the $50,000 goal set for the village. The drive is part of the Metropolitan Crusade of Mercy to combine contributions to charitable organizations.

Study Use of Motor Fuel Tax To Maintain Parking Lots

By Charles Mouratides

Motor fuel tax funds may help solve one of Arlington Heights' most acute problems in the central business district – parking spaces.

Gov. Otto Kerner Sept. 1 signed a bill allowing municipalities to use MFT funds handed out by the state to construct and maintain off-street parking facilities.

The villega's problem is twofold: Parking for residents commuting on the Chicago & Northwestern Ry. and parking for shoppers.

DESPITE the raise of fees for metered parking in the commuter lots here, their occupancy has maintained an all-time high, according to Village Trustee John J. Walsh Jr., chairman of the village board's finance committee.

In e strictly confidential report recently prepared by the village consulting engineers on refinancing of parking lots here, it has been made clear that commuter lots are approaching their capacity limit, Walsh said.

He also pointed out that in lots where metered parking increased from 25 to 50 cents a day, the occupancy remains 90 to 92 per cent.

The increase in fees was the point of controversy about a year ago. Its opponents claimed the raise would ruin the income of the municipal parking lots.

The other commuter lots, where parking costs 25 cents a day, average an 83 per cent occupancy.

THE DIFFERENCE between the 25- and 50-cent lots is their distance from the railroad station.

But, Walsh said, in one or two years the present space will not be enough to accommodate the commuter crowd.

An important factor is the use of the same parking lots by commuters from neighboring communities. The village cannot legally prohibit them from parking their cars here.

Revanua from metered parking is not enough to pay the bonds issued to construct and maintain those parking lots, Walsh said.

Thus the village, in constructing future lots, must find a method to decrease its initial investment.

THE VILLAGE is also facing a problem in providing parking facilities for shoppers in the downtown district and some funds will aventually have to be spend for that purpose, too.

Walsh said that it would be desirable to provide free parking for the shoppers.

Since thet kind of parking will not produce any revenue, the village and, perhaps, the business community would have to foot the bill.

Village President John G. Woods will inquire on the limitations of the new motor fuel tax law when he goes to Springfield this weekend.

Information received by The Day through Rep. Eugenia Chapman (D - Arlington Heights) shows that the State Highway Division is not yet certain of the limitations of the law.

THE OFFICE of the chief engineer of the State Highway Division in Springfield said the law is now in the hands of the Illinois Attorney General, William Clark.

The highway division believes that money made available through this law may be used for the construction and maintenance of parking lots but not garages or covered parking.

It appears that the attorney general will have the final saying in the interpretation of the law.

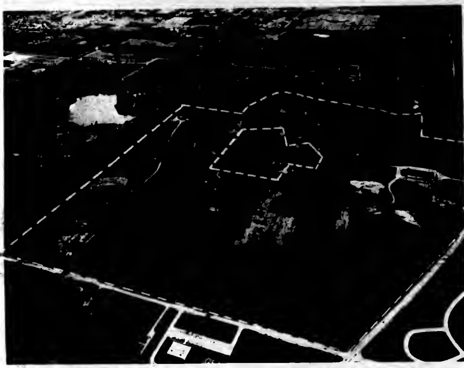
The new law does not place any restriction on the amount of MFT funds that may be used for parking purposes. But, Chapman, said, it does not increase the total amount of tax funds alloted to municipalities.

THE TOTAL amount is determined by the population of eech municipality. Arlington Heights' share recently increased by about $78,000 to almost $350,000 because of a population increase shown by the recent census.

Of course, other projects related to streets and highway safety draw MFT funds.

An inventory of parking spaces in Arlington Heights prepared last March showed there are 2,005 spaces in the village.

Private off - street parking accounts for 1,088 spaces. Free public off - street metered parking accounts for 132 end metered off-street parking for 325 spaces. The rest is on-street parking.



The 200-acre campus of William Rainey Harper College (the larger outlined area in this aerial view) at the intersection of Roselle (bottom of photo) and Algonquin Rds. (right) is pasture now but will soon be the scene of considerable activity. Groundbreaking for the initial construction phase of Harper's campus is now scheduled for Oct. 8. The buildings included in phase one will occupy the area indicated by the smaller dotted outline. Data processing equipment and classes are located in the former Tri-Color Farms building at right.

Officials Prefer 2-Year University Here

The support of both the Committee on University Location and Harper College regarding construction of a state university in the northwest suburban area is presently contingent upon its being an upper division institution.

Edward Gilbert, chairman of the local committee and superintendent of High School Dist. 214, said e senior college offering opper level curriculums would mesh most effectively with the programs of Harper College and other junior colleges in the Chicago area.

Robert E. Lahti, Harper College President, ettended the committee's meeting held Wednesday. Gilbert announced that Lyman Glenny, staff director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, will meet with the committee and the Northwest Municipal Conference in the Arlington Heights Village Hall on Sept. 27.

The recent Illinois General Assembly approved $3 million for use to purchase sites for two state universities. One of these is plannad for construction near Springfield. The other is planned for the Chicago suburban area.

TO DATE the IBHE has not determined whether the proposed university will-be e conventional four-year institution or a senior institution. A specific location will probably be determined partly on the basis of the type of institution decided upon, said Gilbert.

An IBHE subcommittee is presantly investigating the type of institution which would best serve the Chicago area needs.

It may hold open hearings regarding the location of the university, a departure from its usual procedures. The subcommittea was orginally expected to make its recommendation on the type of institution to be built by Nov. 15 but the date may be extended to December.

Lahti said he did not support the construction of a four-year university in the aree et the present time. Harper College, which opened classes at Elk Grove High School this month, will be beginning construction of its campus in October.

ITS CURRICULUM is designed to provide academic courses for students planning to transfer to upper level university programs and two-year career programs leading to associate degrees.

Of the funds supporting the development of Harper, 75 per cent come from the state and 25 per cent from iocal revenne. Local revanue accounts for 50 per cent of the college's operating funds.

A state university would be totally supported by stete funds.

Lahti said it would be repetitious for taxpayers to assume the burden of e four-year institution at this time, when e two-year institution is in its initial stages already.

"AT SOME future time, a four-year university may be needed in this area," he said, "but a senior institution would be most beneficial to this area at present because of the tremendous growth of the junior college districts in the Chicago suburban area in the past two years."

The two-year upper level institution, operated as a commuter facility, would provide junior college graduates with the opportunity to extend their studies locally, he said.

Lahit and Gilbert both indicated they might withdraw their support of e university location in the area at this time if the IBHE decides on construction of a four-year university.

Court Dismisses Suit Against Day

A libel suit against Day Publications by the Melrose Park Electric Co. of Melrose Park has been dismissed in Circuit Court by Judge Ben Schwartz.

The suit grew out of a story in the Arlington Day reporting on e meeting of the Arlington Heights Library Board in which Melrose was described in terms which the company charged injured "its good name and reputation."

The reference to the company was made by Robert S. Nichol of the architectural firm of Nichol & Nichol in explaining to the board why an electrical contractor other than Melrose was favored by the general contractor.

IN ADDITION to The Day, its editor, John Stanton, and managing editor, William J. Kiedaisch, the suit named Nichol and the architectural firm.

Melrose sought $25,000 from each of the defendants and additionel "exemplary damages" of $50,000.

In dismissing the suit egainst The Day, Judge Schwartz ruled thet the paper's story was "an accurate report of a meeting of e public body."

The dismissal did not include the case against Nichol which is still to be decided.

COMMENTING on the outcome of the suit, Day editor Stanton said, "In his ruling Judge Schwartz has upheld the right of a free press to provide the public with information to which it is entitled and which affects its welfare. The Day cherishes this right and strives to exercise it in the best interest of this community."

The Day was represented in the case by Attorney Robert F. Hanley of the law firm of Isham, Lincoln & Beale.

This is the floor plan for the new-type Rand Junior High School to be built in Arlington Heights by Dist. 25 for use in September, 1969. The classrooms are concentrated in five clusters at the top. There will be clusters for science, math and language arts and social sciences. The learning center will provide for library, closed circuit TV and other services. In the lower wing is located the auditorium-gym, cafeteria, administrative offices and conventional classrooms for vocational teaching art and music.

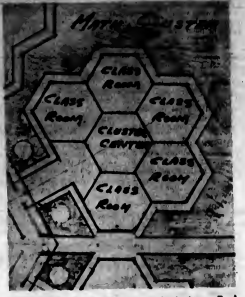
Teachers' Important Role in New-Type School Bldg.

The experienced teachers of the Dist. 25 school system have had an important role in the development of the new-type school to be erected in the north section of the village and be known as the Rand Junior School. The Rand school is to be ready for use in the fall of 1969.

Directing the planning work of the staff teachers has been Assistant Superintendent Robert Campbell who began meeting with a special school planning committee more than a year ago. The committee has met monthly or more frequently ever since. The group has visited other schools in the area.

The school will be erected in two phases. The first phase to be completed for use in the fall of 1969 will accommodate 540 students. Three of the five classroom clusters are expected to be built in phase one. When phase two of the building program has been completed, the Rand Junior High School will serve 900 students.

The new building has been designed to provide for continued refinement and development of the educational program currently in use in the school system. The organization of the new building implements the underlying philosophy that each child of the junior high school age benefits from having a limited number of teachers and a homeroom class group with whom he spends most of his time. The building arrangement will emphasize the further development of individualized instruction programs for students and cooperative planning by teachers.



This is a closeup of the Math Cluster plan in the new Rand Junior High. There are five classrooms arranged around the cluster center where services important to class activities of the cluster will be located. This will provide a specialized area where the teaching of all math will be concentrated to the advantage of teachers and students.

ABOVE -- These are some of the staff members of Dist. 25 who had key roles in developing the new style Rand Junior High School building. Robert Campbell (left), assistant superintendent, has participated in the planning and development of new buildings of the district for 10 years. South Junior High Principal A. Tadd Fasty (standing) has represented the principal's point of view in the design of the new building. Joy Liken and Edward Timm, physical education and science teachers of Dist. 25 respectively, have served on the teachers' committee for the new building which has been meeting for more than a year.

Facing Inflation

DR. PAUL L. STUMPF

Everything is going up in price. They tell us if we aren't careful, we will have inflation. That's a laugh! We wonder what it is we have now. Of course, there are degrees of inflation such as street sweepers sweeping up money in the streets of Tokyo after the war and not bothering to pick it up but, compared to what we have known, we certainly have a lesser degree of inflation here and now. There is no one who has not felt this as he purchased produce, real estate, cars, lumber, stocks and lots of other things.

We are giving much time and worry to the high cost of living and to the way prices of every-day necessities have skyrocketed within the past several years. We are fearful of our savings, our insurance, and other things we have stored by for a rainy day. It is time, as Paul reminds us, and of which we are frequently reminded throughout God's Word, that we also must take stock of those things which are ours which inflation has not and cannot effect. Look about you in God's world. The sun is shining, the rain is falling. The earth is still pouring forth its bounty and revealing its beauty.

THE RECORD OF HEROIC and noble souls in all ages of the world's history is still here to bless and inspire us. The treasures of literature, of music, and of art are not costing a cent more. Like the lovely flowers blooming every summer in our gardens, we have paid little heed to them in days of lament over inflation. But they are still here and the price has not risen a cent.

Moreover, sympathy and love have not been inflated. These are bonds in our safety deposit box of life which many of us have overlooked. And the faith of our fathers, the hope and trust in which we stand, have not risen in cost one iota, but they are paying larger returns than ever to all who will invest in them. We have been troubled and anxious because a small portion of our possessions has shrunken in value and all the time we are overlooking far greater riches.

Years ago an old Indian staggered across the threshold of the Indian agent's office in one of the Dakotas and fell dead. They knew the old man. He had come to the agency regularly for years for the small dole of food the agency provided, living most of the time in abject destitution. The agency doctor examined him and stated he had died of hunger and exhaustion. The physician found a cord around his neck to which was fastened a small leather bag. In that bag was a paper, an order, issued thirty years before by the War Department in Washington, directing that $50.00 a month for the rest of his life should be paid to the Indian for his service as a Scout. He did not know its value and after years of rags and hunger had died of want.

ARE THERE NOT IN THE POSSESSION of all of us vast unclaimed riches of God's grace? Paul said in the 8th Chapter of Romans, "If children, then heirs; heirs of God and joint-heirs of Christ." We have been bemoaning the fact that rising prices are making us poor and all the time forgetting that we are heirs; heirs of God and joint-heirs of Christ." We have been bemoaning the fact that rising prices are making us poor and all the time forgetting that we are heirs of a great estate.

The writer of the book of Hebrews reminds us that we are heirs of the promises of God. Here is a mine of wealth in our possession which we have, most of us, never developed. In one of my mother's Bibles were markings which she made to remind herself of the promises. She literally leaned on these promises in the last years of her life when she was an invalid. Why don't we all?

Remember how we used to sing:

"Standing on the promises of Christ my King,
Through eternal ages let His praises ring;
Glory in the highest, I will shout and sing.
Standing on the promises of God."

We know what it means in other spheres to lean on a promise. There is an old women whose son has promised that he will love and care for her. She does not worry from day to day. She knows that if trouble comes, she can call upon him. She leans on his promise. Here is a man who has worked for the government or for a responsible company all his life and has been provided with a good retirement plan. He feels he is secure for he is leaning on the promises of his former employer.

LIFE FOR THE MOST PART is leaning on promises, the promises of our parents in childhood, the promises of those we trust in our mature years. How much of the anxiety and concern for ourselves and our dependents would be avoided if we could only lean on the promises of God as confidently as we do upon the promises of our friends.

Look for a moment at some of the promises of God's Word. "All things work together for good to them that love God." Can you cite a single instance in your experience where that promise has not been fulfilled? "Lo, I am with you always." Christ Himself, as He was going away, made that promise. Do you know of any time in your life when it has not been kept.

AGAIN, AS WE FACE INFLATION, let us remember that we are told that we are the heirs of salvation. Salvation is deliverance from the evil within and around us. It is the guarantee of the favor and the forgiveness of God.

Salvation is not something that can be earned, and we cannot buy it. It is the free gift of God. It is a part the Inheritance which comes to us as children of God.

May all of these things be yours in these days of mounting prices and may you possess your possessions as you face the inflation of these days.

Slate Pastors Institute

"Sex Education in the Parish" and "Sex, Youth and Illegitimacy" will be discussed in an Institute for Pastors sponsored by Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois as part of its Centennial observance.

The inaugural Institute will begin at 10 a.m. Monday, Sept. 25, at the Edison Park Home, 1800 Canfield Rd. in Park Ridge

James Merrill, a social work consultant on the Martinson study of "Sex Attitudes of Minnesota Youth", will deal with concepts of human sexuality and what youth wants to know as it relates to sex, dating behavior, and anatomy. Merrill, director for the division of child welfare of Lutheran Social Service of Minn., will submit on behalf of youth, that they need not be contradictorial about their concern for a moral system which to them does not square either with its source or the world around.

THE REV. Harlan Norem, a professor at Augustana Academy, Canton, South Dakota and author of a new high school course on sex, will speak on "Sex Education in the Parish."

The institute will conclude with a banquet and speaker at the Edison Park Lutheran Church, 6626 No. Oliphant Ave., Chicago, a short distance from the Edison Park Home.

Lutheran Welfare Services of Illinois is an agency of the Illinois Synod of the Lutheran Church in America and the Illinois District of The American Lutheran Church.

Dr. Paul Louis Stumpf is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Arlington Heights. He graduated from Wheaton College in 1927, and his graduate work at Princeton Seminary. Dr. Stumpf and wife Winifred have a married daughter, Mrs. Robert Wellman, and two grandchildren, Paul, 4, and Jennifer, 4-months.

New Assistant at Southminster

The Rev. Roger A. Bockenhauer will begin his work as assistant minister at the Southminster United Presbyterian Church this Sunday. Dr. W. T. Jones, pastor, said that the rapid growth in the membership of the church and the completion of a large Christian education unit this summer had made this addition to the church's ministerial staff necessary.

The Rev. Mr. Bockenhauer is a native of Waterman, Ill., and was educated at Monmouth College and Union Theological Seminary in New York City, from which he graduated with the Bachelor of Divinity degree in 1964. During his seminary days his field work included the supervision of youth work in Dobbs Ferry and Queens, N. Y. He spent one summer assisting in an inner-city church, the Waldensian Presbyterian Church, Chicago and another summer in a clinical training program at Boston State Hospital.

FOR THE PAST three years, the Rev. Mr. Bockenhauer has been pastor of the Willow Springs, Ill. Presbyterian Church as well as sharing in a cooperative parish team-ministry with responsibility for the christian education program in five churches.

The Rev. Mr. Bockenhauer's responsibilities at Southminster Church will include the administration of the church's over-all christian education program assisted by Mrs. E. M. Mommsen. Mrs. Mommsen, who has been on Southminster's staff for five years, will now be in charge of all children's activities up through sixth grade. The new assistant minister will administer the church's youth and adult education programs, and assist the local church in fulfilling its community and metropolitan mission.

The Rev. Roger Bockenhauer, his wife Jean, and 3-year-old son, Mark are moving into their new home in the Stanton Arms Apts., 608 W. Central this week.

DEDICATION of the recently completed Christian Education building of the Southminster United Presbyterian Church will take place at both morning services Sunday.

The new building, which has been under construction for the past 15 months contains 18 classrooms on three levels and four offices providing adequate space for the church's staff.

The Southminster Church has experienced rapid growth both in membership and in the expansion of its program during the six years since the initial meetings of the new congregation were held in the fall of 1961. From an original group of 80 people its membership has now grown to almost 1000, and its Sunday school enrollment from 50 to 500. The church's sanctuary was completed three years ago.

ARCHITECTS for the new building were Walter A. Kroeber, Arlington Heights, and Edward Ekstrom of Barrington was the general contractor. A parking lot which accommodates two hundred cars was completed this summer. Milburn Bros., Mount Prospect were the contractors.

Included in the new program are high school youth of the Lutheran Church of The Cross, Congregational United Church of Christ, Saint Simon's Episcopal, and Southminster Presbyterian. Youth working on preliminary arrangements have been Dave Abt, Camille Curry; Joan Dickinson, June Dunaway; Pam Johnson, Susan Koch, Mark MacRae, Ken Malcolmson, Betsy McCollum, Rick Peiland, Steve Rypkema, Nancy Vanek, Michelle Wilcox.

YOUTH advisors are Mrs. and Mrs. Angelo Campagna; Mrs. and Mrs. Richard Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Richard L. Freeman, Harry McCollum; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slater; Robert E. Vanek, Mr. and Mrs. Kirke White and Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wilcher.

Music by "The Night Shift," a local rock and roll group will be provided for the social hour. The program will begin with sandwiches and refreshments, followed by brief talk by the Rev. Don Hellberg, assistant pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Des Plaines. The group will then divide according to high school classes for a briefing.

Hold Bible Study Classes

The woman's discussion group of the Lutheran Church of the Cross, 2025 S. Goebbert Rd., Arlington Heights, meets every Thursday morning from 9:30 to 11 a.m.

The class was formed to give women of the church an opportunity to study their faith, the Bible, and faith in life. Last semester the group discussed the book, "The Mighty Acts of God," a survey of the Bible and its message for man.

"Jesus of Nazareth, Son of Man, Son of God," is the course for the first semester and women will study the formation and message of the New Testament. During the second semester course, "Paul's Gospel," women will be studying the Book of Romans, its meaning and message.

WHERE IS THE SUPERNATURAL?
Churches these days seem to be having "identity problems just as many individuals are. Some churches see themselves as social agencies; others as political pressure groups; some as religious country clubs; still others as guardians of tradition. All of this is understandable if "God is dead". But He isn't! Some churches not only believes He lives, but see His supernatural power at work in individual lives today. How does your church "identify"?

Dialogue

...with George Hamilton

"Mr. Staley (John Staley, acting superintendent of the Illinois Department of Agriculture, Division of Feeds, Fertilizers and Standards) we have been checking the produce stands in the Chicago area and have found that most of them don't have their counter scales inspected yearly as required by law."

"That's right, our men have regular routes that they cover and most of those places (the produce stands) are closed when they stop."

"Well, we've talked to the owners of some of the stands and they say they are open from June through October and feel it is the state's responsibility to stop by, test their counter scales and certify that they are accurate. Some say no one has ever stopped."

"WE ARE THE first to admit it, I'm sorry to say. But it is true that there are probably many produce stands that have never been checked by our department. One reason is that the cost of bringing enough help to to cover the greater Chicago area would be prohibitive."

"I asked Miss DiVito of your Chicago office this, do you think the inspection fee of 50 cents a scale is adequate? Would raising the fee make it possible to hire more help and cover the area more thoroughly?"

"Our department was never intended to be a money-making one. The fees lack by a long way of paying our costs."

"WHAT CAN be done about this situation then, how do we go about getting the scales tested in all places of business?"

"We will handle all complaints."

"Who do we address them to?"

"To myself, John Staley, Acting Superintendant, Department of Agriculture, Division of Feeds, Fertilizers and Standards, 531 E. Sangamon Ave., Springfield, Ill."

"What will happen then?"

"WE WILL SEND one of our men out to check the scales in questions."

"Can a store owner contact you?"

"Yes he can."

"We are interested in following up on this. Could your department let us know when you are ready to inspect the stores that we tell you about in our area?"

"Yes, we'd be glad to."

"Thank you, we'll look forward to hearing from you."

To Address 4-H Banquet

PAUL C. JOHNSON

Mount Prospect resident Paul C. Johnson, vice president and editorial director of the Prairie Farmer, will be guest speaker at the North Cook County 4-H Club Leader Recognition Banquet to be held the evening of Oct. 3 at the Old Orchard Country Club.

Johnson is past president of the American Agricultural Editors Assn. and has served as chairman of the board of the Farm Foundation.

The 1967 4-H leader recognition banquet is being sponsored in co-operation with 27 different business, industry and civic groups in north suburban Cook County.

The banquet is the major event during National 4-H Club Week observed Sept. 30 through Oct. 7.

Marlyn Heyen, Cook County associate extension adviser, said approximately 250 local 4-H club leaders and junior leaders, special guests and sponsor representatives are expected to attend the banquet.

The Big Count-Up Is Pacing History

BY WARD CANNEL

"It is only 33 years away and countless millions now living wonder what life will be like in the year 2000..."

So begins another one of these relentless magazine reports on what lies in store for Opening Day of the third millennium.

Whether countless millions wonder about it we do not know. But you cannot turn around nowadays without bumping into countless experts with predictions on the subject.

Last week alone we bumped into predictions from Chicago and Harvard Universities, the Hudson Institute, Margaret Mead, and something called The Commission on the Year 2000.

What they said will not be reported here. We never read tracts of that nature as there is no profit in it.

To our way of thinking, life in the year 2000 will be almost exactly like life in the year 1999, which in turn will be just about like the year 1998--and so forth backward (or so back forward) to the year 1967.

But, of course, it does no good to point this out.

THERE IS apparently some sort of magic in counting to 2000 - no matter how meaningless the number - that it rates a commission.

In fact, there seems to be a special magic in counting to any number at all in the present civilization. You have only to look around, and there is somebody counting something.

This year, for example, people are counting the number of minutes their cigarettes last.

Last year they were counting the number of hours of protection in one application of deodorant.

The year before, they were counting the number of shaves in a razor blade.

Obviously, there also had to be somebody to count to GI. 70, AT 7, Phase III, the Fifth French Republic, and Frank Sinatra II.

WELL, WE must confess that all this counting makes us rather nervous. And it probably does the same thing to countless millions if they stop to think about it.

What would have happened to the course of American destiny, for example, if Paul Revere had stopped outside Old North Church to time his cigarette?

Where would the ideal of independence be today if George Washington had tarried at Trenton trying to shave once more with his old blade?

Is it possible that Czarist Russia was overthrown because Nicholas tried to eke an extra day out of his deodorant pad?

LAST WEEK there was a dispatch from the FBI announcing that crime in the United States had increased by 43 per cent while the population had increased by only 6 per cent.

Does that mean that a 6 per cent crime rise would have been all right? Because if it is so, then by our calculation it can mean only one thing, namely that every time somebody is born, somebody else turns to crime.

WELL, WE could go on with a long list documenting our concern over this national pastime of counting up.

Why, for example, doesn't the National Safety Council make predictions for nonholiday weekend accidents? Why do the heroes in serious novels always ask themselves: "What does my life add up to?"

Suffice it to say, we are concerned. Concerned and worried. And most especially when we read the daily dispatches from Vietnam.

Being neither hawk nor dove, like countless millions, we would like to know why the Defense Department reveals the Viet Cong casualty figures without revealing the Viet Cong birth rate.

Autumnal Exercise

By Catherine O'Donnell

It's less than a month away and there still is time to get out your low-heeled walking shoes, pay two dollars for a ticket, polish your contacts and start a sentimental journey. The occasion is the Panorama of Arlington Heights Homes sponsored by the Women's Club for the benefit of the Historical Society. The date is Oct. 12 and seven of the most fascinating homes in the city will be opened. Tickets for the event may be obtained from the following area chairmen, Mrs. J. John Langhout, 392-3772, Mrs. Charles Tully, Jr., 439-2619, Mrs. Fred Jasper, Cl 3-7342, Mrs. Carlton Albright, 259-4679, Mrs. Elmer Zilen, Cl 3-8773, Mrs. Oliver Davenport Cl 3-8707, Mrs. M. L. Kurtz Cl 3-2851 and Mrs. Wendell Prunty, Cl 3-5725. Co-chairmen for the walk are Mrs. Z. R. Rogozinski and Mrs. John Shubeck. President of the Women's Club is Mrs. Stephen Jurco.

THE ABC OF IT

Eloise Psota, one of our more imaginative citizens came up with a great suggestion for the Arlington Beautification Committee. She thinks that one thing the town of Arlington Heights needs is convenient trash cans. She points to Lake Geneva as an example of just how attractive a utilitarian object like that can be. The trash cans for pulbic use in that city have all been painted with flowers and scenes by the local artists. They certainly could be used in downtown Arlington.

NEVER GIVE UP

It was somewhat of a jolt to find a sign lettered in ink on the bulletin board of the Arlington Market Jewel stating that the undersigned had a couple of tickets to a White Sox game to sell. It was a relief to call 16-year-old Dick Hetke, of N. Hickory and discover that he was only selling the tickets because he just could not get to the game. To all of the worried fans who might think Arlington High School student Dick was giving up, he is still a devoted Sox follower. Incidentally all the tickets he had are gone, so don't call him.

WELCOME BACK

One of Day by Day's favorite teenagers, Jay Needleman was in Northwest Community Hospital and out before the teen guitars tapped out the news. Jay is feeling fine and is back at Prospect High School. Jay is the son of the Everett Needlemans of S. Gibbons.

WHERE IS IT?

When the Arlington Heights Park Dist. asked for money through a referendum to put a pool near the Greenbrier section of the city, there were those in the Hasbrook area who did not like the idea of the children having to cross impossible Palatine Rd. at Kennicott to get to the park. Now that School Dist. 25 has decreed that the children from Greenbrier will not be bused to their school on the other side of impossible Palatine Rd., there are those who do not like the idea of their children crossing the road. Meanwhile, the traffic light which was promised for January, February, June and July plus a few other months still is not there. The same weary residents are still growing more weary waiting early in the morning to get on to Palatine.

Grim Warning On Use of Drugs

The "flower children" are playing with thorns.

One of the favorite arguments of the hippie set is that marijuana is not a harmful drug, or certainly less harmful than tobacco or alcohol.

Now comes Dr. Constandinos J. Miras, a pharmacologist from the University of Athens, to claim that chronic users of marijuana -- those who have smoked at least two cigarettes a day for at least two years -- run the danger of adverse personality changes and damage to the brain and other organs.

The personality changes he has noted in 20 years of observation of marijuana users in Greece include slower speech, lethargy and lowered inhibitions. But users may also become suddenly violent without apparent provocation, he says.

The doctor's findings will not likely be received with much credence in Psychedelphia, whose inhabitants make a point of tuning out on what goes on in the square world, anyway.

But much graver suspicions concerning the long - range effects of LSD have begun to appear in medical literature. By long range is meant more than one generation.

In a recent conference held under the auspices of The National Foundation-March of Dimes, nine medical scientists reported that LSD definitely damages human chromosomes, the heritary material found in all cells of the body.

Chromosome damage is often associated with birth defects as well as cancer and may play a role in aging. Not only LSD but numerous other things -- including radiation, some viruses and possibly certain tranquilizers -- can break chromosones.

Although LSD has directly damaged laboratory animals born of mothers who were given LSD at a crucial time in pregnancy, studies of human babies whose mothers took LSD during pregnancy have so far revealed no birth defects.

However, some of the babies do have excessive numbers of broken chromosomes in their blood, which raises the possibility, say the experts, that the children of these babies might be born defective.

The scientists issued a general warning: In the face of our relative ignorance of how drugs and other chemicals affect the body, "no one should take any medication not absolutely necessary to preserve health or control disease." This is especially true of men and women in their reproductive years.

Unfortunately, the flower children seem preoccupied with gathering their psychedelic rosebuds. While they may.

DOCTOR SAYS

Physical Conditioning Not a Sometime Thing

W. G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

With the end of the football season approaching, thousands of young players will be released from the rigors of training. Too sudden a cessation of a program of vigorous exercise is just as bad as participating in such exercise without a gradual buildup.

The latter may injure the muscles and joints, the former will cause the heart muscle to become flabby.

Another result of an abrupt cessation of training is that the boy who has become accustomed to a diet that is high in calories is likely to eat more than his reduced activity demands. He will thereby accumulate unwanted fat that may be hard to get rid of.

All professional athletes know that a program of physical conditioning must be maintained year-round, regardless of how seasonal their chosen sport may be. Such a program makes for a high level of performance and helps to protect the body from injury.

If your boy is athletically inclined he would be well-advised to switch to basketball at the end of the football season and with the approach of spring to go out for baseball. He need not be expert at all three but he does need a fitness program that will hold his interest. Physical fitness should be a way of life.

Q -- My grandson, 7, has osteogenesis imperfecta and the doctor says that nothing can be done for it. What caused it and is there any cure?

A -- In this disease, the bones are fragile and break very easily. The whites of the victim's eyes are usually blue and a progressive loss of hearing may be associated with it. The condition is hereditary. The degree of severity of the bony weakness varies. Some victims become helpless cripples and others can live a fairly normal life by using extra precautions against injury. The bones often become stronger as the child grows.

Although there is no medical treatment for this disease, Dr. Robert W. Bailey of the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor has been able to reinforce the femur of these patients with a self-adjusting telescoped metal rod which increases in length as the child grows.

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL FOLEY (Community Camera)

Linda Johnson, August Bride

Baskets of white chrysanthemums beautified the altar of Our Lady of the Wayside Church in Arlington Heights for the Aug. 19 wedding of Linda Ann Johnson and Michael F. Foley. The Rev. Edmund Schreiber officiated at the 12:30 p.m. double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Johnson of Arlington Heights, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Foley of Waban, Mass.

Given away by her father, the bride wore an antique ivory princess style gown of silk peau de soie, with alencon lace and seed pearls bordering the cap sleeves, neckline and skirt. Her crown of lace and pearls was worn with a long cathedral-length veil which was worn by the groom's mother. She carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids and ivy.

THE MAID of honor, Susan Johnson of Arlington Heights, wore a lime green crepe dress with a cowl collar and short sleeves, styled with an empire waist and A-line skirt. A small tailored bow with a floor-length veil matched her gown, and she carried purple asters and ivy.

The attendants, dressed in gowns matching the maid of honor, were Gail Jowitt, a college roommate of Madison, N. J., and Patricia and Rita Foley, sisters of the groom.

A gold, silk A-line sheath with matching coat was selected by the bride's mother. She wore a gardenia corsage. The groom's mother chose a white silk coat and print dress, and wore cymbidium orchids.

The best man was Charles Bardelis of Cape Cod, Mass. Ushers were John O' Brien of Brockton, Mass., and Jeffrey Pochop of Glenview.

AFTER cocktails and luncheon for 125 guests at the Horseshoe Club in Arlington Heights, the couple left for a honeymoon in Bermuda. They will make their home in Newport, R. I.

The bride graduated from Arlington High School and Smith College and is now employed as a sixth grade teacher at Browne and Nichols School in Cambridge, Mass. The groom is a graduate of Browne and Nichols School and Harvard University. He is now a Lieut. j.g. in the U. S. Navy, serving as an instructor in the Officers Candidate school in Newport, R. I.

Alive and Vibrant The Way to Look

Kenneth comes to Chicago Sept. 27 and 28 at Carson's downtown store.

You've read about him, heard about him and now you'll be able to see him in person. Kenneth Battelle, known as "Kenneth" and famous as a hairsylist, will be at Carson Pirie Scott & Co.'s dowtown auditorium next week to introduce his new make-up line.

He will be in the auditorium Wednesday, Sept. 28 at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. An admission fee of $10 includes $10 worth on one's choice of Kenneth's cosmetics along with a complimentary personalized make-up analysis. He will discuss beauty trends, demonstrate his make-up and answer questions.

Kenneth has very defintie opinions concerning make-up. He believes in a "realistic look to make-up. Faces should glow with a porcelain-like sheen, a youthful finish, flattering to young and mature faces. Todays's woman is alive and vibrant and she want to look that way."

HE BEGAN his hair styling career by accident. After leaving the navy he attended Syracuse University until his family experienced some financial difficulties. In order to help at home he needed a trade he could learn quickly. He choose the beauty field and began his career in 1945 in Syracuse, N.Y.

Kenneth worked in Syracuse for four years and spent one year in Fla. He began work in New York in 1950. In 1956 he went to Lily Dache Salon as style director. He received the Coty Fashion Critics award in 1961, the first time the award had been presented to a hairstylist.

IN 1963 he opened his own luxurious salon in a 5-story Edwardian mansion on East 54th St. in New York. Kenneth's philosophy on hairstyling is "styles of hair go through evolution, not revolution. I believe a simple cut is most important. If it's good, the line of the hair stays in long after the client leaves the hair stylist."

One advance make-up tip form Kenneth: "Never use black on the eye brow. It draws attention to the brow itself and distracts from the eye."

Old Iron Kettle Is Prize

Cards, Knights Clash Tonight

Arlington and Prospect will lunga at each other's throats again tomorrow night in tha traditional football rivalry between the schools.

At stake will be the Old Iron Kattla, presented annually to the winner by the Day.

Kickoff time will be 8 p.m. aftar a 6 p.m. jayvaaa preliminary.

The Old Iron Kattia presently rests in the Cardinal trophy case, put there by e 48-6 Arlington win last year.

The meeting will be the first Mid-Suburban League contest for each school as well. Arlington swept undefeated to a league championship last season. The Cards will try to maka it two crowas in as many as a member of the conference. Prospect finished dead last with an 0-4 record last year.

"Basically, we'ra in top physical shape for the game," said Arlington Coach Bob Walther. Only Tim Shannon will be out."

Shannon took a hard rap to the head this week and is taking it easy for a week. "The main things we've been trying to improve are our defensive end play and our deep pass defense," Walther said. "Barrington ran us to death around end in the first half last week and we can expect Prospect to try it too."

Walther also registered his raspact for tha arm of Prospect quartarback Mika Gaffney.

"Prospect looks lika they could have a potent aerial attack," ha said. "It's just a matter of giving the quarterback time."

The Knights had trouble with their offensiva line against North Chicago last week, a major reason for their 20-0 loss.

"I hope we can give them the same," Walther said. If North Chicago can do it, so can we."

Prospect spent Thursday night practicing under tha lights of Arlington's athletic field.

"Thasa kids hava never playad under lighta," said Williams. "They had a lot of problems adjusting at first, but i think we have them all ironed out."

Tha Knights also ara healthy, healthier than last week, following the return of 175-pound fullback Gary Cobe. A sprained ankle suffered in practice has kept Cobe out of the lineup thus far.

"He's back, but he's not yet going at full speed," said Williams. "Ha won't start, but ha'll get in."

Cobe also will handle place kicking chores. Ha earned a starting spot at fullback in tha second game of last season.

Williams has a lot of respect for Arlington.

"I think they've got a real good ball club," ha said. "We're not taking them lightly at all. They certainly have the personnel."

Butch Leonard, a 6-2, 188-pounder has recovered from an injury and will play tackle on the offensiva line.

In the backfiald, Todd Somers will open at quartarback. Dannis Maachum and Daan Schmelzar will ba at tha halves with captain Tom Chandler at fullback.

Area Harrier Face A Busy Weekend

The Arlington, Elk Grove, and Forest View varsity cross-country teams all battle today to stay undefeated in dual meet competition.

Forast Viaw, with wins over Holy Cross and West Leyden, visits Prospect, which lost its opening dual meet to Maine South yesterday.

Elk Grove, victors over Addison Trail and Fenton, travels to Wheeling, which has lost to Highland Park and Deerfield and finished second twice in two three-team meets.

Arlington, winners against Maine East and Evanston, hosts Conant.

Injuries may help the undefeated stay that way.

Prospect's Steve Holmes, who fell near the finish of yesterday's meet with Maine South, may have injured his knee, according to his coach, Joe Wanner.

Wheeling Coach Ken Carter says his team's best runner, Phil Smith, who flu eliminated from the Highland Park and Deerfield meets, will run today, but is still feeling the effects of the illness.

Arlington Coach Bruce Samoore, Forest View Coach John Heenan, and Elk Grova's John Rees all said Thursday that their squads should be at full strength today.

Arlington's varsity outclassed Forest View, Prospect, and Wheeling in placing second to New Trier at last week's Maine West center meet. Six Cardinals finished ahead of Prospect's Joe Wilcox, whose 29th was the best the other three schools could muster. Elk Grove didn't run.

In the overall standings--which included varsity "B", sophomore, and freshman teams--Prospect was fifth, Arlington seventh, Wheeling tied for 11th, and Forest View 20th.

'New' Wildcats to Host Fremd in League Opener

Wheeling High will throw a modifiad version of its Wildcats against Framd tomorrow night in tha first Mid-Suburban League contest for each team.

Kickoff time will be 6 p.m. for the junior varsity preliminary.

Coach Bill Daletski called for a complete re-evaluation of his personnel after last Friday's 44-0 loss to Maine South. A modified lineup was the result.

On offense, the Cats will start with Marty Crain and Dava Powell at the ends, Mike Stock and Dave Kirchenberg at the tackles, Ed Pecora and Ron Goffman at tha guards and Scott Sward at center.

The backfield has undergone extensive changes. Jack Bastable has been handed tha reins at quarterback. Tom Russell replaces Coe Myer at laft half while Keith Vaskovski is at left half. Jerry Westhouse takes over for Pat McGuire at fullback.

"The rest of those guys will see action," said Dalatski, "but we're going to start with a changed line up.

On defense, Bastable has been moved from linebacker to halfback. A number of players ara vying for the other deep back slots. Meyer and Bill Schaeffer are the leading candidatas for the other halfback position. Safety will be playad by either John Haas, Louis Thomas or Laird Luoma.

Bastable was injured during early practice sessions, but tried his hand a quarterback for a while last week-end.

"He has real good reaction time," Daletski said. "I think we'll be a lot stronger with him at halfback on defense."

Fremd comes into the game off a 26-0 thrashing by Rockford Boylan last week.

Quarterback Dan Spence is the top Fremd threat.

"He was our leading ground gainer last week," said Coach Dick Gavigan. "Halfback Jaff Hodge looked good as a receiver and Kevin Frund, another halfback, ran real well."

Spence is most effective on the ground. He hit on seven passes last week, but also threw three which were intercepted. He likes to roll out on option plays.

"We're not real big," said Gavigan. "We only avaraga about 180 in the line and our speed is average."

Leading linemen for Fremd are end Dick Strauss and offensive tackle Greg Hoover.

"We expect them to pass against us," Daletski said. "We know what to expect and I think we'll be ready."

"Our defense has been looking better. We've improved in practice this week, at least in the lina and at linebacker. We axpect to he strong there. But after you take a 44-0 licking, no matter how good the other team was, there ara a lot of doubts cast on the personnel you have. So I think it's only realistic to take a new look at your players and to make the changes where they're needed."

Friend Says Portrait Looks Like 'Zombie'

A disgruntled young lady phoned the Day Thursday to complain that the Athlete of the Week portrait honoring St. Viator quarterback Dennis Palubicki "makes him look more like Zombie of the Week."

Identifying herself only as "his girl friand," and punctuating the conversation with gasps of frustration, sha added that Palubicki "doesn't look anything like" the drawing.

"You should do something, have them correct the picture," she said.

"And ha doesn't have a double chin, either," she brooded, saying good-bye.

NU Baseball

Junior catcher Jim Henderson of Phoenix, Ariz., led tha 1967 Northwestern baseball team in hitting with an average of .287. Sophomore pitcher Dick Nolfke, Loves Park, led in earned run average, 1.89.

Improved Travelers to Test Sheboygan Redwings on Road

BY JIM MASEK

The Northwest Travelers will take their blitzkrieg attack to Wisconsin tomorrow night for a duel with Central States Football League foe Sheboygan.

The game will broadcast over Radio Station WNWC, beginning with a pre-game show at 8 p.m.

The Travelers will have their high-powered aerial attack in gear, but may have to do without flanker Jim Vertovec. Vertovec missed last week's game against Delavan, Wisc., because of a pulled thigh muscle and may have to sit out another.

HIS LOSS PUTS a dent in an otherwise flawless receiver corps. John McGuire will be back at tight end for his second week of play with the Northwesterners Norm Nissen will do his usual squirming through the enemy's defensive secondary in pursuit of Fred Custardo tosses.

McGuire got in only one practice session after joining the squad before last week's game, but the 6-5, 230 pound receiver stole the show anyway. He caught 10 passes for 234 yards and three touchdowns, as the Northwesterners flattened Delavan 57-0.

Although McGuire hadn't worked with the team often, ha and Custardo weran't strangers. Both had played on the taxi squad of the Chicago Bears and had worked out together at tha Chicago Armory last winter.

"Custardo knows his moves," said Haad Coach George Kulton, "and when Freddy calls a pass pattern, Big John can run it."

"Wa have three receivers as good as thare are in tha league," Kulton said. "Norman Nissen, our split end, is second in the league in receptions."

THE TRAVELERS have no worrias about their airborne game. Only the infantry poses problems, but that's looking up too.

"Our running hasn't been tha best," Kulton admitted, "but we've had a lot of runners smashed up. We had to play quarterbacks at halfback and at fullback. Our regulars are back, but not in top form."

Bob Beshk certainly was in evidence against Delavan last week as he averaged 8.0 yards per carry. Jerry Burkhalter, a 195-pounder from Eastern Illinois University will play but "sparingly", according to the coach. Burkhaltar has been bothered by a sore elbow.

"We still hope to add to our running game," Fulton said. "We don't have what you could call a gamebreaking back. Beshk and Burkhalter are strong runners. If the hole is there, they can gat the yardaga, but thay aren't likely to go all the way. Wa still need a shifty, fast back."

KULTON SAID that he was considering a couple of players with good deep speed and may be able to add one to the team within the next week.

Meanwhile, the Travelers will have to rely on the arm of Custardo, the hands of McGuire and Nissen and the power running of Beshk and Burkhalter.

Sheboygan got off to a slow start this season, but has been gaining steam lately. Early in the season, the Redwings were without a coach, but Art Hagge stepped in to fill that role. Haegge also quarterbacks Sheboygan.

"They're always tough on their own field," Kulton said. "They've been scoring well against the otber teams they've played."

The Wings have run up a 1-3 record in regular season play of the Central States League. The Northwesterners are 1-3-1.

Kulton has added to his defense in recent weeks, signing Neal Anderson, an all-league middle linebacker with the Chicago Panthers, and Joe Wolfe, a defensive end who spent his undergraduate days playing on the same team with Anderson at the University of Illinois.

"WOLFE IS tough," the coach said. "He'll be in there a lot this week."

The big end was used in spots against Delavan.

"If we could have had the players at tha beginning of the year that wa hava now, said the coach, "our record now would be much better. As it is, we have a real job on our hands. We're not giving up on a league championship, but Lake County has a big jump on us."

Lake County is 3-0-2 on the year. The two teams will meet once more this year, on Oct. 7.

Lions, Argo Pit Pass vs. Power

St. Viator's Lions are digging in for an invasion Saturday by Illini Eight conference power Argo and its one-man landing force, Chuck Richardson.

Lion Coach Joe Gliwa calls Richardson, a 195-pound junior who reeled off 73 yards in 11 carries last year as Argo shutout St. Viator 16-0, "the key to their attack."

Ha said Thursday that Richardson, who was at fullback last week when Argo beat Richwoods (Peoria), has been switched to halfback for this week's contest.

But, he added, "that doesn't make any difference--this kid can run."

Gliwa predicted Argo would be "a little more aggressive" than Glenbrook South, 12-7 losers to the Lions in last week's opener. And he said that his quarterback, Dennis Palubicki, who passed for 180 yaars on nina completions in 16 tries last week, "may be throwing a littla more" Saturday.

The St. Viator injury list is limited to halfback John Wendell, whosa bruised ankle, Gliwa said, makas him a "doubtful starter."

Falcons to Battle Grens In Mid-Suburban Opener

Footbali fans with a passing fancy will most likely be able to indulge it at Saturday's Elk Grove-Forest View game.

Against Addison Trail last week, Elk Grove threw 30 passas, 27 of tham by quarterback Larry Pahl, who completed 13 for 149 yards to lead the Granadiers to a 14-13 win that laft them the Mid-Suburban Conference's only undefeated team for the infant 1967 season.

GREN COACH Dick Mudga said Thursday that there's littla chance his team will retreat into the gridiron womb in the league opener at Forest View Saturday and limit its offanse to lina plunges.

Mudge said Elk Grove's running game is improved and his game plan for Addison Trail called for more ground action than circumstances allowed.

But, he added, "our passing has always been strong, and while it's going good, we'll continue to use it until it's stopped."

FOREST VIEW coach Bob Scott admitted he has prepared his team this week for a passing blitz. But he added that his Falcons "will be doing some throwing, too, "pointing out that 114 of the 117 net yards Forest View made in losing 14-0 to Dearfiald last week cama through the air.

Unfortunately for Scott, the quarterback who passed for all that yardage, senior Mike Otto, will miss the Elk Grove game because of an injury he incurred against Deerfield. John Callagirone, a juoior who started the opener but gave way to Otto in the first quarter, will be at quarterback Saturday, Scott said.

End Bob Savage will take over Otto's punting duties, but he would hava dooe that anyway, the Falcon coach added. Otto managed only a 29 yard average on five punts against Deerfield.

Starting guard Chuck Smith will also ba among tha unavailable Saturday, and Scott has slated Bill Stark to fill his spot.

ONE OF THE cogs from the Grens' offensive machine will have to be replaced, too. End Gleo Debarga, who caught five of Pahl's passes against Addison, tore some hand ligaments doing it.

Mudge said he would use sophomore Ron Fink at slotback, and move last week's slotback, Tom Pomey, up to end to fill the gap.

Pomey is the younger brother of Goarge Pomay, who was a defensive halfback and an all-stata baskatball forward at Prospect before playing guard with the Cazzia Russell era Uoivarsity of Michigan baskatball teams. The elder Pomey is now the Wolverines' freshman basketball coach.

Grid Consensus

ARLINGTON 26--PROSPECT 7

The Cardinals ara back in form again after having several key playars slowed by flu. They look burning mad after last week's loss to Barrington and could make this one a runaway. Prospect just has too many questions. The offensive line is yet to prova itself. Passing and running could be problems too.

FOREST VIEW 14--ELK GROVE 7

The Falcons are hurting because of the loss of quarterback Mike Otto, but still should have enough to handla the Grenadiars. It won't be one-sidded, though. The Grens have improved their ground game and ara healthy. The Forest View defense should swing the game to Coack Bob Scott's crew.

WHEELING 20--FREMD 7

Coach Bill Daletski's overhaul of the Wildcats should pay big dividends this week. Defense has always been a strong point of Dalatski's teams and has to do better than the 44 points it allowed against Maine South. The move of Jack Bastabla to quarterback and safety will help. Fremd's offense hasn't found the tracks yet.

ARGO 21--ST. VIATOR 14

An explosive offense like the Lions always complicates things. This ona very well could be turned around if Dennis Palubicki has a good night. Argo has cruching power up the middle. Unless St. Viator can stop the big backs who will be coming its way, the Argonauts will have a narrow win.

Knights Fall To Maine South

A soggy course proved to be the undoing of Prospect High's varsity harriers yesterday as they fell to Maine South 21-34.

Steve Holmes slipped and fall on a wet hill with 300 yards to go and dropped back from second place to twelfth.

"IF HOLMES had taken second, we still wouldn't have won the meet, but it would have beeo a lot closer," said Knight Coach Joe Wanner. "We were leading at the time and his falliog sort of bothered the rest of our guys, so maybe we might aven have won."

As it was, Joe Wilcoa was first ioto the chute for Prospect in 10:21, good for a fourth in the meet.

Bruce Oswald finished sixth, Owen McBride seventh, Keith Baker eighth and Bill Treece ninth.

Holmes lost just 20 seconds by falling.

"He injured his knee a little," said Wanner, "and he couldn't get his stride back. It took a lot out of him."

It just wasn't Prospect's day. The frosh-soph also lost, but by just one point, 27-28.

Knights finished one-two in the meet, but Maine then paraded four men across the finish line before Prospect replied. Pete Dumke was first at 10:51, followed by Tom Klinker.

ALAN MORRISON was seventh for the Knights, Bob Pmrenka eighth and Bill Allen tenth.

The race turned on the performance of the ninth and tanth place ruonars. Allan finished in 11:26, just a second behind a Maine harrier.

The only relief for the Knights was provided by the freshmen who romped 15-50. Prospect runners occupied the first nine places.
